SCHOOL DISTRICT MERGER STUDIED

LEGACY OF class of '60 to Arlington high school is inspected by Officer Harold Best at police station. Police officers are being plagued by pranksters just out of school for summer.

Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

Some southside residents in Arlington Heights do not enjoy being awakened at 7 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday by the carillon bells in the belfry of Our Lady of the Wayside.

Complaints of late risers have been numerous, but the bells will continue to ring.

At least there can be no more excuses for failing to keep an early golf date on Saturday or attendance at early church services on Sunday.

Census reports tell us that with increased suburban population there will be a change in legislative districts by 1965. Country towns will take away a few more legislators from Chicago.

With the population of the sixth legislative district at a new high, northwest townships inevitably will have increased representation in the state legislature.

This means that Democrats have five years to capture the country towns, and Republicans have five years in which to protect and strengthen their political position.

Responsibility for what will happen will rest with the "young blood" of both parties.

This newspaper predicted two years ago what would happen at the railroad intersection of route 53 and Northwest highway.

It will be only a few weeks before our prediction comes true . . . traffic jams and lanes of backups of Northwest highway traffic, which now has exclusive right of way at that intersection.

A traffic light soon will give route 53 traffic some rights at that intersection.

Here's another prediction . . . the time will come when the Palatine highway business district will be saying "get those through highways away from our front door."

We have not unraveled in our minds the real effect on home rule that the recently-adopted county zoning ordinance will have on municipalities, but we know that residents in unincorporated areas have future worries in store for them.

As we see it, owners of land in such areas who desire to protect their properties could follow the example of Arlington Crest, which secured the approval of the County court for annexation proceedings that will extend the east boundary of Palatine to Wilke road.

If annexation is successful, its residents need no longer fear zoning actions by the county.

Has TV payola ended? There was doubt in our mind when a seedily-attired man won $10,000 on a program Saturday night. However, the announcer seemed a little shocked when the man gave the right answer. So, perhaps we are wrong.

Present political interests of the two parties in Palatine township is evidenced by the judicial election June 6.

Democrats polled 59 straight votes, Republicans 18 — and Palatine is considered a Republican township.

Three Boards Eye Proposal

by WILLIAM L. DULANEY

The future education of Arlington Heights youngsters, and that of many other students who will one day live in the village, is currently being considered by the school boards of districts 25 (Arlington Heights), 24 (Wilson), and 56 (Forest View).

Both district 56, to the south of the village, and 24, which includes a portion of northwest Arlington Heights, have recently gone on record as desiring annexation to district 25.

District 24 has 445 pupils, two-thirds of whom live in Arlington Heights in Hasbrook and Virginia Terrace subdivisions. These students attend grades one through eight at Wilson school on Palatine rd.

District 56's 140 pupils excepting eighth graders, attend Forest View school on S. State rd. None of the district is in Arlington Heights, but half of it is in an area the village eventually envisions incorporating, with the Tollroad as a southern boundary.

THE SMALL size of districts 24 and 56 limits their educational programs.

Advantages of annexation to 25 by these districts are obvious.

Some are:

—expanded curriculums that would include music, art, and foreign language instruction.

—use of guidance counselors and a curriculum advisor.

—cheaper economic maintenance.

—better access to teacher supply.

IN THE case of Wilson school, students would have a public kindergarten. It's now a private venture.

Forest View pupils would be able to attend eighth grade in the district instead of paying tuition to attend Higgins school in Elk Grove district 59, as is now the case.

District 25 schools enjoy all of these advantages.

How would annexation of the two districts affect district 25 and the community?

On the positive side, it would be in the community's interest to deal with one school district instead of three.

All residents of the community would enjoy the same quality of education. This would make the high school's job easier.

THERE has been no study of how taxes would be affected. Looking to the future, however, the village's master plan envisions industry between Algonquin rd. and the Tollroad in district 56. This would no doubt ease the tax burden.

On the other hand, should the annexed districts experience a rash of low-income subdivisions, the tax burden would likely be increased.

There appears no fear on the part of district 25's administration that the quality of education would be lowered.

The majority of district 25's board appears to feel that annexation of the two districts is desirable. There is, however, some question as to when and how it should be effected.

DISTRICT 24's board is awaiting a reply to a letter mailed to district 25 this month in which it is noted district 24's board is unanimously in favor of annexation. The letter suggests three alternatives to effect annexation:

1. Annexation by mutual agreement of both boards of education, to be effective as soon as the County Board of School Trustees can affirm the annexation.

2. Annexation to be initiated by petition signed by two-thirds of the voters of district 24, effective date of annexation to be determined by the time petition is complete.

3. Annexation by mutual agreement of both boards of education, to be effective July, 1961.

THE SECOND alternative—petition by two-thirds of a district's voters is the method that has been suggested to district 56 by district 25.

District 56, which has been discussing annexation for four years, is studying a letter from district 25 in which school board members turned down a district 56 proposal to submit a joint petition to the County Board of Trustees.

In the letter, district 25's board notes it has "no sampling of public opinion regarding the annexation."

In suggesting that district 24 submit a petition from two-thirds of its voters, the letter said that "the position of the board of district 25 at the hearing would depend, in general, upon the reactions expressed by people in this community."

Public hearings are required on all annexation petitions before the County Board of School Trustees. The Board's decision is based on the "educational interest" of the children involved.

It's Summertime . . .

Youths Keep Police Busy

"What's new?"

"School's out, that's what," was the prompt reply this week at Arlington Heights police headquarters where officers are being run ragged by the annual advent of pranks and vandalism by youngsters free for the summer.

"You'd think it was Halloween the way they're carrying on," bemoaned one patrolman, as he pointed to a robin's egg blue water closet lodged in a corner of the station.

The "convenience" was removed from the steps of the Arlington high school gym last week by police after a complaint by Principal Eugene Oliver. The object had been cemented to the steps.

THE OWNER was plainly identified in red paint as "the class of '60."

Perhaps warming up for their senior year, four young boys were caught rolling the cannon away from the American Legion hall at Miner st. and Douglas st.

A short while later three boys were spotted rolling a badminton standard into the street at South and Mitchell streets.

Next complaint came from a woman who said that boys were playing baseball in the street and bouncing the ball off her husband's car.

THEN there was a report that youngsters were exploding firecrackers on S. Ridge.

More serious complaints have been registered over acts of vandalism to homes under construction, particularly broken windows.

Over the weekend, Carroll-McHugh builders reported 10 windows in homes on Highland and Olive had been the targets of B-B shot. A large rock was hurled through a picture window.

Study Is Authorized For Ice Skating Rink

A feasibility study of an artificial ice skating rink for Arlington Heights has been authorized by the park board.

Retained at $7.50 an hour, the park planning firm of McFadzean, Everly and associates is scheduled to begin the study this week.

The report will tell park board members the most desirable site for a rink; analyze the possible income from the project; estimate operating costs; determine the need for an artificial rink, and answer any other questions the board might have.

Scheduled for completion in early August, the study will take a maximum of 100 hours. It will likely take much less than that, notes Tom Thornton, park director, because much of the needed information is available in the village's master plan. Thornton estimates the cost of the study at around $400.

IF THE BOARD decides to go ahead with the project, the cost of the feasibility study will be credited toward the architectural and engineering fee for the rink.

The increasing popularity of ice skating in Arlington Heights and the limited number of skating days prompted park board members to begin studying the project last winter.

An artifical rink would guarantee at least five months of skating a year. There were less than 20 skating days last season.

Cost estimates of a 100' X 200' rink with shelter, lights, and fencing range up to $200,000.

THE RINK, A concrete slab in which refrigeration pipes are imbedded, would allow ice skating from November through March, and longer if a roof were erected over the outdoor rink, notes Thornton.

Thornton also notes the slab could be used for roller skating, tennis, dancing, and many other sports and games in the off-season.

Should the feasibility study recommend construction of the rink, financing is another problem that will confront the park board.

STATE STATUTES don't allow the financing of a rink through revenue bonds. This leaves general obligation bonds as the only means of paying for the project.

Other communities have financed a rink through general obligation bonds, but have retired the bonds and interest rate through rink revenues. This resulted in no tax increase for park district residents.

Found Guilty

Mrs. Janet Finnerty, 518 N. Eastwood, Mt. Prospect, was found guilty last Saturday by Police Magistrate Ralph Gould for failure to yield the right of way. The car she was driving on June 5 struck a bicycle ridden by Timothy T. O'Connell, 5, of 413 Prospect Manor, at the intersection of Eastwood ave. and Gregory st. Her fine was suspended by Gould.

Annexation Of Crest Is To Be Voted

Residents of Arlington Crest met Wednesday night to set the date for a special election authorizing annexation to the village of Palatine.

The action followed approval last week of an annexation petition by the County court. Two parcels of land on Wilke rd., already in Arlington Heights, adjacent to the Crest, were excluded from the petition.

The Crest election, giving final citizen approval to the action, will be within 30 days. The land is a 45-acre parcel two blocks wide and a half mile long located west of Wilke rd. and north of Northwest highway. If annexation is approved, the village boundaries of Palatine and Arlington Heights would meet.

State VFW Honors Arlington Leader

An Arlington Heights man has been chosen as "District Commander of the Year" by the Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The selection of John C. Heidemann, 1017 N. Stratford rd., for the honor was announced this week by State Commander Robert L. Hayes of Wilmington, who noted that Heidemann, commander of the fourth district, was in competition with commanders of 15 Illinois districts.

COMMANDER Hayes said that Heidemann, "through well planned organization, coordination, and truly dedicated follow-through," has achieved:

—100 per cent in membership.

—100 per cent in community services.

—100 per cent in post inspections.

—100 per cent in post participation in 1960 Buddy Poppy sales.

—exceptional marks in other VFW activities.

Heidemann will receive special recognition at the 41st annual state convention of the VFW in Peoria, June 10, 11, and 12. He is a marine veteran of World War II and the Korean campaign.

For Apartment Project

Split Village Board Takes Rezoning Step

A split village board took the first step this week in clearing the way for one of the largest apartment projects ever planned for Arlington Heights—but only after bitter argument between Mayor Edward Carlisle and Trustee William Sauer.

The fireworks between Carlisle and Sauer were ignited during consideration of a zoning board of appeals and plan commission recommendation to rezone from M-1 (limited manufacturing) to R-6 (multi-family) the seven acres at Ridge and Miner streets, across from the municipal garage and adjacent to the railroad tracks. A $1.75 million apartment project of 144 units is planned for the area.

Sauer heatedly argued that trustees were being threatened with a cement mixing operation for the site if they did not approve the apartment project.

IN SEEKING rezoning of the property, owned by the Klehm family, Carl Klehm noted at a March meeting of the plan commission that a material service company had made an offer for the land.

"To me this is coercion. I don't like being given an alternative. I want to make certain that no action taken here tonight is because of a threat, but that it is in the best interest of the village," said Sauer.

Though both the zoning board of appeals and plan commission recommended that the multi-family rezoning be granted, Sauer said he was afraid they might have been influenced by the threat of a material services plant for the location.

After arguing in vain that the trustees had not had time to study the recommendation of the zoning board of appeals and plan commission, made last week, and that the matter shouldn't be considered until a later board meeting, Sauer appeared ready to bow to the majority.

MAYOR CARLISLE interjected, however, that "It all boils down to whether you want a concrete plant or apartment out there."

That did it for Sauer. "Just a minute, Mr. President. Are you trying to tell me I have a choice of a concrete plant or apartment!" exclaimed an obviously angry Sauer.

After further arguing, trustees authorized the village attorney to draw up an ordinance for the rezoning, with Trustees Sauer and Eugene Schlickman voting "no."

Schlickman had earlier argued that the item was not on the agenda and should not be treated differently than other zoning matters coming before the board. He noted he had not received a copy of the zoning board of appeals recommendation.

THERE WERE no objectors to the rezoning proposal at last week's joint meeting of the zoning board of appeals and plan commission.

Trustee Robert Bukowski argued that regardless of whether there had been an attempt to coerce the board, he did not feel he was pressured into approving the rezoning.

"I think our consideration should be whether we want industry or apartments in the middle of town, and not with any attempt to pressure us," said Bukowski.

The rezoning will not take place until an ordinance is approved by the trustees. Such ordinance is scheduled to be considered by trustees at the next board meeting, Monday, June 20. (AF

Railway Park Zoning Hearing Set June 29

The first hearing to rezone use of the Chicago and North Western railway parks in downtown Arlington Heights for commercial purposes is scheduled for Wednesday, June 29 at 8 p.m. in the village hall.

Standard Oil company will petition before the zoning board of appeals to have the plot on the southwest corner of Vail st. and Northwest hwy. rezoned to permit erection of a gasoline service station.

The oil company obtained a lease on the parcel last year after village voters rejected a $375,000 bond issue to purchase the eight railway parks.

THE FIRM admitted plans for its proposed service station to the village last year, but no official action was ever taken by the village board.

Since that time a group of southside business property owners has submitted a plan to village board members that calls for the village to either lease or purchase the four parcels on the north side of the tracks for parking, including the parcel under lease by Standard Oil.

Kendall Cady, vice-president in charge of real estate for the railway, said this week that aside from the Standard Oil parcel the remaining parcels are not for sale or lease.

"We'll wait awhile longer for the village and businessmen to get together on their plans for the downtown area, but not much longer," emphasized Cady.

HE NOTED the railway has had several offers for the parks, and that he had written Arlington Heights village attorney asking what the village intends to do.

A partial answer to Cady's question is contained in the village's revised budget, scheduled for a public hearing next week.

The document allots $54,000 for the purchase by the village of the westernmost railway park on the south side of the tracks.

The businessmen's plan for renovation of the downtown area envisions the village's combining this parcel with the present village hall site for commercial development.

North Western Road Details Huge Losses

Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the Chicago and Noth Western Railway company, last week told a Senate sub-committee that in the 13 years from 1947 through 1959 the cumulative losses from passenger train operations on the North Western totaled the "fantastic amount of $287,000,000."

Heineman made the statement while testifying in opposition to Senate bill 3020 which is designed to make more difficult the discontinuance of passenger trains by the railroads.

The bill is strongly supported by railroad labor unions. Heineman testified before the Surface Transportation subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

The North Western's chairman said that while the railroad's passenger trains piled up a $287,000,000 cumulative loss, its cumulative net income for the same period amounted to only $21,800,000 while both its net working capital and its cash and U. S. Treasury securities declined sharply.

"These figures are indeed worth pondering," he said, "because they raise many questions that this committee must take into account in considering Senate bill 3020." Among the questions he posed were:

"What freight rate reductions could the North Western (and other railroads) have made or, put differently, what freight rate increases could the North Western (and other railroads) have avoided were it not for these deficits?"

"WHAT ADDITIONAL capital improvements, including new freight cars, could have been made by the North Western (and other railroads) for the purpose of providing needed service and improving its efficiency and competitive position had it not been for this vast deficit?"

"How many productive jobs would have been created by the installation of the capital improvements made possible by the elimination of this passenger deficit, by the additional maintenance that we could and would have done, and by the carrying of more freight attracted by the lower rates that would have been possible?"

"Is it equitable not merely to subsidize the North Western's truck, water and air competition through huge grants by federal and local governments but, on top of that, to require the North Western to bear the burden of these vast passenger deficits which are not required of our freight competitors?"

HEINEMAN said the public interest is adversly affected when a railroad is compelled to operate trains at heavy losses.

"Only a handful of people are affected by our taking off unneeded through passenger trains," he said, pointing out that of the 1,405 communities served by the 9,280 miles of North Western's railroad, there is passenger service on only 2,589 miles of road serving only 222 or 16 per cent of the communities.

"Again I ask you with specific reference to the North Western, who is really the public, and who is really paying for the North Western's passenger deficit in the form of high rates, poorer railroad rights of way and equipment and fewer freight cars at a higher cost? The question answers itself.

"The public relying on and using our entire system is being heavily penalized by the passenger deficit incurred for the very few."

Heineman pointed out that passenger trains which the North Western has discontinued in recent years have averaged less than a busload of passengers per train. In other words, he said, by the time the railroad management seeks to take off a train, the public has already deserted it.

"IT IS THE policy of the management of the North Western," he said, "to eliminate as promptly as possible those through passenger trains that our experience and judgement convince us have no future and which are casting their intolerable burden upon the balance of our passenger service and upon our freight service.

"Our policy is to run fewer passenger trains but to run those that are retained as fine modern trains at reasonable rates and serving reasonably priced meals."

Heineman said his railroad is completely revitalizing and rebuilding its suburban service, now Chicago's largest. He pointed out the railroad has invested $40,000,000 in its suburban service in the past five years and that within the forthcoming year all conventional suburban cars will have been replaced by modern double - deck air-conditioned suburban cars. New Randhurst Council PTA Board Plans Meetings

The executive board of the new Randhurst council of the Parent-Teacher association met at the Mt. Prospect home of the president, Mrs. C. L. Rezner, last Monday evening.

Three meetings are planned for the new council for the coming school year, and it is hoped that many members of the local PTA units belonging to the council will avail themselves of the opportunity of attending these meetings.

THE FIRST meeting will be an evening meeting conducted by Mrs. R. B. Yadon, legislation chairman for Randhurst council. The meeting will be of interest to everyone, but will be of particular interest to those PTA members working in safety, mental health, school education, school finance, and legislation. This meeting is planned for 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 2, 1960.

The other two meetings will be all day meetings with registration at 9:30 a.m. and the meetings starting at 10 a.m. The first of these all day meetings will be held Wednesday, May 24, 1961. It will be the annual workshop meeting. Questions and answers will be the order of the day or evening at all three meetings.

MRS. REZNER reported on a meeting attended by her and the other three officers: Mrs. Arnold Rohner, vice president; Mrs. R. C. Becker, secretary; and Mrs. Edward Buttner, treasurer. This meeting was held June 3 at the Devonshire field house, Skokie, and was conducted by Mrs. J. Earl Duckworth, state council advisor. Mrs. Duckworth told officers of various PTA councils assembled at the meeting that PTA councils need to work for two things, the welfare of children and the education of adults. It is the job of the council to inspire and instruct their local PTA units in such a way that these goals will be achieved. (B9

Earns Ph.D. For Study On Paddock

Jerrold L. Werthimer received the Doctor of Philosophy degree from Northwestern university at the June 13 commencement exercises.

Dr. Werthimer's Ph.D. was conferred in journalism. His thesis was entitled: "The Community Press of Suburbia: A Case Study of Paddock Newspapers." His study involved a year's research into the operation and policies of Paddock Publications' 13 suburban newspapers and the recent development of suburban journalism.

FORMERLY a member of the faculty at Northwestern's Medill School of Journalism, Dr. Werthimer has a wide background as working journalist and teacher. A veteran of the Navy, he is married and the father of two children. They now live in Skokie.

In September, he will assume the chairmanship of the journalism department at San Francisco State college in San Francisco, Calif. He earned his B. S. degree in 1947 and his M.S.J. degree in 1951, both from Northwestern university. (B8

Tree Ruling Spurs Suit By Builder

An Arlington Heights ordinance that requires the planting of a tree at least two inches in diameter in front of every new subdivision house has involved the village in a $22,977 law suit.

The village claims that Brickman Home Builders has not complied with the ordinance and is thus holding up the builder's performance bond.

JUDGE Hardin Hanks, sitting in Superior court, has given the builder, who developed Brickman Arlington Acres, until June 17 to file a bill of particulars detailing its claim against the village. The village has 15 days thereafter in which to file an answer.

The subdivision in question has 99 homes. (AF

Village Is Sued On Easement Issue

A lawsuit filed against Barrington in Circuit court of Cook county Monday seeks an order commanding the village to rip up storm sewers and manholes and reconstruct them in accordance with provisions of an easement agreement.

The easement was granted by Kerrigan Lewis Manufacturing company, of Chicago, owner of the property on the north side of James street opposite Ela street near the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern railroad in Barrington.

IT GRANTED the village, for free, a 5-foot wide easement along the property for a sewer line to serve Ela street apartments south of the company's real estate.

The suit charges that Consoer, Townsend & Associates, engineers on the project, "knowingly and wilfully" directed the storm sewer to be constructed in a manner directly violating terms of the agreement.

The sewer was not constructed along the property line between that of the company's land and that of James Street Building corporation, but was constructed entirely on the easement granted by Kerrigan Lewis company, the suit says.

PORTIONS OF the manholes along the sewer line were bulit beyond the 5-foot easement and trespass upon the company's property, the suit says.

The company has been "irreparably damaged" because it has a right to build five feet from its property line, the suit states.

It adds the storm sewer at no time was necessary for further developments of the company's property but was for the "sole purpose" of enabling the LaSalle National bank, as trustee, to complete the construction of apartments on land south of the Kerrigan Lewis tract.

THE PLAINTIFF will be unable to build on its real estate without incurring the "extraordinary costs" in supporting the sewer during the course of construction, also costs in securing footings below the level of the sewer, the suit says.

The easement agreement provides, among other things, that the village will hold the plaintiff harmless from any and all loss and damage the company may sustain out of the sewer project.

The suit says Kerrigan Lewis has incurred expenses "directly attributable" to the "breach of easement" agreement in an amount of about $2,000, "without taking into consideration the extraordinary costs of construction, which may exceed $5,000."

Christian Science Board Appoints Two Chicagoans

Two Chicagoans, Ralph W. Cessna and Otto G. Ziegenhagen, were today named to the Christian Science Board of Lectureship at the annual meeting of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

Both are authorized Christian Science teachers and practitioners. Their appointments, which will take them throughout the United States and other countries to lecture to public audiences on Christian Science, were announced by the Christian Science Board of Directors.

RALPH CESSNA

OTTO ZIEGENHAGEN

CESSNA WAS born in Battle Creek, Mich. He received his early schooling in the public schools of Albion, Mich., and was a student in Albion college and later in Boston university. During World War II, he was a captain in the United States Army and was panel chairman of the War Labor Board in the Chicago area.

A former newspaperman, Cessna worked on newspapers in Michigan and Florida before joining the Christian Science Monitor in 1929. He entered the public practice of Christian Science in 1947. He became a teacher of Christian Science in 1952. He is a member of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Evanston.

ZIEGENHAGEEN was born in Chicago. He received his education in the public schools of Chicago, business colleges, and the Chicago School of Expression. He served as a Christian Science Wartime Minister from 1944 to 1946.

A former actor on the stage and radio, Ziegenhagen also taught platform art and literary interpretation at one time. He withdrew from these activities in 1942 to enter the full-time practice of Christian Science. He became a teacher of Christian Science in 1955. He is a member of Thirteenth Church of Christ, Scientist, Chicago.

Sees 'Slums, Filth' As Capturing Cities

Thursday, June 16, 1960

Maximum efforts by private enterprise and federal and local governments are needed if this generation is to avoid leaving posterity "an inheritance of slums, filth and increasingly unlivable cities. Urban centers are one of our prime challenges. It will take a generation of hard work to do the job."

Philip M. Klutznik, founder of Park Forest and world-renowned builders of cities, issued that warning last week as he keynoted the 26th annual meeting of the Metropolitan Housing and Planning council at the Sheraton Blackstone hotel. He is a member of the council's board of governors.

"The essence of all this can be simply stated:

1. Our cities are wearing out. They are without adequate municipal resources to reclaim or to renew them.

2. Our cities are losing character and appeal for a variety of people to live in at the very time when the demand for their facilities is growing.

3. The urban center which ends up as the site of office buildings and communications, without people, is a doomed city."

KLUTZNICK cautioned against approaches to the nation's urban problems that do not include federal participation. "The practical effect of trying to materially reduce federal participation is to defeat the program," he said.

As to housing for socially and economically disadvantaged families, most of whom are in income brackets below $6,000 a year, he observed that, "A huge collapse of the industry, through extraordinary overbuilding, would be the only means of even tackling the need through private enterprise."

The housing need, he said, is to meet a national deficit of at least 500,000 housing units a year. He arrived at this by estimating that 2,000,000 new dwellings are needed annually to accommodate the anticipated population growth, contrasted with an apparent production capacity of 1,500,000.

HE SAID the estimated annual deficit of 500,000 is conservative, that the figure may rise as high as 1,100,000, depending on the speed with which population and capacity to build develop.

He aimed some praise and a few barbs at the city's housing and urban improvement efforts. He described as "admirable" the steps that have been taken so far — Lake Meadows and Prairie Shores — in providing dwellings for non-white minorities, but added, "No really significant gesture has been made to the rehousing of even a modicum of the disadvantaged people. Only old and bad housing and more congestion, plus a drib and drab of public housing, presents the hope of these people if we continue as we have. With this program, we seem to alternately play the role of Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde. We breathe life into it and then we torture it; then we trust it and pronounce our love of it. The whole treatment of this area of need is a national disgrace."

A conference on housing for the socially and economically disadvantaged was held under MHPC sponsorship, with financing by Sears Roebuck & Co., in Highland Park last February. It was attended by leading government officials, civic, business and labor experts in the field of housing. Klutznick was chairman of the conference.

AN INTERIM report on the Highland Park sessions, part of a Field Foundation-financed search for new solutions to the problem, was presented to the Council President, John Baird, at the annual meeting by Raymond J. Spaeth, head of an MHPC study and action committee.

Klutznick expressed satisfaction with the fact that a private citizens group had taken initiative in meeting the urban problems of Chicago. He said:

"There are people today who think that tough public problems are best solved behind closed doors by czars and dictators."

HE WARNED the city not to let its zeal for certain public improvements cause damage to overall good planning, and particularly the preservation of open space. He cited the exposition and convention hall, now under construction, as a structure badly needed and certain to give valuable service to the community, but located in such a way as to rob Chicago of a valuable portion of lakefront.

He urged that the same mistake be avoided in the proposed Chicago campus of the University of Illinois, that it be located not in Garfield Park, but south of the Loop on land that could be made available by consolidating railroad terminal facilities.

PUBLIC SERVICE Company's new area headquarters in Mount Prospect is now the base for electric company operations in a northwest suburban area of 146 square miles. An area task force of more than 200 employees will operate out of the newly constructed facility. The building features the newest trends in all-electric comfort conditioning, office lighting and electronic food service facilities.

Public Service Co. Opens New Northwest Area Office

Public Service Company's new northwest area headquarters at Rockwell and Arthur streets, Mt. Prospect, was placed in service Monday, June 13, it was announced by Harold W. Otto, division vice-president of the utility.

The newly constructed facility of the Commonwealth Edison Company division is now the base for electric company operations in a northwest suburban area of 146 square miles. Approximately 60,000 customers and an estimated population of 225,000 are within the area, which includes the communities of Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mt. Prospect, Palatine, Park Ridge, Rolling Meadows and Wheeling.

OTTO SAID a new area task force of over 200 employees has begun operations at the new location. Headed by Wallace B. Behnke, area manager, the group comprises a full complement of operating, construction, customer service, commercial and administrative departments.

In addition to Behnke, the area staff includes Richard J. Seitz, district superintendent; Robert Dix, staff assistant to area manager; Harold E. Giss, supervisor of lard F. Bartlett, are foreman; Alfred M. Gammill, meter supervisor; Richard Benson, engineer; Edward Ankele, trans assistants Lloyd A. Graham, Vernon Royer and Martin Even.

The headquarters has a radio control station for dispatching utility crews assigned to a fleet of 25 line and service trucks.

THE NEW Public Service Company building is a contemporary-styled, 1 - story brick structure of almost 19,000 square feet. Its equipment features the newest trends in all-electric comfort conditioning, office lighting and electronic food service facilities.

One of the building's most unusual features is an employe cafeteria, electronically equipped for "do it yourself" cooking. It will offer a menu of fresh frozen luncheons and sandwiches that can be instantly heated in an electronic oven. High frequency microwaves prepare the food in seconds when cafeteria patrons push a button to activate the oven's cooking process.

The building's demonstration of modern commercial uses of electricity extends to the outside where typical forms of mercury vapor street lights are used to illuminate parking and yard-storage areas.

Ragnar Benson, Inc., was the general contractor in the construction of the utility's new service center. The heat pump was installed by O. A. Wendt, Chicago, and electric work was handled by Crosstown Electric Co., Chicago. Milburn Bros., Mt. Prospect, was the paving contractor.

Q. When introducing one person to a group, are you supposed to introduce him first to the women in the group, then to the men?

A. There are no rules of precedence in this case. Just perform your introductions in the easiest possible way — by introducing the person around the group in order.

Top Rate Children's Production Praised

BY JOE PARNLL

The magic and sparkle of fairy tale took over the school when Village Theatre presented "The Princess and the Swineherd" last Sunday to three seperate audiences of the young set.

In this adaptation by Madge Miller of the original Hans Christian Andersen story, this Arlington Heights theatre group accomplished a most startling feat. For an hour and a half, through three acts and two intermissions, they held an audience, a highly restless age group anchored to their seats.

WHILE NIGHT turned to day and a royal pigpen became a palace behind drawn curtains, a lovely Story Book Lady (Betty Randolph) appeared spotlighted on the stage to teach the delighted children the princess's own song. Of the entire performance this was to me the most intriguing aspect. By this simple act of participation, the youngsters were able to satisfy their need for some activity and yet suffer no interuption of the illusion of the fairy tale.

The two sets, designed by Maurice Geye and Jeanette Jenkens, were provocative in their artistic simplicity which has become a hallmark of this outstanding theatre group. Such details as the patchwork quilt roof of the swineherd's hut and the obviously painted pigs fairly leaping with you out of their pen, sparkled the enchantment of the play and proved again that rich imagination can provide an exciting substitute for elaborateness.

WHILE THERE was no outstanding acting displayed, the cast played well and consistantly—and the play showed the marks of a concern for performing quality which was greatly lacking in their last children's play. There were several scenes played with great vivacity and movement which spoke well for the skill of both actors and director Harriet Smith. But much of the expository material tended to be dull and caused great gaps in the attention of the audience. The ingredient which was most lacking and which might have made for a more vivid performance was deliberate and expressive movement and vocal quality. Too often gestures were small and completed before they could make proper impact on the audience. Words often spoke too quickly and without sufficient color failed to keep the children up with the rapidly moving plot. John Lobenhofer (Nimble), who was as usual a delightful clown, and Jo Duro (Princess Rosalie) especially might have used such broadness and deliberateness in both speech and movement to gain far greater effect than they did.

But weaknessess notwithstanding, all aspects of this production demonstrated considerable progress in this phase of Village Theatre's program. The overall quality bodes well for the development of a fine children's theatre in this area.

"UNCLE MILTIE" is back safe in the arms of his mistress, Sandra Shedden, 16, of 3375 Milwaukee ave., Northbrook, after being missing for six days. Sandra, who has pet skunks, a dog, cat, and is expecting to acquire a raccoon, said she thought the two-year-old monkey climbed too high in a tree and was afraid to come down.

Missing Uncle Miltie Concerns Young Owner

"Uncle Miltie" either got mischievous or misanthropic; anyway he turned up missing.

Whether he just answered his own special "Call of the Wild" or got fed up with people, though, could not be determined. Miltie doesn't talk about it; he just winks and twitches his three-foot tail.

His friend and close companion, Sandra Shedden, 16, of 3375 Milwaukee ave., Northbrook, just north of Wheeling, called District 3 state police when she discovered Uncle Miltie's disappearance.

"Has there been a monkey turned in there," she inquired. innocently.

"Listen lady, there's plenty of monkeys around here," growled back a disgruntled desk sergeant.

MILTIE, Sandra's two-year-old pet monkey, was missing from Saturday, June 4, until last Thursday morning.

Sandy, a student at Glenbrook high school, thinks Miltie climbed a high tree and was afraid to climb down. Peculiarly, Miltie gets "petrified if he gets too high up in a tree," his mistress disclosed.

The Shedden girl's description of the pet to state police was a lengthly chronicle of detail. She told them he weighed nine pounds, had hazel brown eyes, a cavity on the left canine tooth and a patch of hair missing on his back.

THE MISSING hair was due to an allergy test," Sandra said. "It turned out negative." She was disturbed that she might be allergic to one of her pets, of which there are many in the Shedden household.

For instance, there's two pet skunks ("We're expecting babies soon), a Laborador retriever who's just had a litter of pups, and Clifford the cat.

"I'm getting a raccoon in the next couple of days," Sandra enthused.

The pet fancier now suspects her allergy is due to one of those tan-yourself-with-or-without-sun lotions.

Uncle Miltie was found on the sixth day of his disappearance by Sandra's younger sister, Vicky, raiding the dogs' food bowls. "He was just starved," Sandra says. The monkey eats anything humans do, Sandra said, and even delights in chewing gum.

If the animal had any reservations about people before it isn't apparent anymore. He clings to Sandra like lint and starts howling when she gets out of sight.

THE AFRICAN Guenon monkey was acquied by Sandra from the Aux-Plaines River Trail nature center located just west of the Shedden residence on Milwaukee ave.

She said the monkey had become unmanageable, and his previous owners had turned him over to the nature center.

"He's such a good monkey, though," she spoke in his defense. Her father, Alex D. Shedden, is not so sure. The monkey bit Mr. Shedden when he thought some harm might come to his mistress.

"He's a regular little body guard," she noted. Miltie and the cat, Clifford, get along very well together, she added.

SANDRA attracted a good deal of attention last summer when her pet skunk, "Violet," gave birth to nine "little stinkers."

She sold the majority of the litter, and for those who scoff at her preoccupation with pets, she'll tell you: "I made $212 in the sale."

Andersonville Reveals Horrors of Civil War

Attitudes and Habits

The proper time to influence the character of a child is about a hundred years before he is born.—Dean Inge.

MUELLER'S STATIONERY
13 E. Campbell in the Heart of Arlington Heights CL 3-1839
OPEN FRIDAY EVENINGS

by STUART R. PADDOCK, SR.

Our trip through Georgia was more than just sightseeing. It was educational in a historic way. We refer to the stop at Andersonville cemetery.

Years ago Uncle Sam removed all outward evidence of the actual prison. It is now a beautiful resting place for nearly 14,000 of the dead.

The prison was the "death house" during the last year of the Civil War for thousands of Union prisoners between February 1864 and April 1865 when the war ended. One of those who died there was Louis Bergman of Palatine.

His nephew, Dan Bergman, recalls the stories told by his great aunt who was the mother of Louis. She regularly sent packages of food to her son, but few if any of them, reached him.

THE PRISONERS fought over available food. Six of those who had stolen food from other prisoners were tried and hanged. The burial stones for the six are set apart from the graves of the others. Records of the cemetery label them as "six miscreant raiders."

Providence Spring is a mecca for visitors every year. Legend has it that prisoners dug wells, usually unsuccessfully, in various parts of the 27 acres enclosed by the stockade. The prayers of prisoners were suddenly answered one night during a terrific storm when the spring broke forth. The spring is still running today, although visitors are warned not to drink the water.

Illinois is among the states that have erected impressive monuments to the memory of their dead.

AT ONE TIME the commandant of the prison allowed a delegation of the Union prisoners to appeal to General Grant for an exchange. Grant refused, giving as his reason that the released southerners would make Gen. Sherman's invasion of Georgia all the more difficult.

Editors were asked to impress upon readers that Andersonville is a National Cemetery and not a picnic ground. Visitors are welcomed but picnicking is banned.

Literature handed visitors reads in part as follows:

The early history of Andersonville National Cemetery is to a considerable extent the inevitable sequel of the grim events which transpired some 300 yards to the southeast in a stockaded area of 28 acres known variously as the Confederate State Military Prison, Camp Sumter, and more familiarly known as Andersonville Prison.

IN 1863 WHEN the uneasy course of the war and a growing shortage of food supplies in the Virginia area made apparent the necessity for the removal of the great body of Union prisoners of war from the Confederate prison camps near Richmond, Virginia, Brigadier General John H. Winder, Superintendent of Military Prisons for the Confederacy began looking about for a site more distant from the immediate theater of war that could be utilized as a military prison.

There in November, 1863, Confederate soldiers with a labor force of negro slaves requisitioned for the work from plantation owners of the area, began clearing the tall Georgia pines which covered the area about a mile east of the Anderson railroad depot.

THROUGH THE winter of 1863 and 1864 the work continued. The sandy Georgia soil was stripped of its lofty pines which were cut into 20 foot logs. The logs planted five feet in the ground formed an almost impregnable double stockade about the area.

An inner stockade enclosed an area roughly 1540 feet long and 750 feet wide, and was in turn enclosed by another stockade enclosing some 15, later 26 acres. Sentry boxes were placed at intervals along the top of the inner stockade. A deadline 18 feet from the inner stockade walls marked by poles and slats driven into the ground further restricted the inhabitable area of the prison enclosure.

THE FIRST contingent of Union prisoners arrived at Anderson station from Belle Island, Virginia on February 15, 1864. From that time until April 1865 nearly 50,000 men of the forces of the Federal Government were to be confined behind the stout pine walls of the Andersonville prison stockade.

The largest number of prisoners incarcerated at any one time was over 33,000 men. More than 900 prisoners died every month during the thirteen months of the existence of the prison. The greatest death toll on any one day occurred on August 23, 1864 when 97 prisoners died.

Andersonville Prison ceased to exist in April 1865 and the grounds were appropriated by the United States. The stockade was cut down, all buildings removed and the area placed under cultivation for various crops until May, 1890 when it was purchased by the Department of Georgia Grand Army of the Republic for $1,500.

THE AREA purchased consisted of about 71 acres, and included all ground occupied by the prison, the fortifications surrounding it and a right-of-way 100 feet wide leading to the railroad station. In 1896-97 this property was transferred to the Woman's Relief Corps, Auxiliary of the G. A. R., which organization purchased an additional 14.5 acres. In 1910 this organization donated the property now known as Andersonville Prison Park to the United States.

Patriotic Dramatist Performs for Rotary

"Bringing Americanism in a Dramatic Manner to Our Youth" will be the program of Arlington Heights Rotary club this Thursday noon, June 16, when Val Gould of Rolling Meadows is the speaker.

Gould has been teaching and talking Americanism to the youth of the country for seven years as part of Quaker Oats company's public service program of bringing their trademark to life. He is known as "Mr. Quaker" on the banquet circle.

GOULD has years of acting experience behind him, on TV, radio, movies and the stage, including a two year stint in Europe. He gained a wealth of experience in this work, along with enthusiasm that Americanism could be taught the youth of today dramatically and effectively.

"Most headline-makers of today are simply ham actors," states Gould. "Think back to what Hitler accomplished for awhile, what Castro is doing, how Khrushchev stole the show at Paris. I feel the same dramatic effects can be used to sell Americanism for the good of the world, and not have all of the acting on the other side of the ledger."

PROOF of how this idea has been accepted is borne by the success of Gould's speaking schedule, which has included dozens of service clubs, and hundreds of student assemblies throughout the country.

Guests at Thursday's noon luncheon meeting at Gunnell's will be Sue Peters, winner of Rotary's Interlochen music camp scholarship, and Bill Haberichter, winner of Rotary's Tip Top Teen award. (AK

Local Hospital Owns Best Heart Equipment

By TOM McSHANE

Heart disease.

A doctor deftly runs cables from the small box to the patient's chest. Electrodes at the end of the cable are needled into the heart wall or carefully attached to the chest.

Current flows.

The erratic beat steadies. The seemingly dead pump revives.

Or the scalpel flashes, neatly slicing skin and tissue. The chet is laid open and the left hands reach in to massage the vital organ.

A patient that should have died lives. A patient that surely would have died 15 years ago breathes new life.

MODERN HEART surgery is a miracle of sorts; a miracle of research, experimentation, invention.

Ideas and concepts that were new in the 1940's today are accepted practices.

The story of these developments is fantastic.

Seventy-five years ago a person who had a heart attack was beaten across the chest with a cold, wet towel. The treatment generally was unsuccessful.

As late as 1940 doctors were at a loss to assist a patient who suffered an attack on the operating table. Most of them died.

But man's emergence from World War II and entry into the space age has brought with it great discoveries in medical science.

Advancements in electronics and new theories of resuscitation have enabled doctors to provide relief in many cases of heart stoppage that formerly were fatal.

ELECTRONICS research has developed three machines that have become fundamental components of almost every operating room in the country.

Taken together the equipment is called a cardiac monitor-resuscitation unit. It provides a visual screened picture of heart beat and brain waves, much like the electrocardiograph and electroencephalograph. It has an audio switch that will transmit the frequency of heart beats to a listening station.

This machine, used separately, may be installed in a seriously ill person's room, and audibly monitored from a nurse's desk.

Visually, the machine is used during surgery to measure heart beat and brain waves.

THE MONITOR is used primarily as a preventive measure. Its purpose is to detect irregularities before they become serious. Because of its purpose, this component is used more than the other two.

The second part of the unit is called a defibrillator. It is used to stop a dangerous and almost always fatal type of heart rhythm that occurs when circulation stops and the organ quivers unpredictably. If the quiver is discovered in time, the defibrillator can be wired to the patient's heart or chest, and jolt the organ back to normal operation with a charge of electricity.

The third part of the unit is called a pacemaker. This component is particularly effective in treating a patient whose heart has stopped because of an uncommon type of heart block. The machine can send an electrical impulse to the heart which will initiate heart beat.

THE PACEMAKER used in hospitals weighs about 20 pounds. A smaller unit, which can be permanently attached to a person's heart to sustain the beat, weighs about one pound. This unit can be carried like a hearing aid. The effect is a battery-powered heart.

There is a growing controversy within the medical profession between doctors who believe the pacemaker should be used for all types of heart stoppage during surgery and others who believe that massage is the best way to treat the condition in most cases.

The massage technique, used frequently today, was unheard of before the war. Like the electronic devices, it developed and became popular only after long and painstaking research.

One of the anesthesiologists at Northwest Community hospital says that the massage method of resuscitation is the best way to treat most types of stoppage.

SOMETIMES THE attempts are futile, he says, but generally an attempt is made. And a fair percentage of the patients are revived. The percentage usually depends on the stage of disease in the particular person.

The local hospital has had its complete heart unit since it opened. It was donated by the Arlington Heights Womans club and two doctors.

According to the anesthesiologist, the hospital has not had occasion to use the defibrillator or pacemaker. The monitor is used frequently.

All of the equipment, along with the massage technique, is mighty handy to have around. The age of the wet towel beatings is long past.

Artists to Present Art Fair July 8-10

The Rolling Meadows Art Fair, one of the largest sales of this sort held in the northwest suburban area, will be presented this year by the Northwest Art Center July 8, 9 and 10.

THERE WILL be a large display space, on a canopied walk in the beautiful shopping plaza at Kirchoff rd. and Meadow dr. in the heart of Rolling Meadows, for each of the 100 participating artists.

Paintings, jewelry and sculpture will be exhibited from noon until dusk each day. As is the custom at an outdoor art fair, each artist will be responsible for the presentation and care of his own works. The businessmen are making overnight storage facilities available on request.

One of the high points of the fair will be the awarding of cash prizes of $100, $50, $30 and $20 by the business men, to four outstanding works of art as judged by three authorities.

FRANZ SCHULZE is head of the art department of Lake Forest college and Chicago editor of Art News magazine, Harry Bouras is a noted lecturer on art and painter, and Richard Keane is an instructor at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Judging will take place on Saturday afternoon, July 9, and many honorable mentions will be awarded along with the cash prizes.

Of interest to youngsters will be the Children's Corner, directed by Barbara Housekeeper, where they will be aproned and supplied with paper and paint to create their own masterpieces. Many other activities will take place during the three days, with painters and craftsmen demonstrating their skills.

ARTISTS interested in exhibiting should call Mary McDonald, CL 3-5300, for application blanks. Invitation chairman is Dorothy Kruse, 102 Olive st., Palatine. Entries close June 30. Since only 100 spaces are available, early registrations are important.

Dad's Day Is Rooted In Ancient History

Father's Day may be officially 50 years old this week, but tributes to Dad are an ancient tradition.

Probably the oldest is a clay tablet written by Elmesu, a Babylonian, about 2000 years before Christ. It implores the gods to grant his father good health and "enduring days" — wishes which are echoed in a thousand different ways on this year's affectionate Father's Day greeting cards.

On the senetimental side, for example:

You do so very much for others,
In a way that really counts,
And give your time and patience
In such generous amounts,
That on special days like this one,
When we're wishing things for you,
We always wish the very best,
For nothing else would do!

AND FROM AN affectionate to a light-hearted tribute to the family's "forgotten man" comes this one from the same publisher, Rust Craft:

"Happy Father's Day from your favorite Dish . . . Washer!"

Several of the "off-beat" studio type cards depict Dad as he really is:

"To Dad who is always calm, cool and . . . collected from!"

And, "To good ol' Pop . . . Happy Pauper's Day!"

Dad may be King in America (well for one day, anyway) but in some parts of the world, he could stand a little recognition.

ON PALAU ISLAND in the South Seas, for example, the ruling matriarch can have any male executed if he even disturbs her contemplation.

And near Sumatra, Dad has to go live with his wife's family; children take their mother's name — and only daughters inherit property.

In India, Dad's in even worse shape. If he goes into debt, Mother can sell him into slavery to pay off his creditors. And in the African Sudan, Mother may return to her parents after bearing five children — leaving Father to look after the little ones.

Fathers were not always low men on the totem pole, though.

Back in Ancient Greece, an annual festival honored Zeus, father of the gods. Zeus was also patron of human fathers, and dutiful sons gave their Dads the traditional gift — a cluster of ripe grapes.

PROBABLY THE champion father of all time was Emperor Mulai Ismail of Morocco, who died in 1727 at the age of 81, leaving 548 sons and 340 daughters. He had 300 wives and 700 concubines.

The setting apart of a day on which to honor fathers by special services in churches and in other ways, originated inqependently in different parts of the country and in different years. Different days were chosen before there came to be a general agreement on the third Sunday in June.

The credit for making the first suggestion of a Father's Day belongs to Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Washington. The idea came to Mrs. Dodd in 1909 as a suitable tribute to her own father who had successfully reared a family of children after the death of their mother.

MRS. DODD took her plan to a preacher. A resolution was drawn up a year later and on June 10, 1910, the first known Father's Day was observed in Spokane, sponsored by the Spokane Ministerial Association and the Y. M. C. A.

The first observance of truly national proportions was in 1922 on the third Sunday in June. It has continued on that day ever since.

Northwest Arlington

Brownie troop 444 decorated napkins and made tray favors recently for Northwest Community hospital. Last month the troop held a wiener roast in the yard of its leader, Mrs. David Borgardt.

South Arlington

At the last annual PTA meeting, held last month in South Junior high school gym, the girls of troop 189 presented the colors. This is a sixth grade troop with all girls going to South, and it was an honor for the scouts to be asked to present colors at this general meeting as all schools were present.

Last month troop 564 entertained troop 189 at an outdoor game party. Scouts of 564 taught some new games as part of their first class requirements.

EARLIER THIS week troop 189 held its court of awards and invited all mothers to attend. The yearly star was presented to each girl and badges were awarded for hard efforts. A summer program is being planned by this scout troop to work on things relative to the "Great Out-Of-doors". This is a large field and offers many opportunities for the girls if they are interested in nature.

Brownie troop 521, its leaders and committee mothers will go on an outing to Deer Grove tomorrow, thus ending their official year.

Summer day camp session one starts June 21 at Deer Grove. A good time for all brownies, scouts and councilors is expected with a full program of outdoor activities planned for all campers.

MONDAY, JUNE 6, troop 256 toured O'Hare field and celebrated its final meeting of the year by receiving badges and eating in Field's dining room there. The 13 intermediate scouts were accompanied by their leaders, Mrs. Bradle and Mrs. Kleinofen, and their troop committee chairman, Mrs. Hey.

Then the girls received their first class rank: Karen Alkire, Mary Bradle, Barbara Condy, Mary Hess, Nancy Hey, Marsha Hoggay, Michele Hoggay, Jaclyn Kleinofen, Nancy McCarty, and Candy Withey. The troop earned 31 badges since January of 1960, nine world neighbor, four cat and dog, three outdoor cook, four drawing and painting, three musician badge, three interior decorator, one traveler, and one reader.

When the group returned from O'Hare field, members presented their leaders with a gift certificate and appropriate cards expressing appreciation of their help during the year. The leaders thank all the mothers and scouts for their assistance hard work.

South Mt. Prospect

A mothers' cook-out was held by the scouts of troop 42 this month at the home of its leader, Mrs. McLean. A farewell gift was presented to Mrs. Johnson co-leader, who is moving to Wilmette. The scouts were awarded badges and six girls were presented with 5-year pins.

A recent tour of the Pat-Kay Horse farm near Barrington proved a thrilling experience for brownies of troop 709. They observed about 50 race horses, including young colts, and learned much about the nature and training of the animals. The final outing of the troop was a cook-out-their first-at Camp Pine.

MOTHERS OF troop 511 were entertained at a tea last week when the scouts held their last meeting of the year. Each patrol presented a play and second class rank badges were awarded to 21 members. Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, troop chairman, presented leaders, Mrs. Griffin and Mrs. McNeil, with gifts from the their work during the year.

Elk Grove

Brownie troop 78 held its final meeting at Busse Woods with the girls enjoying a cook-out. Mrs. H. D. Devall and Mrs. R. E. Altergott, co-leaders of the troop, express their thanks for the planters given to them by the brownies and their mothers. Mrs. Devall entertained the committee mothers at her home this month.

More than 100 girls sang at the song fest at Busse forest north the first Saturday this month. Mrs. John Herbert led the girls in scouting songs. At this same event, 22 girls of troop 129 of Ridge school became Intermediate Girl Scouts in a fly-up ceremony. Mrs. R. Hanson gave each brownie a pair of wings to be sewn on her Girl Scout uniform, to show she was a brownie scout.

BROWNIES AND Girl Scouts are grateful for the volunteer leadership during the year. Anyone who would like to join scouting activities may call Mrs. A. Dahl, HE 7-0382, for information.

Beth Tikvah Holds First Dance Fete

Members of the Beth Tikvah congregation held their first annual dinner dance Saturday, June 11, at the Palmer House, Chicago. The affair was attended by 162 people. Music was provided by Les Schein and his orchestra. Larry Gray and Kathy Emma were vocalists, and Hy Kipness acted as MC for the evening.

The dance was planned by the congregation's ways and means and book committees: the Jack Matins; Harold Bleckmans, Glen Ellyn; Irving Bentcovers, Seymour Footliks and Allen Grobarts of Hoffman Estates ;Elliott Rosenbergs, Bloomingdale, William Wittens, Wheeling.

Members of this Jewish congregation are representative of 14 different northwest suburban communities. Persons interested in the congregation are invited to contact membership chairman Sam Sakansky, TW 4-6875.

Mrs. Lela Wright

Funeral services for Mrs. Lela E. Wright, 474 N. Quinten rd., Palatine, were held Saturday in Tharp funeral home, Palatine, with Rev. Erickson officiating. Interment was in Memory Gardens.

Mrs. Wright died June 8 in her home and leaves her husband, Dalton; three sons, Robert of Lake Zurich, Howard of Palo, Iowa, and Danforth of Palatine; two brothers, Glenn Mease of Cedar Rapids and Burle Mease of Wauconda; and two granddaughters. (B9

Vacationtime Is Here

Suburban Daddy Faces Challenge of Summer

by DICK HOFFMANN

"We wanta go to the beach, Daddy," the chant continued as the pygmies danced around me engaging each other in a shirt-pulling contest with my shirt.

It was a little like watching aborigines praying for rain during the dawn of creation; as number one household diety, however, I didn't feel quite omnipotent enough to produce a beach.

The nearest one was 10 miles away. Ugh. Driving 10 miles of summer-clogged highways with three Indians of assorted sizes and dispositions was about as appealing as a moonlight swim with a school of sharks.

The tribe had roused me at 7 a.m. on a Saturday morning by surprise attack, drumming me out of bed by raucous war whoops and assorted techniques of torture, e.g., using me as a Trampoline, ball diamond and battlefield.

My wife and I looked at each other over half-raised coffee cups with vacant eyes. But we seemed to be communicating the thought: schools are wonderful institutions; television will never replace them as babysitters.

THERE WERE no playgrounds now to dissipate the pent-up energies nor classrooms to drain the charged batteries.

Summer vacation was here.

"No, we can't go to the beach today," I declared, summoning my most authoritative tone and removing a hand flecked with toast crumbs clutching my pants (Look out, kid, you're soiling the last threads of respectability," I groused to myself).

"I promised your mother I'd mow the lawn." It was like telling Rockefeller he couldn't run for president. The kids started roasting me with a verbal manifesto of their own. Have they been reading that old school book of mine on collective bargaining? I wondered. They talked like labor organizers. Next thing you know they'll be demanding escalator clauses for seconds at the dinner table.

"Sorry," I mumbled, gulping my coffee, "Maybe after I finish with the lawn," and I rose to twist my way out of the snake pit, feeling the sharp daggers of reproach my wife was throwing at being deserted to chaos.

BREATHING IN Carbon monoxide fumes behind the old status symbol, my mind dwelled on how power mowers maim more people than threshing machines ever did. Whew, if this grass had gotten much higher we could have started organizing safaris.

It seemed only yesterday that I'd been reduced to a 97-pound weakling taking down storm windows and putting up screens.

Oops, here comes the Kiowa. Out of the corner of my eye, I saw the squaw giving them instructions.

"Hey, not out here. Let them play on Northwest highway or someplace," I yelled.

"I can't keep them tied up in here all day," the War Department hollered back.

They descended.

After being dogged by questions, tripped, and called upon to exhibit by backfield running prowess with a power mower, I conceded to organized youngsters, incorporated, demands.

"All right go get your stuff. We're going to the beach." The lawn looked like a frayed quilt, having been mowed into criss-crossed confusion. I wonder if the University of Illinois varsity could use that diagram? I mused as I viewed the conditions of surrender.

OH WELL, the beach wasn't as bad as sitting through another Little League game, I comforted myself. The managers of the Sox and Tigers still aren't speaking to each other after that last game, and they're practically neighbors.

"Next time we have to pack like this we're taking an expedition to the rim of the Arctic Sea," I grumbled, settling behind the steering wheel for the trip through Purgatory.

"Oh, you always say that," the other half retorted confidently, shifting to a counterattack with all the wily logic of her kind by demanding to know when she was getting a new swimming suit.

As Joey edged over to give me a hand with the driving, I silently vowed that at the next opportunity I was going to learn how to play golf. (B8

GEORGE HARRIS

Soon the strains of that old familiar song, "Daddy, dear old Daddy, you've been more than a mother to me" will become a reality as Sunday June 19 is Father's Day.

It behooves all of us to remember our parents each day that we are alive, but one day each year these special days come along and that is when we can really go to town. We, at Harris Pharmacy, have many items that will certainly please Dad; and, of course, you can give Dad one of those wonderful Hallmark Cards that express that wonderful sentiment. The point I wish to make is, regardless of whether you purchase a gift from Harris Pharmacy, be sure to remember Dad on Sunday, June 19.

May we wish all you wonderful fathers the best on your day. Say, come to think of it, I'm a father — wonder if Marian will remember — even more important — I wonder if the kids will remember — aw, come on now, somebody please remember Dad!

Q. What can a bridesmaid do when she has been asked to wear (and pay for) a dress whose style and color are definitely unbecoming to her?

A. This is not an unusual situation. But there is nothing the bridesmaid can do about it except to wear it, and later perhaps have it dyed and remodeled. If she consents to serve as a bridesmaid, she must accede to the bride's wishes.

Flood Program for Des Plaines

A seven million dollar flood control program on the Des Plaines river, calling for five rolled earth dams in Lake county, was submitted to the Cook county board Tuesday by president Daniel Ryan.

The dams or reservoir sites would impound heavy rainfall in the middle reaches of the Des Plaines river in Lake county, reducing the flood heights and peak discharges at Des Plaines and Riverside.

The proposed floor-retarding basins would require the acquisition of 5,000 acres of Lake county land at an estimated purchase cost of four million dollars.

Construction of four dams on the Des Plaines river and another on Mill creek, all in Lake county, would cost "no more than" three million dollars.

The program and cost figures are contained in a report of Consoer, Townsend and Associations, Chicago, consulting engineers retained by the county.

"The Des Plaines river in Cook county can handle the flood water from Cook county if the storm waters from Lake county were held back," said Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent of the Cook county forest preserve district.

The Cook county commissioners instructed Ryan to submit the report to the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning commission for a review.

RYAN SAID he's hopeful the study will lead to recommendations for a coordinated operation of several governmental bodies in accomplishing the plan. Ryan said:

"It seems logical that various phases could be undertaken by the Illinois Division of Waterways, the Illinois Department of Conservation, the Lake County Forest Preserve district, and the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago."

The multi-purpose plan would accomplish much for the population of the metropolitan area, Ryan said, for the following reasons:

1. It gives flood control in the Des Plaines river valley in Illinois above Riverside.

IT COMPLIMENTS any flood control work to be proposed in the valley below Riverside. It provides flood control in Lake county in the areas damaged in 1960.

3. It provides essential recreation areas in addition to flood control for the rapidly increasing population of the metropolitan area. These areas will not be available if not acquired soon.

4. It is based on good conservation principles in preserving ground water and providing wild life habitat.

5. It can be accomplished for less money than the opposite and single purpose method of deepening and widening the channel with its resulting destruction of the natural plain.

IT PRESERVES the great natural values of the 30 miles of the Des Plaines river in Cook county largely owned by the Cook county forest preserve district and used annually by millions of citizens.

The engineering report deals principally with the control of flood waters on the Des Plaines river but also gives attention to drainage, low water regulation, recreation, and conservation problems.

The ponds would only slightly exceed the present creek channels for a short distance upstream of the dam then follow the existing channels upstream to the end of still water.

MATERIALS TO be used in the rolled earth fill would be obtained in the immediate vicinity of the dam sites, the report says.

FLOODING OF land and basements would be "greatly reduced," the report continues. But, it adds, complete elimination of basement flooding "is a matter for the individual municipalities and can be realized only by parallel improvements made to the local storm sewer systems, including, in some cases, installation of storm water pumping stations."

Utilizing impoundment reservoirs to hold back flood waters gives "by far the greatest and most permanent benefit" at a cost much below that involved in other types of programs, according to the

It recommends against widening and deepening the river bed. To do this in an area visited by vast numbers of people annually would create a dangerous hazard, the report says, adding:

"It would also tend to produce a nuisance by stagnant, septic waters remaining therein during low-water flows in the Des Plaines river.

THE STEEP banks of the finished channel would constitute an invitation for stunts and would become very hazardous for children playing in the vicinity of the river."

The report points out the forest preserve district is committed by law to maintain the land in its natural state wherever possible. The district owns about 80 per cent of the river bank land from the Lake-Cook county line to Riverside.

Round 'n About Westgate

WESTGATE II

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Flath and their children, Daniel, David, and Joanna, from Houston, Texas, arrived for a visit with Wallace and Lucile Mitchell, 110 S. Reuter, this past week. While here, they took in all the sights of Chicago. The children, of course, enjoyed Brookfield zoo and the museum. Saturday evening the Flaths were there for the Mitchells' house warming, which also included many of the Mitchells' friends and relatives. Wallace, son of Wallace and Lucile, arrived from Dayton and brought his fiance, Mary Ann McCabe of Rantoul, with him for a weekend visit.

Thursday was graduation day for Leslie, son of Leslie and Ruth Kesel, 1316 W. Sigwalt. Saturday evening a dinner party was given in his honor. On hand to extend congratulations were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kesel and Mrs. Augusta Larson, all of Chicago, and several other friends and relatives.

Last Sunday, Sam and Delores Franzese, 311 S. Wilke, were godparents for Frank Daniel Specchie at his baptismal at St. Timothy church, in Chicago. He is the son of life-long friends.

June 16 is graduation day for Colleen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Calderwood, 210 S. Princeton ave., from Evanston Township high school. After graduation, the family went to home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Calderwood in Evanston. Colleen also joined a group of friends and attended a garden party given for the graduates.

MRS. JACK Allen of Spokane, Wash. arrived for a week's visit with her son, Dick Willis and family. Sunday they all attended Our Lady of the Wayside church for the confirmation of the Willises' daughter, Lauralie. Their good friend and neighbor, Elaine O'Connell was her sponsor. After the services they returned to the Willis home for cake and coffee and were joined by Bobby Dasher, also a confirmand, his parents, Bob and Illene, and sponsor, Phil O'Connell.

Hold Commencement for 783 At Arlington High School

by HELENE BRISTOL

To the traditional strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" 783 Arlington high school seniors marched in a graduation procession last Thursday night. The massive class, largest in school district 214 history, completely filled the main floor of the huge school auditorium.

The graduates, garbed in blue-grey gowns and caps with scarlet tassles honoring the school colors, attended two official graduation programs last week. The first, a baccalaureate program, was held Sunday evening. The second, the official commencement program, was held Thursday.

MAIN SPEAKER at the baccalaureate program was Rev. Paul Louis Stumpf of the First Presbyterian church, Arlington Heights. Rev. Stumpf titled his sermon "What shall I dream?" taking his text from the Biblical story of the three dreams or visions of Solomon. The invocation and benediction was given by Rev. Robert S. McDonald of St. John United church of Christ, Arlington Heights. The high school senior choir, under the direction of Robert D. Wolff, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Go Not Far From Me, O God."

Selections of the choir for the commencement program were "Eternal Life" and "One World."

Harold L. Slichenmyer, superintendent of district 214, pointed out the advantages in curriculum found in a large high school and stressed the school's role in developing future leaders. In presenting the class to the board of education, Slichenmyer stated that "if youth all over this world are like those in cap and gown before us the future is quite secure."

Promising to keep his remarks few because the "diplomas (were) sitting there like pancakes on a hot griddle waiting to be eaten," Kenneth E. Dougan, president of the board of education congratulated the class on its accomplishments. He stressed the quality of the student that speakers spoke for the stature of the class.

ACTUAL presentation of diplomas took almost an hour. The graduates' names were announced by E. Eugene Oliver, principal, and Bruno W. Waara, assistant principal. Diplomas were given the students by Dougan and Orville C. Rumrey, acting secretary of the board of education.

The student speakers—John W. Moulton, Miss Marilyn A. Nelson and Thomas A. Bergstrom—were introduced by Cleland Thomas Clark, president of the graduating class. Other class officers were Jerry Maurice Greer, vice-president; Miss Glenda Rhea Gaiser, treasurer, and Miss Judith Suzanne Hendricks, secretary.

The three class speakers were impressive in their delivery, poise and speaking ability. Moulton chose as his theme a lonely, weary man—a picture of complete failure in 1970, ten years from his graduation. Moulton stressed the cause of failure as lack of thought about the future and urged his classmates to "give our future some thought while we still can."

PICTURING THE future as a series of doorways, some leading to blank walls as in an amusement park fund house, and others leading to the "best decisions for the situations that confront us," Miss Nelson cautioned the class to "realize our goals and capabilities and choose the opening that best suits our own future."

Bergstrom pointed out to his classmates that "They call us the beat generation." He stressed the problems inherited by the coming generation and the traits lacking in the youth of today. The response of parents to a world "torn by war and a threat to their very way of life" pointed to "hope for our generation" in providing leaders, Bergstrom said. He indicated "hope was not enough in a chaotic world which may explode any moment." The need for "faith, courage and strength demonstrated by our fathers . . . to make this a nation which we can be proud to live in again" was stressed.

Bergstrom noted the graduates of today had been "fortunate to receive a very fine education toward our goals, but education is only the beginning — we must evolve into men and women that can meet this ever-growing challenge. He pointed out "a time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands." He urged his fellow students to "face this challenge and face it fairly so that a thousand years from now men will say 'ours was the finest generation!' "

The overflow crowd of parents and friends completely filled the huge auditorium and spilled out to the foyer of the building.

In charge of the graduation program was W. David Whiteside, senior counselor and director of guidance.

CLASS valedictorians were Miss Linda Raasch, Miss Katherine Haynsworth and Ronald Hosek. Salutatorian was Richard Johnston Jr. The president of the student council was Richard Passmore. Miss Andrea Berg served as editor of the Cardinal, school newspaper, while Miss Marilyn Nelson was editor of Heights, the annual yearbook.

Senior awards went to Nancy McComb, activities: William Harrington, art; George Bork, Joan Anderson and Shari Mitchell, athletics; Carroll Rocco, business education; Karen Busse, distributive education; Rosemary Barry, dramatics; Katherine Haynsworth, Ronald Hosek and Daniel DeWilde, English; Daniel DeWilde, French; Carol Berthold, forensics; Ann Schumacher and Kathleen Cooper, homemaking; George Hoke and Harry Christiansen, industrial education; Robert Setlik, journalism; Barbara Antoine, Latin; Bruce LaVeau, Ronald Hosek and James Magnuson, mathematics; Allen Feige, instrumental music; Nancy McComb, vocal music; Donald Henry, Russian; Thomas Wade and Jean Gutru, school spirit; Thomas Wade, Bausch and Lomb science award; James Magnuson, science; and Katherine Haynsworth, Spanish. Congregational Pastor Installed

On Sunday afternoon and evening, June 19, members and friends of the Congregational church of Arlington Heights will meet with lay delegates and pastors of the Congregational churches in the Chicago area. The newly established Congregational church will be officially recognized and the Rev. W. Rowland Koch will be installed as pastor of the church.

An examining council will convene at 4 p.m. at the Pioneer park fieldhouse. The church records will be presented and Mr. Koch will read a paper concerning his own Christian experience and theology.

The meeting will adjourn at 6 p.m. to the St. John's United Church of Christ where a supper will be served.

AT 7:45 p.m. the service of worship, recognition, and installation of the Rev. W. Rowland Koch as the pastor of the church will take place. Dr. Clarence F. McCall, Superintendent of the Congregational Conference of Illinois, will be present along with other representatives of the Conference and of the United Church of Christ.

The Rev. Earle C. Hochwald, pastor of the Congregational Church of Oak Lawn, will be the speaker of the evening. Dr. McCall will give the prayer of installation.

In February 1959, Mr. Koch began the work of gathering the new congregation, and worship services were begun in May of that year. A year later, the church was fully organized. The present membership is 101.

The temporary meeting place of the worship services is the Pioneer park auditorium. A four-acre building site on Kirchoff rd. on the south side of Arlington Heights has been purchased by the Conference for the erection of a church. (A

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. What are some expressions to avoid when acknowledging introductions?

A. Such stilted or pretentious-sounding phrases as, "Charmed," "Delighted," "Pleased to meet you," "Pleased to make your acquaintance," or "It's a pleasure." It's wisest to stick to the accepted, "How do you do?"

Q. Is a godmother or godfather supposed to remember the child's birthday with a present each year?

A. Not necessarily. A christening present is expected, but anything beyond that depends upon how much you think of the child. Usually, it's nice for the godparent to remember the child's birthday each year with a suitable card.

Q. When the bride is being married in a traveling dress, what should her bridegroom wear?

A. An ordinary business suit, or one that is appropriate for traveling, with perhaps a little white flower from the bride's corsage in his lapel.

The Chief Criterion
Of all reasons to prefer a certain funeral director, surely the chief is "the recommendation of friends."
We are proud that such a high percentage of new families have selected Lauterburg & Oehler because their friends or neighbors spoke well of us.

Congresswoman Tells Results of Her Poll

Some might argue that her questions were "loaded," but no one would debate the weight of almost 13,000 responses to a public opinion poll made by Rep. Marguerite Stitt Church (R-13th).

Mrs. Church, whose district is a far-flung empire and includes the suburbs of Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Elk Grove, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine, received a 17.74 per cent response.

She discovered that 81.2 per cent of those polled thought it essential to balance the national budget, 78 per cent were in favor of "gradual transfer back to the states and local communities of complete responsibility for education, slum clearance and sewage treatment plants, assuming a transfer of some tax sources from the federal government.

ALSO, SHE discovered almost divided opinion on increase of personal income and corporation tax, but 43.3 per cent favored new federal sales or manufacturers' taxes, against 29.1 opposed and 27.6 with no opinion.

In addition, she learned that 69 per cent preferred medical and hospital care for the aged through private, low-cost medical and hospital insurance programs.

Here is a typical question, which some might question as "loaded:" With government investment in farm commodities now over $9 billion and storage and other expenses approximately $1 billion each year, should price supports and controls be: increased decreased, unchanged or abolished?"

Only 2.4 per cent want it increased, 44.8 per cent want it decreased, 5 per cent want it unchanged and 55.3 per cent want it abolished.

TO A QUESTION of a plan to use surplus crops instead of cash to pay farmers for taking land out of production, 65.9 per cent were in favor, 12.5 per cent opposed it, and 21.6 per cent had no opinion.

Sixty four per cent of her answers indicated they thought sufficient emphasis was placed on our missile and space programs, and only 25 per cent thought we should transfer nuclear weapons and material to friendly nations.

And 81.7 per cent were opposed to permanently abandoning atomic tests "without guarantee of a reliable inspection system."

A similar number 88.6 per cent approved a "firm stand on Berlin at the summit conference," 26.8 per cent favored "diplomatic recognition by the U.S. of Communist China?" although 33 per cent opposed it and 14.4 per cent had no opinion. And, 28 per cent favored allowing more immigrants to enter the country annually, but 56 per cent opposed it, and 16 per cent had no opinion.

'Peaches' Convalescing

Canary With Cast Is Feature of Menagerie

by DICK HOFFMAN

"Peaches" has given up music, at least with percussion instruments.

The two-year-old canary still sings, but rather forlornly.

She broke her right leg when she got it tangled up in a bell in her cage.

Peaches' mistress, Linda Blick, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blick, 410 Cedar, Wood Dale, is taking her back to the veterinarians at Lilac Hedge animal hospital in Bensenville today for a checkup.

"I threw all the bells away after the accident," volunteered Linda's mother, Mrs. Donna Blick.

PEACHES has her leg in a cast to speed her recovery. How long did it take to set the leg? "About five minutes," Linda said.

'The vet taped it real tight and then cut the tape so that it will act like a cast," Mrs. Blick pointed out.

The little yellow bird perches on her cage swing on one leg now, displaying all the dexterity of an acrobat. In fact, when the crippled canary was taken from her cage to be photographed, she broke from her mistress' crasp and hobbled uncertainly but determinedly away.

With Peaches' fracture, Linda hasn't been paying as much attention lately to two other family pets: "Dinky," the duck, and "Napoleon," a 12-year-old Collie.

FOR A DUCK, Dinky has a peculiar aversion to water; he appears to be the "Bathless Groggins" of his kind.

Unlike "Herman," the duck next door who appears in an impeccable white suit of feathers, Dinky's breast is a soiled vest of dirt.

Will Dinky paddle around in the water like other ducks? "Only if you keep pushing him back in," sighed Mrs. Blick.

Herman belongs to one of Linda's best friends, Gayl Todtledan, 14. The Todtledans also have a dog, "Lucky," and Gayl and Linda at one time cared for rabbits.

ONE OF LINDA'S rabbits, however, "Fluffy," wouldn't eat. "Agnes," the rabbit next door, suffered from the same affliction. The two hunger-striking rabbits died within days of each other.

Linda's convinced that this caused the early demise of "Toughy," her other rabbit. "He just died of loneliness," is Linda's diagnosis.

Linda was delighted that Peaches' plight was being recorded in newsprint. She had been a little miffed over the fact that the canary's mishap hadn't received mention in the news columns while Dinky has recently harvested a bumper crop of publicity after his encounter with a Girl Scout troop.

Mrs. Blick is scout leader of Wood Dale Girl Scout troop 34. She likes to invite the girls over to view the poison ivy the Blicks allow to grow around one of their trees for purposes of botanical identification.

THE POISON ivy hardly rated a glance, however, when the girls spotted Dinky ceremoniously muddying himself in the back yard.

Two-year-old Joey Wagner, Linda's citified cousin, was present during the discussion of birds but unimpressed.

The youngster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wagner, 3618 Overhill, Chicago, kept asking the reporter: "Have you seen the blob yet?"

When informed that he hadn't, Joey led the way to an opening under the house proch and, pointing excitedly at it, repeated, "The blob, the blob."

"Oh, some of the plumbing went on the blink, and the soap suds came up through there," Mrs. Block explained.

"He calls them 'the blob,' " Linda laughed.

Mrs. Blick thinks pets give children a sense of responsibility in caring for them. What does her husband, a body and fender repairman, think of animals? "He likes them; he'd have to," Mrs. Blick smiled.

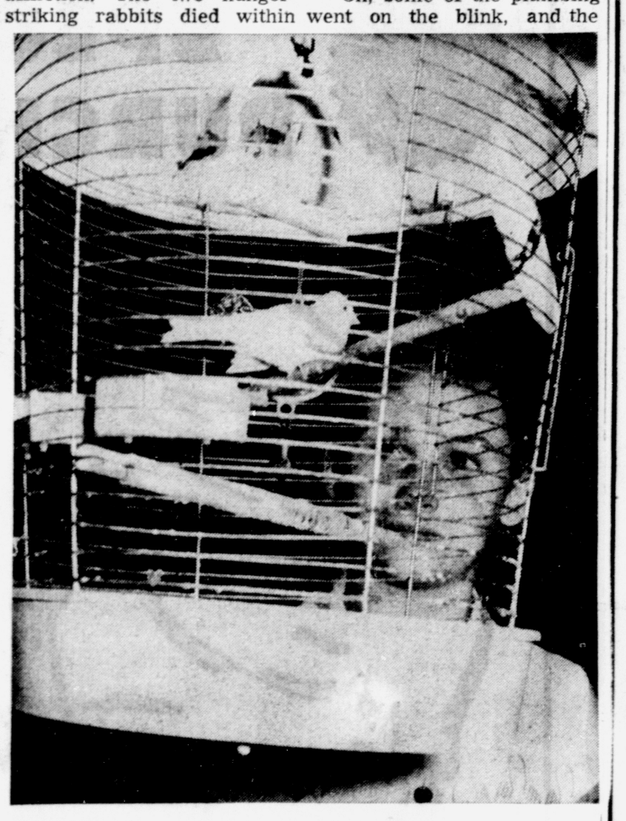
(B13



"PEACHES," the crippled canary favors her leg on cage perch as her mistress, Linda Blick of Wood Dale, keeps watchful eye on the bird's broken leg which has been set in a cast.

Barbara Davis Is Installed Queen

Miss Barbara Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burkett Davis, 136 S. Belmont ave., Arlington Heights was installed as honored queen of Bethel No. 103 at the Palatine Masonic temple Saturday evening, June 11.

As Barbara knelt at the altar and repeated her vows, the officers formed a cross and the Prospect Chapter of DeMolay formed an escort and gave the nine o'clock interpolation. Adopt Compromise Plan On Salt Creek Floods

A compromise plan for flood control on Salt creek has been adopted by the state and Cook county, it was announced last week by Daniel Ryan, president of the county board.

Both the Illinois Division of Waterways and the Cook County Forest Preserve district gave ground on methods to be employed in the 1.2 million dollar program in the west suburban sector of Salt creek, it was reported.

In addition, the state agreed to give consideration in the overall program to a county proposal to construct a dam to impound flood waters in Busse forest in Elk Grove township in northwest Cook county.

The 1959 General Assembly appropriated 5.2 million dollars for the big project.

Agreement on the modified plan was reached after two meetings between officials of the forest preserve district and the state division of waterways. They got together at the urging of the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning commission.

Here are the highlights of the compromise program, as reported by Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent of the forest preserve district:

1. SALT Creek, from Washington street in Brookfield upstream to Addison creek and Mannhein road on or near the border of North Riverside and Broadview, will be deepened and widened on the low side of this three mile section of the channel.

The width of Salt creek, when widened, in this section will range from 40 to 50 feet, instead of from 50 to 70 feet originally proposed by the state.

2. The state dropped its demand to also widen the portion of Salt creek west of Mannheim road over to Fullersburg dam, located a mile inside the DuPage county line.

However, Cook county agreed to "two or three minor channel changes" demaned by the state in this section of the creek, Sauers said.

3. The state abandoned its proposal to dig an open ditch across forest preserve property from a point on Salt creek near 9th avenue in North Riverside over to a point on the Des Plaines river near Roberts avenue in Brookfield.

INSTEAD, the storm water will be shunted into an underground pipe conduit to be installed in this section south of 26th street from 9th to 1st avenues.

The change from open ditch to underground conduit was insisted upon by the forest preserve district to keep this preserve area north of the Brookfield Zoo safe for recreational purposes.

4. The state agreed to further review and consider the Busse Forest dam proposal for incorporation as the next step to be taken in the Salt Creek flood control project.

Sauers said the state is proceeding on the plan sheet to meet all agreed upon modifications and that contracts for the first work may be let this summer.

Writing Workshop Open to Everyone

The Dramatists Workshop, is sponsored by Village Theatre, Inc., for eight weeks beginning June 21 at 8:15 p.m. in the East room of the Pioneer Park fieldhouse, Arlington Heights, is featuring the writing of monologues, scenes of conflict and one-act plays to be discussed and studied.

Aim of the writing workshop is to develop a strong "feel" (not formula) for dramatic structure, to examine various theatrical forms in relation to the playwright's idea, and to pose structural and stylistic problems for the workshop writer to solve.

THE INSTRUCTOR for the writing workshop is Richard Mansfield of Chicago, a Ford Foundation Fellow during 1959 - 1960 studying playwriting under John Gassner at the Yale School of Drama. His writing credits have appeared in New York City, as well as on many local stations and Chicago's educational stations. Mansfield is a graduate of Northwestern University and Harvard Law School and now divides his time between practising law and writing plays.

The workshop writers will be able to have their plays produced by Village Theatre, Inc., if they wish. Anyone in the area interested in writing for the stage is invited to participate. A small fee will be charged for the course. For further information call Anne Hume, talent bank director of Village Theatre, Inc., at CL 3-3650.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

There was a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosenblatt, 1007 N. Salem, preceding Edward's graduation from Arlington high last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. George Gamble of Des Plaines and their daughter, Louella, and son-in-law, Stan, of Los Angeles joined them for the evening. After the graduation, friends and neighbors dropped in during an open house for Edward, who is going into the air force soon. He has been in the civil air patrol for four years, so the air force won't be too foreign to him.

The B. F. Battaglias are busy getting settled in their new home at 312 S. Belmont, after having moved from 904 N. Kaspar last week. One of the many nice features about their new home is that it isn't too far from their former neighbors.

FRED OBERHAUSER, 816 N. Patton, came home from Ft. Rucker, Ala. May 25 after spending two years in the army. As a way of celebrating, he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oberhauser, took a trip around Lake Michigan for a week. They headed up through Michigan, first taking a side trip over to Grosse Pointe park to see Millie and Bill Warren and their family.

The Warrens lived directly behind the Oberhausers until a few weeks ago when they moved to Michigan. Heading north from Grosse Pointe park, they stopped for two nights at Mackinac, taking the ferry over to the island to spend the day. They browsed through the shops and walked along the island to the various places of interest, including the Grand hotel and its surrounding gardens.

They came home through Wisconsin, taking pictures along the way so they would have some mementos of a very nice vacation. Fred went back to work Monday at John Plain and Co., where he worked before entering the service.

The R. E. Kleiners, 914 N. Yale, have big plans for the next two weeks, while her mother, Mrs. Harry Essington, is visiting them from Santa Fe, N.M.

Twenty-five family and friends came to a buffet supper at the Robert C. Buechners, 1012 N. Fernandez, a week ago Sunday, when Roberta graduated from St. James school. Mrs. Buechner served at 5 p.m. so there would be plenty of time to eat and visit before the graduation at 8 p.m.

THE R. A. BECKMANS, 812 N. Fernandez, spent the weekend in Titusville, Pa., where they attended the graduation of her godson, Joseph Dunkerley Jr. from high school there. They stayed with the Dunkerleys, attending the graduation Monday, and leaving for home Tuesday. The two families have been friends since they were neighbors in Chicago.

There is never a shortage of birthdays at the George Biebers, 801 N. Princeton, and sometimes they like to double up on celebrations to take care of everybody.

This year they celebrated Cathy's 10th birthday, Judy's 11th birthday and Joanne's first holy communion by taking them to Santa's Village for the day. They took Kathleen and Eileen Dunne with them as well as Louise Winters, Christine Gleason, Mary Ellen Quinn and Sharon McMullen, and Santa's Village never had nine more enthusiastic little girls.

There was another birthday last Saturday. Dennis was 2 and the family helped him celebrate the occasion with a party all his own.

GET-WELL-QUICK wishes are extended to George Dilley, son of Mr. and Mrs Wesley Dilley, 936 N. Fernandez, who underwent surgery at Northwest Community hospital, Monday. George just finished his third year at Arlington high and all his friends are wishing him a speedy recovery.

The Lawrence Fischers, 1021 N. Race, are happy to have their son, Bill, home from the University of Illinois. Bill just finished his second year there.

Thursday, Ruth Platt and Barbara Rubenking attended an end-of-the-year luncheon for Camp Fire leaders, which was held at Inverness. The following day, Ruth entertained Terrence's kindergarten teacher, Mrs. Kinney, for lunch at her home.

Friends and neighbors of the Ed Berkleys, 916 N. Kaspar, were sorry to see them move to Beaumont, Tex. June 4.

CHARLOTTE AND Jim Ronayne, 1011 N. Kennicott, had their new son, James Jr., baptized in St. James church last Sunday at 3 p.m. Fr. Roth officiated at the baptism, making it much more meaningful for Charlotte and Jim, since he also married them at a different church. Jim's sister and brother-in-law, Mary Ellen and Joe Aiu, acted as godparents. The two sets of parents joined them for a buffet supper afterward, celebrating the baptism and Charlotte's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Merle Paul, 815 W. Oakton, held open house for their two graduates Saturday night. Ardeth graduated from Millikin university June 6, and Dick graduated from Arlington high last Thursday. Mrs. Paul's mother came Sunday in time for the baccalaureate that evening and they all left immediately afterward for Decatur and Ardeth's graduation the following morning at 10.

THE WELCOME mat is out to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morris who have moved to 916 N. Kaspar from Skokie. The Morrises have two children, Eliot, 5½, and Sandra, 2.

There were two graduation parties for Peggy Merges, daughter of the Ed Merges, 834 N. Harvard. The first one was held the Saturday before her graduation from St. James. Twenty-three members of her family came for a buffet supper and to wish her well. The second party was held last Saturday at the home of her aunt in Chicago, where 70 members of the family, as well as friends, gathered to celebrate the graduation of a cousin from St. Angela school and another from St. Eugene school, as well as Peggy's graduation.

The Donald Mohrs, 927 N. Fernandez, attended a picnic yesterday at Sherwood park in Lake Villa, given by his company. There was entertainment for everyone: games, contests, horseshoes, baseball, and swimming, even though, as Mrs. Mohr says, "They almost had to break the ice to get to the water."

Get well quick wishes are extended to Mrs. Walter Nissen, 820 N. Fernandez, who is ill at home.

THERE WERE three birthdays to celebrate at the Joe Pecoraros, 727 N. Kennicott, this month. Mike's eighth birthday fell on June 2, Anne's was June 4 and Joe's, June 5. To celebrate Mike's birthday, Tommy Stevens, Gary Braunsreuter and David Argust came for ice cream and cake after school.

It didn't take any coaxing to start a few games afterward either. In fact, they had so much fun, they weren't very interested in leaving Saturday, Anne and Joe had their family for a buffet supper to celebrate the three birthdays. They had planned an outdoor party, but the rain changed all that, so they just moved indoors and had a wonderful time.

The following day they attended the graduation of their nephew, Philip Nuccio, from St. Juliana grammar school in Chicago. The whole family went to Philip's home in Niles for a party afterward.

Barbara Lynn Raitt was 6 June 7, but the excitement of it all was too much for her, and she just had to celebrate the occasion with a party the previous Saturday. Jimmy and Joe Hedger, Carol and Danny Mohr, Lynn Robertson, Carol Vetter, Tommy and Gary Holub, Greg Seaman, Donnie Barnak and Barbara's sister, Leslie, were there for an outdoor luncheon of hot dogs and all the trimmings.

After a round or two of "Happy Birthday to You," Leslie acted as mistress of ceremonies and helped with several games, which are the backbone of any 6-year-old's party. The two girls are the daughters of Marge and John Raitt, 928 N. Fernandez.

Tommie and Guy Scalzitti, 836 N. Fernandez, were eating lunch with their children the other day when they had a surprise visit from her brother and sister-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Donald Williams of Wake Forest, N. C. Once again the Williams are going to be working at Camp Reinberg during the summer, which means Tommie and Guy will be seeing quite a bit of them before they return to Wake Forest for the fall semester.

MUMPS WILL BE the only thing that will keep the H. W. Wiegels, 724 N. Kennicott, from heading for Plainfield, Wis. and their 6-room home they just acquired on 15 acres of land. Pine trees cover eight acres of their land, and with two lakes nearby, the four Wiegel children are going to find plenty to do up there. In fact, their parents may have a hard time getting them back here for school in the fall.

This week was a full one for the William Rossiters, 809 N. Patton. Tuesday evening there was a dinner at the Morton House in Morton Grove for the Skiles Junior high faculty, of which Mr. Rossiter is a member. The following evening, Mrs. Rossiter attended a stork shower for Sherry. One of the music teachers in Lyons Township, where Sherry teaches, was hostess for the event. Mrs. Rossiter's father came up from St. Louis, in the meantime, to see Dick graduate from South Junior high on Thursday, and of course, the whole family is going to turn out for that too.

Sharon Koeneman graduated from Arlington high Thursday evening, and had a party Sunday, but she never expected that 80 friends and relatives would be there to wish her well. The Koenemans' basement was a perfect setting for the party, which began around 4 p.m., included a buffet supper, and plenty of fun that lasted late into the evening.

Her parents, Lee and Herman Koeneman, surprised her with a set of white luggage, which will come in handy for college this fall. Among the other lovely gifts she received was a set of bongo drums from her brother, Kenny. He had been saving his allowance for quite some time to buy her these drums. After all, doesn't every college girl start her freshman year with a set of bongo drums under her arm?

Ginny and Bob Read, 1019 N. Kennicott, returned this weekend after two weeks in Colorado. They picked up Bill at Alamosa where he attended Adams State college, and then stopped in Littleton to visit Bob's cousin. Ginny wanted to see some of her childhood friends, now living in Boulder, so they stopped there before driving to southern Colorado, where they set up camp beside the Rio Grande.

They climbed Pike's Peak on the Cog railway, which turned out to be a little easier than driving up Trail ridge in Rocky Mountain National park, where they ran into a snow storm that closed part of the trail. Since Bill has transferred to Colorado State college in Ft. Collins, they visited the campus there and liked what they saw very much.

They returned home through Wyoming, Nebraska and Iowa, and if Ginny is up to her reputation, she has some fine pictures of their trip to show their friends.

ONE OF THE many reasons the Jim Patersons, 728 N. Kennicott, were anxious to have her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maynard, come visit them from their home in Middlesex, England, was to help celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, which they celebrated June 4 with an afternoon reception at the home of Doris's sister and brother-in-law, the Charles Logues, in Elk Grove.

Many of their close friends and relatives were there to congratulate the Maynards on their 50 years of married life. The whole family was delighted that Jim had recuperated sufficiently from his recent operation so that he could be with them. He was also able to attend Ross's graduation at Arlington high with the rest of the family last Thursday.

Jerry Sorensen, son of Elsie and Dick Sorensen, 943 N. Kaspar, feels well celebrated after four birthday parties in his honor. Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, different members of his family came to wish him many happy returns of the day. Together, they would have made quite a crowd for Elsie, who is doing nicely now after her recent operation.

Saturday, at noon, all the boys in Jerry's kindergarten class at Ridge, plus several of his friends in the neighborhood, came for a "weenie" roast in the back yard. They timed the party just right, too, because after the last game was played, the weather turned cold and 19 little boys would have felt a bit restricted finishing the party indoors.

LAST WEEKEND was Arnie Koriath's weekend. Friday evening he escorted Susan Colvin to the eighth grade graduation dance at South Junior high. Seven couples went to the Colvin home afterward, for a party to finish out the evening. There was another party the following evening, given by two of the boys in the graduating class. The boys and girls had barbecues at Busse woods, and ended up at Jack Lindstrom's for a patio party.

To make the weekend complete, Arnie attended a picnic given by St. John United Church of Christ. The fact that they were rained out at Barrington didn't bother them one bit. They just moved into the Fellowship hall at the church and everyone had a wonderful time.

FROM SHERWOOD

When the Chester Giulianis, 1314 Watling, picked up Jill at Radcliffe recently, they went on up into Canada to Quebec and Montreal before coming home. While in Quebec, they took a tour of the Walled city, saw the sights and ate in a French restuarant, much like those in Paris.

Mr. Giuliani, who has been to Paris many times on business, assured them that a trip to Quebec was almost as good as a trip to Paris, since it is that much like the French capitol. Now that they are home, Jill will be working at Universal Oil Products company all summer before returning to Radcliffe next fall for her second year.

IT ISN'T often that a family can celebrate three graduations at once, but the Harold Witts, 1138 N. Patton, did just that last Sunday. Several of their family and friends came to a reception honoring Sharon Wessling, Harold Witt and Kenneth Witt, all of whom graduated from Arlington Arlington high last week.

The John Robertsons, 1110 W. Clarendon, are proud of their son, Neil, who is keeping up a navy tradition in their family by winning a NROTC scholarship to the University of Illinois. Neil graduated from Arlington high last week. His brother, John, will be pleased to learn the good news too. John is an Annapolis graduate, and has been attached to a ship since last summer. Sheila is home from the College of St. Teresa, too, so the Robertson household is a busy one these days.

"IT WILL ALWAYS DO TO CHANGE FOR THE BETTER"

The pharmaceutical manufacturers are engaged in a continuous search to find better drugs. No matter how good any medicine works, they are always trying to create a newer one that will be still more effective.

Each year we destroy medicines which have been replaced by others. They have become worthless. When you consider the research cost of producing new drugs and losses from obsolete ones, it is amazing the average cost of all prescriptions is only about $3.00.

Wednesday, June 15, was the hottest day recorded so far this year. Thermometers registered 90 in the shade. This is good corn weather. With plenty heat and frequent showers corn can grow knee high yet before the Fourth.

A concert will be given by Miss Amie Wheeler and Mr. Grueneberg assisted by Mr. Anthony, Baritone; Mr. Kaumayer, Violinist, at the M.. MAYER, Violinist, at the M. E. Church, Saturday evening June 18, 1910. Everyone cordially invited to attend. Admission 25 cents.

Children's Day was a perfect June day. Mrs. Whiting assisted by Mrs. Banta and Mrs. Chapman lighted up the old church with banks and bouquets of flowers and made it suitable for the occasion. Canary birds in their cages swinging and singing and a lot of happy children. The record showed 125 present, against 118 last year at this festival.

Not succeeding in getting any bids for the work of preparing the streets for the crushed stone, trustee Shering and Com. Bergman have undertaken to oversee the work themselves. A traction engine, two plows and quite a number of men have been doing some neat work on Plum Grove Avenue. Two plows were broken, but after having been strengthened with iron, nothing in the road can stop them now with a 40-horse-power engine in the lead.

New Time Causes Mix-up. Get up by Chicago time, buy your groceries by standard time, get your mail by Daylight Saving Time, and attend church when the bell rings. Standing out above the din is the determination of non commuters who refuse to change their habits and ways of living just because the city fellows demand it. With the exception of the post office, all business in Arlington Heights and Palatine is run on the Standard time. Likewise the chickens crow at the same old time, the banks open their doors and the factory whistles blow as yore. Instead of the action of the Chicago city council causing Northern Illinois to follow suit, northern Illinois are going their own way regardless of what hobby Chicago may ride. Of course if you want to catch a train, you must leave home an hour early and you arrive in Chicago before you leave home. The change in the train service compelled the post office to adopt the new time. With the exception of the Benjamin Co. at Des Plaines, all local industries are following the old time, as well as the churches, banks and business houses. The great majority of clocks and watches are the same as heretofore.

Mr. Henry Wittenburg, born Sept. 13, 1855, in Germany, came to America when 17 years old. With his family he resided at Niles four years, and then came to Palatine where he has resided ever since. Aug. 6, 1884 he married Miss Mary Meisner and for 30 years they resided on the Wittenburg farm. He held a prominent position in St. Paul's church, serving as trustee for many years. Death came June 8, at the age of 64 years, 8 mo., 28 days.

Henry Pohlmann was born Feb. 26, 1841, in Haste, Germany. He came to America in 1866 and settled in Arlington Heights. In 1872 he was married to Miss Bertha Klehm and to them was born one child. His wife passed away in 1874, and March 7, 1877, he married Miss Sophia Piepenbrink of Plaines, and they moved to Iowa. Five children blessed this union, two of whom have died.

Deer Grove

Improvements in the Forest Preserve will make it still more popular this year. Of course the one big thing is the paving of Dundee rd., which means paved roads from the Chicago loop to the very doors of this 1000 acre playground. F. J. Cihak, athletic director of Camp Reinberg, has secured the refreshment concession for the preserve and has invested nearly $1000 in a store that will be managed by his brother Louis. This store is located opposite the fresh air camp and will be welcomed by all the campers. The Catholics have material on hand for the erection of a chapel on the camp grounds. Mass will be celebrated every Sunday with priest in charge. The same privilege will be granted any other religious denomination.

The Prairie Club have 10 large army tents erected on their grounds near the lake. Their camp has been maintained throughout the winter as the members have made frequent trips here. The Boy Scouts' camp is to be enlarged and a scout cabin erected in the camping fall. A camp will be maintained thruout the summer accommodating 50 boys. A fee of $9 entitles a boy scout to two weeks outing.

Extensive road work has been done on the Palatine-Lake Zurich road by the cutting down of hills, spreading of stone, etc. It is reported that a coat of asphalt will be laid over the stone. This will give a paved road north and south thru the preserve as well as along the entire south boundary. A branch of the Palatine post office may be established at the Cihak store for the convenience of the campers.

The Reed farm on East Euclid avenue had now blossomed out into an up-to-date riding academy, with horses to hire; or if you have your own palfrey, they take him to board. Anybody can ride in a car these days, but the class is in riding a horse; also they say the outside of a horse is good for the inside of a man.

One of the most jolly events of the week just passed was the celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schoppe's silver wedding. The celebration took place at the Wolf school house where about 150 relatives and friends of the happy couple gathered for the event.

Bloomingdale

Plans are under way to secure an extension of the Glen Ellyn public library for Bloomingdale. A meeting of residents interested in this project will be held soon.

Mt. Prospect

The widening of the Northwest Highway between Palatine and Des Plaines will be completed this year, Milburn Bros. of Mt. Prospect were awarded the contract by the state, for the work, Wednesday. The new route of the Northwest highway via Baldwin road will be only 20 feet wide, the forty feet widening ending at this time at Palatine.

The railroad station has again been moved into the future. The railroad officials are unable to say how long the delay will be, but they state that all construction projects have been stopped, with the exception of a few jobs, very few, and some are practically completed, such as the third track installation, which is being pushed to completion. The reason for the order which was issued by the railway president's office, is the shortage of funds, due to low revenues from freight and passenger traffic.

E. W. A. Rowles Co., which has owned its own factory here for many years, decided last winter to consolidate executive and sales offices and all manufacturing operations at Arlington Heights. The change was completed two weeks ago, and the business of the firm is now handled from the new office.

For two and a half hours Sunday afternoon 85 units of youthful Americans — bands, sea scouts, boy scouts, girl scouts, girls schools drum and bugle corps, harmonica bands and community organizations of all kinds, all sponsored by some American Legion Post or Auxiliary of the 9th District, paraded thru the streets of Arlington Heights.

The government agency that vouches for the flying ability of young pilots has placed its O.K. on George Schneberger, Jr. and Carl Behrens, Jr. They are now authorized to take passengers up in the air and they have discovered that a waiting list of "passengers" has sprung into being. S. R. Paddock, Jr. was given his first thrill in the clouds last Friday by Mr. Schneberger when he secured some excellent aerial photographs.

Eastwood Events

Copenhagen, Stockholm, Helsinki, Florence, Paris and London were some of the cities Emil Hanner visited on his European furniture buying trip for Carson Pirie Scott and Co. Flying both ways, Mr. Hanner spent three weeks abroad, returning to Arlington Heights June 14. The Saturday before he left, Mrs. Hanner surprised her husband with a "Bon Voyage" party given along the bohemian theme. Guests attending who presented Mr. Hanner with humorous going-away gifts were neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Schultz, the Bud Lams of Chicago and the Harry Wilsons from Roselle. The Hanners live at 215 N. Lincoln lane.

Graduation and the attendant parties have been the social highlights for many local families for the past weeks. The first graduates from this area were from St. James school, which held ceremonies Sunday, June 5. Among Eastwood youngsters finishing their elementary education at St. James were Peery Duderstadt, Kathleen Goman, Nancy Rogers, Joe Heitz, Anton Sadler and Tom Slagle.

The Duderstadts tried hard to plan a surprise graduation party for their son last Sunday, and practically succeeded until late Saturday when a mixed up cake order revealed their plans. Nevertheless, his open house party from 4 to 9 Sunday was thoroughly enjoyed by Peery, when many friends and relatives came to congratulate him. A surprise was forthcoming, though, when Father Reicher, former assistant pastor at St. James, dropped in for an unexpected visit. Peery plans to study for the priesthood and will enter Quigley preparatory school next fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peery A. Duderstadt, 303 N. Lincoln lane.

AT commencement exercises at Arlington high school this evening for junior high school students Jill Anderson, Suzanne Anderson, Davy Crockett, Mary Anne Glover, Diane Fill, Yvonne Hartwig, Sam Leone and Billy Rush will be among those receiving their diplomas.

The Hartwigs are planning an open house for 25 relatives after the ceremonies.

It will be a big night also at the home of the Gus Andersons, 614 N. Beverly, as a party of 25 relatives and friends wlil honor their youngest daughter, Suzanne. Suzanne, an A student, was voted alternate speaker for the graduation exercises. She will also be a piano accompanist for the chorus.

One of the largest parties honoring local graduates was given forJoey Orgler Sunday by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Orgler in their home at 733 N. Beverly. 150 relatives and friends attended the 1 till ? party - the till lasting to 11 p.m.

Joey graduated from five years at Quigley preparatory school on Tuesday, June 7. Ceremonies were held at Holy Name Cathedral with Cardinal Meyers officiating. Joey will enter Mundelein in September. This summer he will help with the summer school for the Spanish speaking children at St. James, and in August will vacation in Canada.

ALTHOUGH not a graduate, Sharon Stewart did celebrate the end of school Friday night with a hamburger party for 40 girls of her Arlington high school junior class. After the outside supper many boys joined the girls for dancing and year book signing. Sharon is the daughter of the C. C. Stewarts of 401 N. Dryden.

Not losing any precious vacation time, John Cullison left Friday for a 3-week visit in Pittsburgh with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gania, and cousins, Gretchen and Trudy. John drove to Pittsburgh with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cullison Sr., from Gary.

The annual bridge tournament awards party was held Saturday night at Old Orchard country club. Guests enjoyed their choice of a beef, chicken or shrimp dinner, after which prizes were given to the first five high couples. Bob and Marguerite Scott managed to keep in first place by a very slim margin.

Scores were: Scotts - 23,790, Raasches - 23,410, McBrides - 22,090, Mc K nights - 20,090, Evans - 19,530. Matt and Betty Cockrell were awarded the booby prize for their score of 9,610 for the year. For the first time this year two more prizes were given - individual evening high score, which went to Dick and Virginia Vlack with 4,350 and individual evening low score, which was awarded to Ben and Louise Yunker for their 410 points. Budget Is Topic

Facts about the Wheeling township road and bridge budget for 1960-61 will be presented at the annual picnic of the League of Women Voters, announces Mrs. R. B. Yadon, president.

Since a public hearing on this budget is being held on July 5, the League is also acquainting members with the duties and powers of the township highway commissioner, and with the services road and bridge funds provide.

Directed by Mrs. Julian P. How, this continues League's study of local governmental expenditures initiated one year ago.

MEMBERS IN their bermudas and pedal pushers are each bringing a sandwich to Mrs. John Vork's, 415 Yale, on Tuesday, June 21, at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Iver Smedstad, a League member who has recently completed a world tour, will tell the results, as she sees it, of U.S. foreign aid.

Any women interested in League purposes and program are invited to attend. For additional information, call CL 3-3410 or CL 5-0018.

Virginia Terrace News

Family of the week . . . is that of Cathy and Bill Gunnison, 1407 Clarendon, and their sons, Bobby, 10, Scott, 7, and Mark, 4, who moved here some 5 years ago. Cathy, born and raised in Chicago, and Bill, who hails from Moline, became acquainted while attending Knox college, Galesburg. Between college days and their marriage 11 years ago, Bill entered the business world and Cathy was employed as a secretary. Now Bill is an insurance underwriter and Cathy is active in her role as housewife and mother.

The Gunnisons are active parishioners of St. Peter Lutheran church, and both belong to the Wilson school PTA, with Bill a member of the school board. Spring finds Bill busy as manager of a Little League team. In the fall, he serves in the same capacity with a midget football team. Cathy's outside activities include getting together with her college sorority group twice a month. Hobbies they both enjoy are gardening and cards, Bill's spare time is often devoted to a fast game of badminton, and Cathy is just as likely to stitch up a dress for herself. They belong to a couples bridge club, enjoy jazz music, entertaining friends, picnics and barbecues A perfect evening out means dinner for two, followed by a good musical stage play.

The boys are old enough now, that as a family they can all go swimming in the summer, ice skating in the winter and bowling. Bobby is active in Little League and is a cub scout. As for the future, all are looking forward to Bill's vacation, which will be spent in Florida. This fall, Mark is looking forward to entering nursery school. Plans always include a visit to Bill's dad in Moline and Cathy's parents, who now reside in Kansas.

Sunday he shared his celebration with his cousin, Michael Andrew of Milwaukee. Among those attending the buffet supper party were the boys' maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus Andrews, Milwaukee, and numerous aunts, uncle and cousins.

Mary Louise Burkhardt, 1507 Clarendon, and her neighbor, Jane Coleman, 1411 Clarendon, co-hostessed a morning kaffee klatsch last Wednesday for the ladies on their block and their pre-school youngsters. A WELCOME IS extended to Dolores and Ronald Kujala, 1223 N. Wilke, who moved here recently from Elmwood Park. Dolores came directly f om the hospital, as the Kujalas' first child, Ronald, was born May 22.

Ronald, a technical engineer for a nearby firm, is helping Dolores become settled in their new home. Fortunately, their families live in Chicago, and they hope it won't be too long before they can get out and enjoy their hobbies of swimming, bowling and golfing.

Dorothy and Don Ballard, 1241 N. Race, have just returned from their 2-week vacation, at Green Wing lodge, Big Fork, Minn. They really rough it, says Dorothy, as they stay in a cabin on the premises, furnished only with a wood burning stove and the barest necessities for comfort. They have fun, though, and luck was with them, as they literally caught barrels of fish.

On their return trip, the Ballards stopped off in Appleton, Wis., where they picked up Don's nephew, Mike Holzknecht, 13, who will remain here for a week's visit, On the agenda is a trip to Riverview park, a visit to Chinatown, an "L" ride, lunch in the loop and a visit to the aquarium.

Another set of grandparents here for a weekend celebration honoring a graduate were Mr. and Mrs. Ellinson, Chicago. Their grandson, Kenny, took part in the exercises at Wilson Junior high school ast Friday evening. Also in the audience were his parents, Elaine and Bill Petrucci, 1115 N. Wilke, and sister, Roxanne.

Saturday night, the Ellinsons remained at home with Roxanne and Elaine and Bill treated Kenny to dinner at Simonins in Algonquin followed by several hours bowling, as per the graduate's request.

JOAN AND DICK Larson, 1245 N. Illinois, were hosts last Saturday night to Joan's college alumnae group at a traditional Hawaiian luau party. All 18 guests were costumed in either brightly colored shirts or sarongs and after enjoying cocktails, they sat upon grass mats to indulge in various Hawaiian concoctions, each dish having been prepared by the feminine half of the couples presnt.

Joan and Dick took great pains in carrying out the said theme, having converted their garage with fishnets, shells, palm trees, posters, lanterns and leis into an Hawaiian background, complete with music provided by Dick's stereo hi-fi.

The welcoming speech at the Wilson graduation exercises was given by the treasurer of this year's class, Mary, daughter of Polly and Charles Millhouser, 1702 W. Oakton. The Millhousers attended a party following the ceremonies at a fellow graduate's home, where Mary remained as an overnight guest.

Albert, son of Evelyn and Al Schmitt, 1321 N. Illinois, celebrated his 13th birthday at a family dinner party June 10. Assisting him in blowing out the candles on his cake were his sister, Ann, and several aunts, uncles and cousins. A real treat was in store the next day, as the Schmitts welcomed Evelyn's sister, Mrs. Ruth Caruthers of Florida. This is her first visit several years, so, needless to say, there is much visiting to be done in the next three weeks.

A 2 WEEK camping trip is over for Jerri and Bill Rix, 1244 N. Chicago, and their children, Jill and David, and Jerri reports that not much more could have taken place. The first week was spent visiting such scenic places as Mammoth Cave, Ky., and the Smoky mountains in Tennessee before roughing it at a camp at Cades Coves, Tenn. Upon reaching Gatlinburg, t h e y enjoyed civilization, namely a motel complete with television and a swimming pool. Much sight seeing was done from this point, as they were near several state parks, Cumbeland falls and the great dam area. At their last stop, Big Ridge State park, David was stricken with measles, but fortunately, it was about time for them to head for home.

Cake, icecream, candy and favors comprised to make it a happy time for the guests of Michael, son of Ellen and George Sottung, 1722 W. Oakton, who celebrated his fifth birthday June 10. Present at the afternoon party were his sisters, Marie and Therese, Janna Maria and Heidi Schleiermacher, Gail, David and Lauretta McAllister and Danny and Gail Borgman, Prairie View, and Nancy Sorensen, Ridge Park. Also extending birthday wishes were his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Sheridan of Arlington Heights. His paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gorge E. Sottung, and great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Barcal, all of Chicago, wished him many happy returns Friday night, when there was another birthday cake.

Another Terrace graduate who held an office in this year's graduating class from Wilson Junior High school was Lauren, daughter of Charmaine and Charles Sayre, 1204 N. Race. Also extending her congratulations for mention on the honor roll were her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Clifford Forsland, Chicago, brothers, Bill and Tom, and cousin, Marcia Rudd, Arlington Heights. After the exercises, the Sayres and their guests went on to have a graduation treat.

THE BRIDGE GROUP to which Joan Stevens, until recently a Terrace resident, belonged, visited her at her new home in Rockford Tuesday night. Happy to see her again wre Edith Larson, Connie Dolejs, Maxine Mells, Elaine Petrucci, Charmaine Sayre, Connie McBride and Ruth Liebenow, Ridge Park. The group played cards, had dessert and coffee and brought Joan up-to-date on the latest Terrace happenings

A mixture of nostalgia and fun pervaded the home of Nancy and Clifton Grassly, 1414 N. Yale, over the weekend, as good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Al Bemis, and their 3 children from Milwaukee and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Steiglitz, Chicago, were all overnight guests. The Steiglitzes will soon depart for a minimum stay of three years in Rome, Italy, perhaps never to return to this country, depending on Ronald's employment.

Roula and Nickolas Nickas, 1429 N. Wilke, have named their son, born recently in St. Luke Presbyterian hospital, William Nickolas, and the father reports that he is enjoying his annual vacation at home just becoming acquainted with their first born.

A busy week is past for Ruth and Dick Randle, 1448 N. Yale. It began with the first of celebrations in honor of the sixth birthday of their daughter, Joyce. Last Wednesday evening, her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Randle, Chicago, came to wish her many happy returns of the day.

A birthday luncheon was held the next day, and helping her to blow out the candles were neighbors, Mrs. Don Ryan and her boys, Michael, Timothy and Danny. Attending the after-school party were her sisters, Janice and Carol Jean, Gail and Susan Chodero, Janet and Beth Grassly, Valerie and Mickey Moser, Susan Sheilds, Sarah Polarek, Janet Fluhrer, Susan Lee Reese and cousins, Maureen and Eva Woods, all of whom admired the fairy princess decor. Assisting Ruth was Joyce's aunt, Mrs. Warren Woods, Meadowdale. The Woods family remained for dinner that evening.

Saturday, the Randles treated Janice and Joyce to the matinee performance of the Ringling Brothers circus, at the Amphitheatre and Sunday, Ruth drove to Plainfield, Ind., to attend the 84th birthday celebration of her grandfather C. V. Hoadley.

THE AWARDS for History were won by Thomas Considine, first award, and Claudia Hansen, second award.

Another 1960 grammar school graduate is John, son of Virginia and Dean Arnold, 1410 N. Race, who, together with John's brother, Jimmy were present at the exercises.

Michael and M a r y K a y, children of Dorothy and Bill Henneman, 1200 N. Chicago, shared their birthday celebration last Sunday at a family barbecue party, as they observed their 10th and ninth birthdays, respectively. Present to share in the festivities were their sisters, Patricia, Diane, Christine and Eileen Mary, grandparents, Mrs. Alice Peters and Adam Henneman, and aunt, Miss Shirley Peters, all of Chicago, and aunts, uncles and cousins, the Mark Gamber family of Evanston and the Frank Scheid family from Milwaukee.

A setback in vacation plans was suffered by Doris and Ken Koser, 1327 N. Illinois. They, together with the children, Kenny, Kathleen and Jimmy, arrived at the home of Doris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Durham, Galacia Ill., only to find that her father had suffered a bad fall the day before and was hospitalized. Fortunately, he was not seriously injured, but it put a crimp in everyone's plans. Just as Doris and Ken were to get away for a few days, Kenny became ill, so upon his recovery they returned home. The second week of Ken's vacation went smoothly, and the family enjoyed, among other things, a picnic away from home and entertaining friends. Leaving the children at home, Doris and Ken enjoyed a night out last Saturday with neighbors, Helen and Virgil Marienau. (A

1959-60: A Year to Remember in Prospect Athletics

Impressive Debut for Knights

(Last week Paddock Publications presented a rundown of Arlington high school's 1959-60 athletic year. Prospect high has also terminated a year of prep athletics — the school's inaugural campaign of interscholastic competition.)

By BOB FRISK

Not bad for a bunch of juniors.

That was one person's brief observation of Prospect high school's 1959-60 varsity athletic program.

Agreed. It wasn't a bad year if you're looking for a conservative analysis.

However, 1959-60 should be termed an outstanding athletic year at the Foundry road school, a year that definitely established the Prospect Knights as a power in prep circles. And a year made possible without the aid of a senior class!

FOLLOWING the split from Arlington high, Prospect, a beautiful $3,500,000 plant, went out "on its own" as a school one year away from handling four classes.

Prospect should be proud of its debut in prep athletics with varsity squads made up mostly of junior athletes, boys untested in varsity competition but boys with the desire to make good.

Although every sport played some part in building the Prospect name, football and basketball enjoyed the most pronounced success.

BILL Beckman's gridiron Knights rolled to five victories in seven contests with only a few points separating PHS from an unbeaten season. Halfback Keith Voigt, center Bill Zadel, end Mel Aukamp, and guard Jeff Rogers were honored on the Interim association all-star squad with Rogers, a 6-0, 190-pound junior, gaining special mention on the All-State aggregation.

Lussow, who was honored on three all-league teams during the school year, quarterbacked the Knights and tossed five touchdown passes with Voigt finishing in the runnerup slot in scoring. Zadel, Aukamp, and Rogers were brilliant in the line.

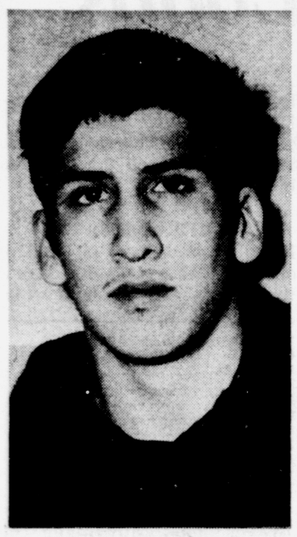
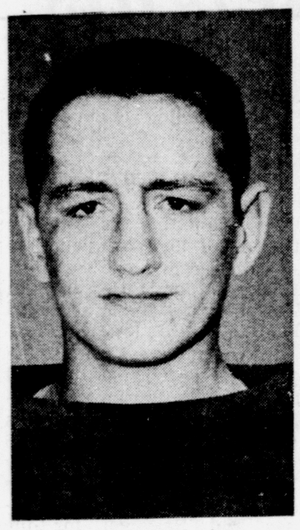
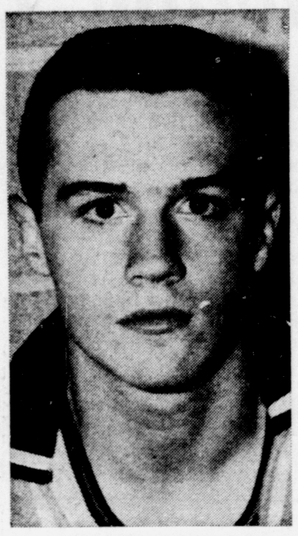
ALTHOUGH these five boys earned post-season plaudits for their grid performances, you can't overlook the efforts of Fred Empkie, Tom Petrosino,



JOE ORTIZ



BILL ZADEL



FRED EMPKIE

KEITH VOIGT

Darryl Phillips, Dennis Leonard, Mike Hogarty, Jim Minikel, Bruce Andrise, et al!

Basketball brought Prospect high even more prep prestige as Dick Kinneman guided his varsity Knights to a 22-2 standard and runnerup spot in the regional tournament. Rated among the prep cage powers all season, Prospect dropped out of tourney competition with a 57-56 overtime loss to Arlington's Cards.

The Knights tied East Leyden's Eagles for the Interim association championship, and Lussow and Zadel repeated their all-league selections in the fall with honor berths in basketball.

LUSSOW, the squad's leading scorer for 1959-60 with 360 points, gained a guard spot on the All-Interim unit with Zadel named at a center. Fred Empkie, more noted for his defensive talents than offensive work, was chosen as a forward on the second team.

Overlooked on the all-star squads but important individuals in the Prospect picture on the hardwood were forward George Pomey, guard Keith Grams, and forward-center Dick Palmer among others.

Football and basketball definitely claimed the most headlines but the seven other sports all had a role in the Prospect high school success story of 1959-60.

BOB MEISSNER'S cross country Knights finished third in the Interim meet behind Proviso West and Wheaton with Rog Luedke fourth among the individuals. Doug Vaughan came in eighth for the local harriers in the varsity test.

Joe Ortiz, the Knights' crack junior wrestler, finished second in the state at 103 pounds behind East Leyden's Sal Fuscone and journeyed downstate with teammate Tom Krause who was ousted in the preliminary rounds at 95 pounds.

Dick Mudge's grapplers boasted sectional runnersup in Krause and Ortiz and a third place finisher in heavyweight Darryl Phillips. Phillips had won a district crown with Ortiz in the runnerup slot.

A VARSITY gymnastics unit coached by Rick Farris registered nine points in the state test at Willowbrook high school. Dick Liebenow finished tenth on rings with Bill Palmer sixth on the parallel bars. Dave Price placed eighth in the all-around.

The spring season didn't prove to be as impressive record-wise as the other campaigns, but there were still flashes of creditable performances.

Pitching depth was definitely lacking on the varsity baseball nine which finished with two wins in 15 contests. Outfielder Lussow completed his rounds of the Interim all-star teams with a berth on the baseball aggregation.

THE DIAMOND squad is looking toward 1961 where that added year of experience is expected to pay off with an improved standard. Chuck Aldrich's Knights showed marked improvement throught the campaign.

With Maine West an overwhelming favorite for the varsity track title in the Interim, Prospect's Bob Scott placed his strength in the frosh-soph division and it resulted in a loop championship. The varsity thincalds picked up 14 points thanks to Jim Glidden, Daryl Boyd, Rich Bachhuber, and the 880 yard relay team.

Boyd was the only Knight making a trip to Champaign for the state cinder finals as he qualified in the discus from the Evanston district.

A NEW COACH headed the Prospect linksmen during the spring, and the Knights finished fourth in the varsity division of the Interim association under Frank Wright.

Jim Palmer fired a 79 for fifth in the Interim meet won by Wheaton's Tigers. Chris Bersted toured Old Orchard in 75 in the district test for one of the season's highlights as Prospect fiinished near the top of the tourney field.

It was a building year for Farris and his varsity tennis squad and Steve Bailey was the only competitor getting past the first round of the Interim meet. Bailey won his first match in No. 3 singles before bowing out.

PROSPECT'S first year of interscholastic competition is now a matter of record—and it's an excellent record.

The future looks promising if the athletes continue to exhibit the desire and hard work needed to reach the top.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

CHECKING THE mailbag:

The Interim association will have a new football coach in the fall . . . Ron Roberts of Chicago's Crane Tech high school will take over as head grid coach at East Leyden, replacing George Bujan who will be the Eagles' new athletic director . . . Bujan replaces Sam England who retired last week . . . England, a personable and capable athletic director, will be missed in prep circles.

Ray Van Asten, 18-year-old Bonita, Calif., high school senior who came to the United States from Australia last November, set a new national high school 880-yard-run record with a 1:51.9 clocking last week.

VIC PAGEL

Vic Pagel, former Maine township high school athlete and one of the outstanding football and baseball players ever produced in the West Suburban conference, is ready for the majors according to his minor league coach . . . Pagel, an All-Stater in both football and baseball at Maine, is playing in Panama City, Fla., and is rated as a brilliant defensive outfielder . . . An infielder in high school, Pagel was switched to center in the minors and the move apparently agrees with the speedster.

Thanks again to Arlington's "A" Club President Mike Dundy and faculty advisor Frank Bohac for the invitation to the club's dinner at the Tally Ho in Park Ridge last week. It was an impressive banquet and enjoyable evening.

Bogie Redmon, the 6-5 junior basketball and track all-stater at Collinsville high, is going to try football this fall at an end slot . . . At 6-5, 225 pounds he'll be bigger than most college ends much less his prep counterparts . . . Redmon wanted to play last fall but knee injuries held him out . . . Al Hutchinson of Arlington Heights earned a varsity baseball letter at DePauw university . . . A sophomore and the team's top utility infielder, Al batted an even .400 in Indiana Collegiate conference competition . . . Dominic Felice, 900 Emerson court, Mt. Prospect, recently achieved angling recognition at Islamorado, Fla., in the Florida Upper Keys summer fishing tournament . . . Felice boated a 42 pound sailfish in the general division of the tourney . . . We've heard of baseball games called on account of darkness or rain, but two Arlington Senior league contests were called due to a graduation last week.

Elmer Munk, 28, 1532 Walnut, Arlington Heights, appears on the first published listing of skin and scuba diving instructors as certified by the Illinois Council of Skin and Scuba Divers, Inc. The tests were taken at a seminar recently conducted in Chicago, and Munk was one of eleven who passed in a field of 35 seasoned instructors from over the entire state.

Varsity golf letter at Northwestern went to Tom Jacobsen of Arlington with Bob Lockwood receiving a varsity track monogram . . . Jim Erickson of Arlington gained frosh numerals in tennis . . . Former West Suburban baseball standouts, Barry Brune, Del Pendegrast, and Jim Humay of Maine township and Ken Lutgens of Downers Grove, gained diamond numerals at NU . . . Palatine's Dick Welty received track numerals at the Evanston school, and Ray Hahnfeld of Palatine received a baseball letter at MacMurray . . . Track numerals at Knox College in Galesburg went to Eugene Crandall of Rolling Meadows, a Palatine high grad, and George Sell of Bensenville . . . Mt. Prospect's Bill Bahnmaier received a baseball letter at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Before Ingemar Johansson ended a 26-year drought, the last non-American to hold the heavyweight boxing championship was Primo Carnera of Italy. We look for Johansson to successfully defend his title Monday evening against Floyd Patterson but expect him to have a lot more trouble than he had in his first meeting with the former champ.

175-5½ Toss State Best Over Years

One May afternoon six years ago an Arlington high senior amazed track fans at the Riverside Relays with a discus effort of 175-5½.

Although not officially recognized as a state mark because it didn't come in a state meet, the discus toss still ranked as the best in Illinois' prep cinder history.

Six years later Dick Winterbauer's discus mark still stands as the state's best with only three boys surpassing 170 feet.

AN examination of the best Illinois marks published in the Chicago Heights Star reveals that only Winterbauer, Cloyd Webb of East St. Louis, and Mike Pyle of New Trier have passed the magic 170 mark.

Webb, holder of the state record at 172-3, got off a 173-10 toss in 1959 for the runnerup slot behind Winterbauer. New Trier's Pyle registered a 172-½ in 1957.

One other Arlington product, high jumper Bill Palmer, owns a spot on the select honor roll. Palmer, state record holder in the high jump, has the sixth best mark of all time at 6-5¼. Palmer established the state record in 1957.

HURDLER Dave Schimmel, an AHS grad in 1956, just missed an honor roll berth with his :19.4 clocking in the 180 yard low hurdles.

The Cards' 880 yard relay quartet of Rich Bader, Bob Lockwood, Charley Yager, and Jack Weber turned in a 1:30.0 effort in 1958, two-tenths of a second off the 1:29.8 of York and Blue Island, co-holders of fourth in the listings.

Only three of the leading honor roll marks were established after 1954. DeKalb's Jimmy Bowers covered a mile in 4:16.1 in 1956, and Bloom's Ron Barbizzi tossed the shot put 59-7¾ in 1959. Evanston's Jimmy Ashmore and Phillips' Bill Martin both own :18.9 clockings in the 180 yard lows, Martin first hitting the time in 1955.

OLDEST "best" on the books is Marsh Miller's :48.8 440 in 1932. Miller is co-holder of the quarter-mile lead with Phillips' John Lattimore. Lattimore is the only athlete heading more than one event as he also is on top of the 220 field with a :20.9 effort.

Newcomers to the honor roll in 1960 are Bloom's Elzie Higginbottom in the 440, Phillips' Jimmy Simmons in the 880, Morton township's Al Carius in the mile run, Maine township's Chuck Mohr in the high jump, Centralia's Gary Wolff in the pole vault, and Hinsdale's Pete Martin and Evanston's Bob Pickens in the shot put.

Hinsdale Cops President's Cup, Checks Lions' Reign

The President's Cup has a new home.

Lyons township high school, winner of the coveted West Suburban conference trophy for 12 straight years, yielded its title to Hinsdale in 1959-60.

The Red Devils, boasting seven West Suburban championships for the school year, captured the Cup with an aggregate 48 points for 16 divisions. LaGrange edged Maine township by a half point for second place.

THE PRESIDENT'S Cup is a traveling trophy awarded annually to the school with the best composite record in all sports except gymnastics. The composite rankings of the schools is determined by adding together the numbers of the place standings of each school in each of the sports. The school with the lowest total gains the Cup.

LaGrange had won the title every year since 1948 with only a tie with Hinsdale in '52 marring an otherwise perfect mark. Since the Cup originated in 1924, six schools have claimed the title with only Arlington and Downers Grove missing a crown.

ARLINGTON high school, a second place finisher in 1958-59, dropped to fifth this season although its varsity units ranked in a tie for third in regard to finishes.

The Cards didn't boast any conference champions but had runnerups in varsity baseball and varsity tennis. Thirds were registered by the varsity football squad and frosh-soph golf unit.

School	Total*	Varsity	Frosh-Soph
Hinsdale	48	23½	24½
LaGrange	54½	31	23½
Maine township	55	24	31
York	68½	43½	24½
Arlington	73	31	42
Glenbard West	83	39	44
Downers Grove	84	43	41
Riverside	109	53	56

—The composite rankings of the schools is determined by adding together the numbers of the place standings of each school in each of the above sports. The school with the lowest total wins the President's Cup.

At the end of the winter campaign Arlington was in eighth place but a strong spring sports season — two seconds, a third, two ties for third, and a tie for fourth—sent the Cards past Glenbard West and Downers Grove in the final standings.

HINSDALE'S seven championships came in frosh-soph football, varsity basketball, varsity wrestling, varsity and frosh-soph tennis, and varsity and frosh-soph golf.

Maine picked up three titles in varsity football, varsity cross country, and varsity baseball and York won frosh-soph cross country, frosh-soph basketball, and frosh-soph track. Downers Grove annexed the frosh-soph wrestling crown with LaGrange claiming both varsity track and frosh-soph baseball.

Only Arlington, Glenbard West, and Riverside-Brookfield failed to win at least one conference title in 1959-60.

Four Games Set On Weekend Card

That uncooperative weatherman who played havoc with the high school baseball schedules this spring is giving Jr. Legion nines the same treatment.

Only two ninth district contests found their way into the record books in the first six scheduled encounters, and it was questionable Tuesday whether or not Wednesday's trio of games would be played.

Three straight days of rain washed out four contests at the outset of the week and left the diamonds in unplayable conditions.

Park Ridge, representing Maine township high school, and Mt. Prospect, representing Prospect high, opened with victories last Saturday afternoon. Park Ridge needed 12 innings to topple Palatine, and Mt. Prospect routed Rolling Meadows 10-0.

EDISON PARK'S affair at Arlington Sunday was postponed as were the Park Ridge at Rolling Meadows, Northlake at Palatine, and Arlington at Mt. Prospect contests Monday.

A full slate of games is slated for the ninth district within the next seven days providing the squads are given a break from the elements. Four games are on the weekend card for area units.

Arlington's legion entry, sponsored by Fernstrom Storage and Van and coached by Dave Lynk and Ken Lane, is scheduled to host Oak Park Friday at Recreation Park at 6 p.m. with contests against Park Ridge and Northlake on the card next week.

GUS HOLZRICHTER'S Mt. Prospect aggregation, sponsored by the Pro Sport Center in Mt. Prospect, travels to Northlake Saturday at 2 p.m., then tangles with Des Plaines Monday at the Maine West high school diamond.

Sponsored by Charles Bruning Co., and coached by Eugene Campion, Rolling Meadows travels to Park Ridge Friday, Des Plaines Saturday, and Palatine Monday for district tilts. The Rolling Meadows nine is handicapped by the lack of a home diamond as the area around Salk Field is being graded.

A brief rundown of the area squads indicates what should be a formidable mound staff for Fernstroms. Lynk has right handers Gene Dahlquist, an All-WSC moundsman for two years; John Lane, Buzz Williams, and Gregg Beckway ready for duty although Beckway is temporarily sidelined by illness.

AROUND THE infield Lynk has Skip Witt at first, a letter winner on the Arlington varsity this spring; Ken Layden and John Rush at second; Bob Hutchinson and Jim Robertson at shortstop; and Gary Erwin and Rog Lindstrom at third. Erwin lettered at the hot corner on the AHS varsity.

Ross Retterer is slated for the top catching slot, backed by Ray Miller, with Miller, Vince Furlong, Frank Hermes, Tim O'Gorman, and Tom McGrath in the outfield. In addition, Lynk plans to use some of his moundsmen in the outfield when they're not pitching.

Holzrichter is in his first year as head man at Mt. Prospect, and the Pro Sport Shop squad jumped off to a fast start with a 10-0 win over Rolling Meadows.

* * *

MT. PROSPECT'S current mound staff consists of Tom Polzin, Chuck Loerzel, Ron Schaeffer, and Mark Thorne with third sacker Chuck Staral also available for pitching duty. Thorne will fill in at first.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

HARVEY FOSTER OF PALATINE and John Nelson of Zion-Benton have been selected by the North Suburban coaches to represent the league on the Suburban All-Stars who play the Chicago All-Stars in a post season game sponsored by the Chicago American. This is one of the sports promotions of Tommy Kouzmanoff, Prep Sports Editor of the American, who resides in Arlington Heights.

Foster was an outstanding catcher for the Pirates and batted .393 as well as leading the team in hits with 19. Nelson did almost all the pitching for the Zion team which led the league until the jam up of postponed games placed too much of a burden on their mound ace.

Nelson pitched 10 league victories for the second place Zion team in his first year of mound duty. Nelson had been an outstanding shortstop but lack of hurlers at Zion brought him to the mound where he gained all-star rating.

Don White of Palatine, a pitcher who had a fine 6-2 record, led the North Suburban conference in batting with a healthy .481 average. White had 14 hits in 29 trips. Palatine high athletes and coaches select the most valuable players in each of the varsity sports with names engraved on an athletic honor roll trophy displayed in the school. Names inscribed this year are Charles Conley in both cross country and wrestling; Wayland Campbell, football; Foster, basketball; Donald Smith, track; William Dietrich, baseball; and Dave Howland, golf.

PALATINE HIGH HAD 89 VARSITY lettermen this past year. Three letter winners are Jon Fabri, Foster, Bradley McCreery, Bernard Seitz, Norman Schuettner, Robert Schneble, and William Smith.

Participation in sports totaled 112 in football, 40 in cross country, 79 in basketball, 83 in wrestling, 119 in track, 94 in baseball, and 17 in golf for a total of 544 of which many were duplications. Spring sports showed a total of 230 boys participating with no duplications. Won and lost records were: FOOTBALL—varsity 3-4 with 1 tie; soph 7-1, JV 2-2, and frosh 0-6 for a total of 12-13. CROSS COUNTRY—varsity 10-0 and frosh-soph 9-1 for a total of 19-1; WRESTLING—varsity 12-4, frosh-soph 11-5, and frosh 3-5 for a total of 26-14; BASKETBALL—varsity 3-17, frosh-soph 9-10, and frosh 6-8 for a total of 18-35; TRACK—varsity 5-6, and frosh-soph 7-5 for a total of 12-11; BASEBALL—varsity 11-6, frosh-soph 9-5, and frosh 2-6 for a total of 22-17; and GOLF—6-6.

For the year Palatine had 115 victories and 97 defeats in dual sports events. Cross Country and wrestling were the most successful on a won and lost basis and were the sports in which Palatine took conference titles along with a tie in golf.

IT IS A LONG TIME until the next high school sports competition comes along but it might be interesting to note that Palatine will open the football season on Saturday, September 17 at Grayslake in a non-conference game and will open the North Suburban season at home against arch rival Barrington on Friday night, September 23.

One of the outstanding prep athletes in the Chicago area is little 5' 7½" Tom Sullivan of St. George High of Evanston. Sullivan, as a junior, ran the 880 in 1:53.1 on May 21 for the best mark ever made by a high school runner in this country. Sullivan has defeated college stars and even one former Olympic athlete in a great season.

Members of the Chicago Catholic League are not members of the state association and can compete against any one they please. Sullivan's coach, Don Amidei, enters him in invitational college meets and AAU competition where other Illinois athletes may not compete. It looks like Sullivan is a great prospect for the Olympic team of 1964.

10 YEARS AGO (June 16, 1950)

The New Six summer baseball league will be the only high school sports activity for the next month. Barrington had a great year just closed with an undefeated football season, championships in both varsity and frosh-soph basketball, and a tie with Ela for the baseball championship. Palatine took the track and golf titles. Dan Osinski of Barrington has the distinction of pitching two no hit games in a row in different conferences. He hurled a 23-0 no hitter against Wauconda to close the Northwest season then followed with a no hit 9-2 win over Elgin in the New Six summer league. In the latter case Osinski aided his own cause with a grand slam home run. Following this Ken Shuett, Barrington's only senior, pitched a 2 hit 16-1 victory over Palatine. Palatine also lost to Marengo 13-3. Arlington closed their high school sports year with a .574 percentage of games won and lost for 18 teams representing the school. Most successful were varsity baseball 13-7, frosh basketball 10-4 and varsity track 6-0.

One LL Team Still Unbeaten In Arlington Heights Loops

Five more down. One to go.

That's the situation among unbeaten Arlington Little League units after another week of action.

Last week six units boasted unbeaten marks in the baseball play with the Northwide Juniors Sox heading the field with four straight wins.

The Sox are still the hottest team in Little League, but they stand alone in the unbeaten ranks. The Yankees, Vikings, Phillies, Lions, and Indians all dropped from the unbeaten class last week as another full slate of games found its way into the record books.

KEN KRISCHKE'S Sox added three more wins and now stand 7-0 in the Northside Juniors loop with a three game lead over the three squads tied for the runnerup spot.

Cubs, Yankees, Indians Triumph

After early morning rains the Rolling Meadows Little League found a break in the weather Sunday and was able to move its 1960 campaign off to a fast start.

The Cubs, Yankees, and Indians won their first three encounters.

A one-hit effort by Bob Hickey highlighted the opening day games as Hickey fanned 14 in the Cubs' 7-1 win over the Sox.

IN OTHER contests the Indians defeated the Braves behind Bejrowski and Tessar, 3-2, as Tessar got the win for his two innings of work. It was a rough mound decision for pitcher Lundgren of the Braves to lose as he pitched no-hit ball for first six innings.

The Indians' victory gave some personal satisfaction to Manager Ed Garrity as it was the first time in three years that his team had beaten the Braves.

Erupting for three runs in the fourth inning, the Yankees toppled the Cards 5-3 with Johnny Hildebrand registering the win.

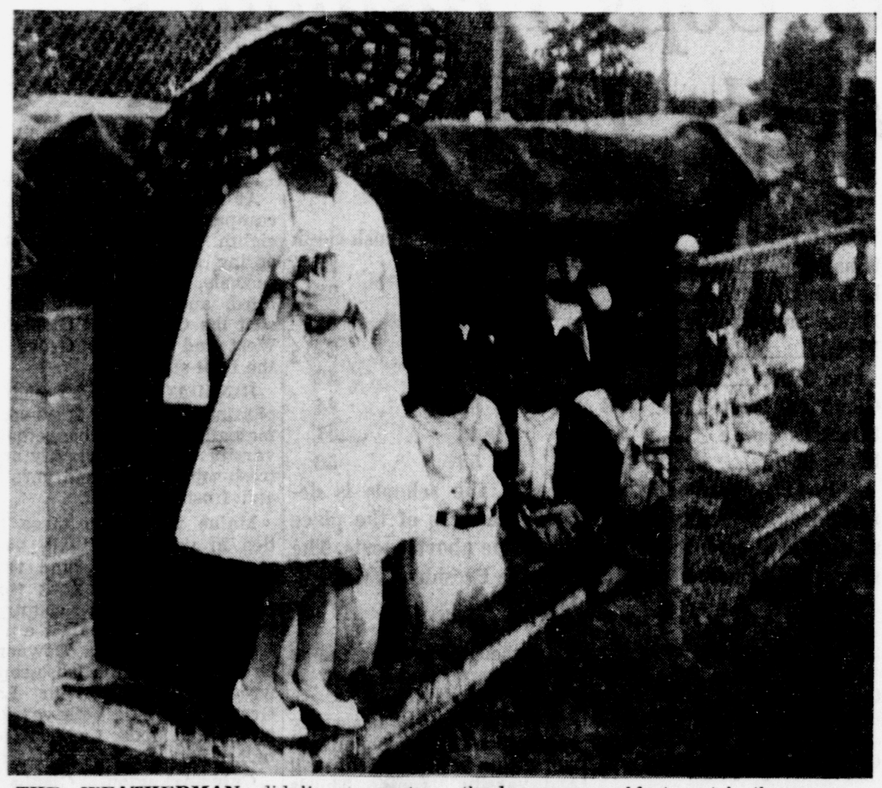
Some 200 theaters throughout the United States will carry the Patterson-Johansson fight via closed circuit television. The Chicago area sites are the State-Lake, Capitol, Uptown, Twins Open Air, Tivoli and Marbro.



THE WEATHERMAN didn't cooperate with Rolling Meadows' Little League on its opening day Sunday as Little League Queen Kathy Blue shows here. However, the league was able to get in three games with the Cubs, Yankees, and Indians registering victories at Lindheimer Field.

Cage Headliner

Wilson, Sloan Head North-South Stars

George Wilson, three-time all-stater from Marshall high school in Chicago, and Jerry Sloan, versatile ace from McLeansboro, will wear the coveted No. 1 on the back of their respective jersies in the North-South basketball game in Champaign Saturday, July 16.

This will designate them as the top vote-getters in balloting among sports editors throughout the state which selected the 10-man squads to compete in this 1960 renewal of the once popular all-star classic.

The game, to be held at the Urbana Armory, was revived this year as a part of the Champaign Centennial celebration.

There is a preponderance of height in the North lineup announced Sunday, with five players on the squad 6-7 or better.

TALLEST PLAYER in the game will be 6-11½ George Clark of Elgin. Others in the 6-7 or better category on the North team are Bill Skea of Batavia at 6-9, George Wilson at 6-8, Bernie Mills of Chicago Dunbar at 6-7 and Bumpy Nixon of Galesburg at 6-6½.

Spin Salario, who coached Marshall high school to two state championships in the past three years, will direct the North team.

The North squad and numbers assigned players will be:

WILSON, the top vote-getter on the two squads, polled 326 points as he received 27 votes as the No. 1 North player out of a possible 34.

The South squad won't be able to match the North in heighth, with only two players in the 6-7 category, Gene Turni of Herrin and Dave Roach of Pinckneyville.

But coach Barney Oldfield, McKendree College basketball coach who will direct the South team, will have some outstanding individual performers.

SLOAN IS one of the state's most sought after prep stars. West Frankfort's Dave Pike was the top scorer in the state tournament this year.

Turni has been a three-year regular at Herrin, playing in two state tournaments.

And he also has two clever guards in Rich Williams of Granite City, who sparkplugged the Warriors' state tournament drive the past season, and highly regarded Bill Edwards of Windsor.

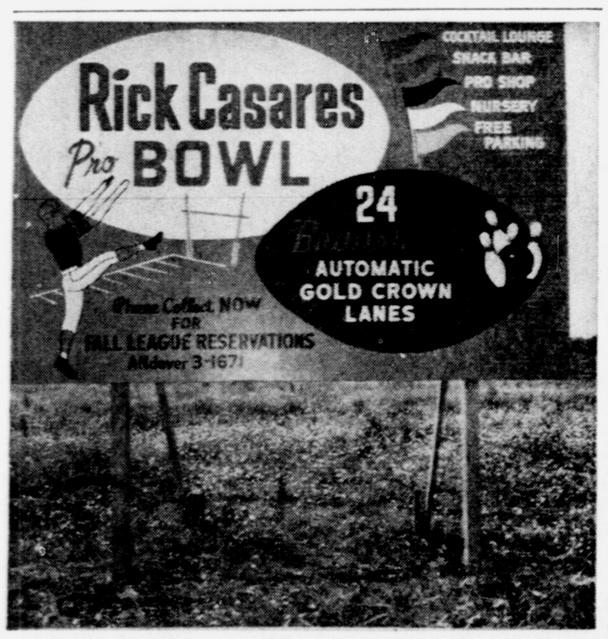
Demolition Race Friday at O'Hare

A demolition race, one of the all-time favorites for auto racing fans, will be offered as a special attraction for Friday night's full program of late model and Cadet races at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park rds. First race is always at 8:30 p.m.

In the late model 25 lap main event, Chicago drivers will once again be trying to break into the exclusive circle of victors which to date has included only suburban speedsters Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Skippy Michaels of Berwyn and Arnie Gardner of St. Charles.

Besides the demolition treat, the late model feature and a 25 lapper for the Cadets, there will also be a trophy dash and heat races. Gates open at 6 p.m. with speed trials at 7.

Wednesday night has now been added to the O'Hare schedule with the debut on a weekly basis of something new and slam-bang - the Thrill division for anyone interested in trying his hand at America's No. 1 spectator sport. Drivers must be 21 or over and have a car no older than 1949 in model.



NEW BOWLING ALLEY and family recreational center scheduled for construction in Wheeling is advertised by this attractive sign. Owner Rick Casares, Chicago Bear fullback, is arranging to have a Trampoline and other equipment installed in the family recreation center. Building will contain 24 automatic bowling lanes, with provisions being made for future expansion. (W

Gets Around

Ingemar Johansson has fought in five countries as a professional — Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Italy and the United States.

LOU SABO demonstrates his putting to Bruno Waara after practically putting his way to the 3-under-par round of 32 on Old Orchard's front nine.

Harris Pharmacy Moves Into Lead Of Scratch Loop

Harris Pharmacy of Arlington Heights took over the lead in the Old Orchard Scratch league last Friday when it amassed eight points on a conclusive team effort. The team rose from its 3rd spot position when Lou Sabo took the initial action with his 3 under par round.

Sabo's hot putter was the main factor as he made stroke saving putts after his ball visited several traps during the evening. Sabo's putter dropped the ball into the cup for birdies on No. 2, No. 4 and No. 5 and for pars on the remaining six holes.

Ben Kronn, No. 3 man of the team, came in to assist the pharmacy when he had eight consecutive pars on the first nine and bogeyed No. 9 on a near missed putt for a 36. These two scores were just about enough to gather all the extra points needed when added to match wins by Jim Keane, Frank Natyas and Bob Hornbostel.

BILL HUGO shot a fine par round of 35 to help his Graft Builders team capture six of the eight points available. Hugo had one birdie and one bogey but was the only player of the evening who could state that although he birdied the 5th hole, he still lost the hole to Dick Burkett who knocked in a 12 foot putt for an eagle. Hugo showed a bit of concern over his steady teammate Reiland who seemed to be in a rut after shooting four consecutive 37 rounds but who finally showed some improvement and scored a fine 36 in defeating his opponent Bill Schwerin.

It's very unusual for a two under sub-par round to take a back seat after an evening's golf event but that's what occurred. Fred Fassnacht retaliated after a bad round last week and scored a two under par 33 on the front nine even though he bogied the No. 8 water hole.

Fassnacht had four (3's), four (4's) and a (5) on his card, for the more difficult front nine. The two under helped Roto Mercury pick up six points. Wayne Rolfs showed Al Greene the finer points of this game they call golf when he mastered the two par three holes on the back nine. The two deuces were the decisive factors in his two under round and coupled with a win by Virgil Rolfs were the only L'Nor Cleaner tally.

THE TIGHTEST match of the evening was one by Til Foy of the Pitzen Motor team and Fred Stinken of the Peterson Floor and Tile team. The teams were in first and second place respectively and the match began when both tied the 10th hole, but from here on they tied nary another hole and when the 18th was reached both had won four holes and lost four holes for a split decision.

Other fine rounds were 37's by Bob Blessing, Paul Ellingsen, Jim Neubauer, John Andrup, Dick Burkett and Ed "the Ram" Moehling.

Next Week's Schedule

Front Nine 4 vs 10—5 vs 8—7 vs 12.

Back Nine—1 vs 3—2 vs 9—6 vs 11.

Match to watch—L. Sabo vs W. Rolfs and L. Arnold vs B. Reiland.

Tigers Name Successor To Menke

Francis Wagner has accepted a contract to join the Crystal Lake Community high school faculty as mathematics instructor and varsity basketball coach.

He succeeds Bob Menke, who recently resigned to go into sales work with Westinghouse.

Wagner comes to Crystal Lake from Shabbona high school. During the past six years as head basketball coach his teams had won 133 games while losing only 33.

TWO YEARS AGO, under Wagner's tutelage, the Indians copped the DeKalb Holiday tournament championship and advanced to the sectionals of that year's state tourney. His team finished the year with an amazing 32 victories against a olne defeat.

During his tenure, Shabbona captured three conference basketball crowns, four baseball titles and two track championships.

Arlington Park To Host Yearling Sales in August

The third annual Illinois Yearling Sales, confidently expected to be the biggest ever staged in the Prairie State, and sponsored by the Illinois Thoroughbred Breeders Foundation, will be held the nights of Aug. 29-30 at swanky Arlington Park, it was announced jointly today by ITBF President J. Grant Scott and the Fasig-Tipton Company, Inc.

Fasig-Tipton, one of the most experienced sales organizations in the world, will conduct the 2-day public affair where at least 100 yearlings are expected to pass before the auctioneer.

In revealing that negotiations with Humphrey S. Finney, president of Fasig-Tipton, have been completed, Scott added:

"WE ARE pleased to have secured beautiful Arlington Park as location for the sales. The late Mr. Lindheimer, executive director of Arlington and Washington Parks, was most gracious in placing the massive plant and all of its available facilities at our disposal for the sales."

With the expectation that some 100 yearlings will go on the block, Fasig-Tipton announced a reduction in the nominating fee for breeders planning to sell in 1960.

"The fee for nominating a yearling to the 1960 Illinois Sales will be only $50.00," explained Scott, "or one-half of last year's fee. We feel the reduction will be an added inducement for local breeders."

DEADLINE FOR all nominations to the 1960 Sales is July 1. Breeders will be receiving nomination blanks in the mail within the week. Nominations will be processed through ITBF headquarters, 4628 W. Monroe, Chicago 44, Ill.

The 1960 auction, the third to be staged in Illinois, is earmarked for success. "When we held our first sales in 1958 at Arlington, it was after the track had closed and racing was being conducted at Hawthorne.

"Now we have the Midwest's greatest racing center, while the races are in progress, and at the height of the summer season — the final week leading up to the Labor Day weekend."

THIS, COUPLED with an unusual demand for Illinois-breds plus a projected stakes and purses outlay of some $500,000 for local-breds in 1961, is sure to boost interest in the 1960 auction and encourage brisk bidding.

The Illinois Yearling Sales is seen as a gauge of the growth of Illinois breeding the past three years. In 1958, the inaugural vendue staged at Arlington in early September, 64 yearlings were sold for a total of $103,500, for an average of $1,617.

Last year's sales were held at William J. Schmidt's North Shore Farm in Northbrook, some seven miles from Arlington. There, at a last minute arrangement, 26 yearlings brought $78,000, for an average of $3,000—nearly a 100 per cent increase over the first sales.

Vern's Pure Oil Takes Golf Lead

Vern's Pure Oil finally took over sole possession of first place in the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect Twilight league last week. Their victim this time was Annen and Busse Realtors 6½-3½.

The Oilers had been in joint ownership of the first place slot with Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes for two weeks but managed to pull ahead after fashioning their fifth victory in six starts for an .833 average and a grand total of 39½ points.

Partial credit for Vern's position should go to Keefer's Pharmacy who turned in a stunning 8-2 victory over Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes. Ironically, while the defeat knocked the Bowling Lanes out of first place and into third, it didn't do much to help Keefer's position. Kirchoff Insurance, a persistent challenger, moved into second place by scoring a narrow 6-4 victory of their own over Carl's Food Shop, and Keefer's had to be satisfied with fourth.

COMING up strong to challenge the top four teams was Golden's Food Shop who scored the first 10-0 "clean sweep" of the season. Their unhappy victim was Kersting's Garden Center which has not been able to play up to their full potentials so far this season.

Low scorers for the evening were Jim Driscoll with a 36 on the first nine and Harrison Dod with a 37 on the back nine. Birdies were scored by W. Welky No. 5 and J. Driscoll No. 8.

Cruising Down The River

Each time I hear the familiar melody of "Cruising Down the River" the title reminds me of one of the earliest camping out experiences Bill and I had as a married couple.

Just before one Memorial Day weekend friends of ours and their two sons, ages 4 and 7, asked us if we would like to spend the holiday weekend on a river cruise. This sounded like some fun and excitement.

When we got to discussing it, we found we were to sleep over night in natural surroundings. First plans called for the women to get 10 yards of curtain material — we bought a real pretty peach marquisette. Then the fellows told us it would be a good idea if we cut this in half and sewed the two halves together lengthwise. This looked like a rather large curtain.

EARLY ON the Saturday of the trip we piled into the car; along with a small suitcase for each there was our peach curtain, and right beside a large canvas and some sort of lantern, plus assorted fishing equipment. When we reached Havana we bought some groceries and 50 pounds of ice.

We then went to the "boat." To my surprise it was an 18 foot, flat bottomed craft, with a rented motor attached. It seemed my ideas were a little in error but it still looked like fun. It was, too.

One of our first stops was at an old "johnboat," a commercial net fishing boat, where the skipper showed us some enormous catfish that he had caught that morning. When we left we went down an outlet of the Illinois river to a camping ground which was full, but they told us of an island about two miles away that we could use; no conveniences but at least a place to sleep.

NOW I FOUND the reason for the curtains and canvas—we made a tent, using the "curtain" for a mosquito net, sleeping on the soft (!?) sandy ground cushioned by blankets.

After getting this set up we decided to do some fishing. The kids, and the rest of us too, had a great time. When we came into a couple of schools of those tasty sunfish and croppies, we pulled in more than enough for our supper.

When we went back to camp, we gathered firewood from the woods on the island, enough to last most of the night besides that to cook on.

BY THE TIME we had played some cards after supper we were tired enough to look forward to sleeping on the blankets and soft sand. Since it had turned cool we slept in all our regular clothes and the extra sweaters we had brought along.

Surprisingly, we did sleep well and after breakfast we folded our equipment and packed to go back home. I made the remark: "Though this was quite different from the river cruise that I had imagined, I don't think I would have had more fun, no matter what natural surroundings I had originally pictured."

Fee Fishing

In the mail recently we received an advertising gimmick called a Money Saver Checkbook. Inside were check-like coupons. One was for free admission to the Fisherman's Dude Ranch, 9600 Golf rd. (Rt. 58) in Des Plaines.

Never having tried so-called "fee fishing" we had our doubts, but because of the free admissions we decided to try it one evening.

Much to our surprise it was very enjoyable. It had beautiful surroundings plus picnic areas, rustic swings and many other facilities, which made it quite a pleasant fishing spot.

ALTHOUGH I didn't catch any fish, it was not because I couldn't; rather that I was too busy assisting our three children, rebaiting hooks and taking their fish off the hooks. We were told the ponds were stocked with Trout principally, along with Bass, Walleye and Bluegill. Fishing off a short pier jutting out into the water, the children hit into a Blue Gill school which kept all busy so there was no time to sample other species of fish. The water was clear and about six or seven feet deep at that location. You can see the fish mouthing the bait, making an interesting spectacle for adults and children.

Anyone interested in fishing should include the children and have some wonderful hours at these reasonable recreation centers. There are several not too far from this area. One in Lisle on Rt. 53 and one near McHenry.

THE CROWDED conditions of fishing areas and lack of time we believe will make sportsmen turn to the fee fishing and fee hunting areas. The open hunting is almost a thing of the past and the way speedboats are taking over open waters fishing seems to be going the same way. Catching the fish at these places seems not to be any easier but more comfortable and entertaining with much less time between fish taking action.

Fur and Feathers

In an earlier article we wrote of a method of cleaning fish and game by skinning, which made less mess and was less time consuming.

Cleaning your birds, especially pheasants, by this method you can save large sections of feathered areas and turn them into beautiful hats. Dip the feathered skin face down into a shallow pan of formaldehyde; then after rinsing with clear water, let dry for 12 to 24 hours and repeat the dipping. The feathers should not be immersed, only the skins.

Hand stitch the feathered skin to any style of hat base you prefer. The natural pattern formed and the coloring make an interesting creation. Trimmed wings treated the same way can also be added for an interesting effect.

With a little ingenuity and forethought, different and interesting hats can be made to enlarge your hat wardrobe.

RABBIT SKINS can be processed in the same way and made into round pill box type hats or also so-called "cossack" style, lined with your choice of lining.

Also with two rabbit skins an interesting fur muff for a child can be very simply made by blindstitching two skins together into a tube shape and lined also.

Those rabbit ears and claws need not be removed and thrown away. Some very interesting effects can be made with them.

Phillies Blast Eagles in Minors league baseball program enjoyed another big week despite the unpredictable weather.

In the National division the Phillies walloped the Eagles 39-3 as Jeff Winterburg rode a comfortable margin to victory. A grand slam homer by Dave Phillips was the big hit for the Phils.

Winterburg needed some of those runs Saturday but couldn't get them as the Hawks defeated the Phillies 7-6 behind Stewart Tyndill.

IN THE American league the Red Sox toppled the Yankees 25-17 as Bill Truce finally stopped the Yanks.

The Athletics won 13-10 behind Crawford and Lind, and the Elks continued to roll along by dumping the Orioles 13-5 as Paul Peterson and Mark Kitzing homered to help pitcher Billy King.

In the final report the Red Sox won again by dumping the Tigers 12-11 despite a bags loaded homer by the loser's Dennis Holste in the second frame.

18 Golf League Leaders To Vie in August Tourney

Eighteen foursomes will tee off in the Paddock Publications Inter-League golf tournament Sunday, Aug. 28, according to advance indications, with three new loops in operation. Four other leagues that applied were necessarily turned down because they did not qualify, including the Hatlen Heights group which does not have eight teams, and others that did not have 50 per cent membership within the Paddock-served area.

This means that first place golfers, 72 strong, will compete for the large traveling trophy, 12 individual medals, and one dozen golf balls in the big event the end of summer. The golf balls are given each year for low individual net with all other awards for team play.

FIRST PLACE teams of the 18 local twilight leagues as of Aug. 13 will be eligible for the tournament at White Pines Sunday, Aug. 28. In event of league ties Aug. 13, league officers will be asked to determine just which foursome will represent the loop.

Entry fee payable by Aug. 20 is just $16 this year, covering exact cost of greens fees for the tournament. There will be no other costs to golfers. Official notification letters along with entry blanks will be sent to loop secretaries this weekend.

DEFENDING CHAMP is Bensenville VFW league entry. The winners in '59, which entered from Itasca country club last season, are competing at Glendale this time.

Golf loops expected to have entries in the event include four from Mt. Prospect country club, Monday Night, Tuesday Night, and two St. Raymond loops; three from Rob Roy golf club, St. James, St. Alphonsus, and Rob Roy Twilight; four from Roselle golf club, Arlington Twilight, Roselle, Hoffman Estates and Pure Oil; three from Old Orchard, Wayside-Colette, VFW Post 981 and Old Orchard Scratch; Friday Night league from Arlington golf club; Bensenville VFW loop from Glendale golf club; Flick-Reedy loop from White Pines golf club; and Tuesday Men's loop from Mohawk golf club.

CHAMPION IN THE Paddock Publications golf tournament last summer was the Tioga VFW Post 2149 of Bensenville. Kneeling in front are Neil McDuffie and Hal Koehler with Ed Bartholomey and Capt. Hal Luxen holding the trophy. The 1960 golf spectacular is slated for Sun., Aug. 25 at White Pines golf club with 18 foursomes set for competition. The various golf league leaders on August 13 will be eligible for the tourney.

59'ers Golf League

The weekly event last Monday and Tuesday of the 59'ers golf league playing at Roselle Golf club was the most 4's, 5's, and 6's per hole with full handicap.

First place was awarded to Shirley Excell, second to Gloria Borkenhagen and third was a tie between Yvonne Bradtke and Bernice Jenkins. Other winners included Shirley Griffith, Dorothy Warder, Jeanne Murphy, Dorothy Lamberti, Helen Sutherland, Ellie Myers, Mary Clouser, Marie Pickering, Nell Robb, Grace Gibson and Dorothy Sicher.

The two-ball mixed foursome planned for last Sunday was postponed to July 10 because of inclement weather.

Patel's No. 3 Unit Holds Lead In Golf League

Angie Patel's unsponsored Team 3 continues as leader of the Hoffman Estates Men's golf league. Wins by Angie himself, Fred Sitzes, Harold Akers and Bruce Berger contributed 11¼ points to last week's total of 51. This increased their lead over Snyder's Hoffman Drugs who are in second place, 8¼ points down. Harold Akers, a nine handicapper for 9 holes, scored a creditable 46 to shave his handicap by a stroke or two.

The Rainbow Inn, led by Dick Thompson, made their move to get out of the cellar by taking 11 from Harve's Food Mart. Dick Thompson and George Robb won three points each while John Steffens and Tony Montikas added two points apiece to their team total. Only Dick Excell won a match for the losing team.

Another big point winner last week was Bud and Bob's Pure Oil, adding 10 to their total. George Lebbing, Capt. Herb Gibson and Chuck Pugh swept their matches with Roselle State Bank. Fortunately Tom Kelley and Dick Anderson came through in fine form and salvaged six points for the bank team.

PLAZA LIQUORS moved up a notch in the standings by winning nine of 16 points from Bowes Motors. Jerry Emrick edged Harry Grover as he does to all the titans of the links at the Roselle Golf club. Fred Miller and Bob Mann also earned points for Plaza while Phil Gibbs and Veryl Hootman scored a few for the losers.

Don Specht's Snyder's Hoffman Drug team is now in undisputed possession of second place as a result of a 7¼ point gain at the expense of Pizza Cottage. Jack Brooks and Harold Magee were match winners, Jack firing a 4 under par 32 for low net honors. Capt. Ray Larson and Harold Gillespie added points to the losers total to keep them in sixth place.

Look for the results of next week's matches. Many fine golfers have been improving their games evenings with their wives (or girl friends) and weekends with their gambling buddies (nickel a hole—6 cents for birdies). At any matches will be hard fought.

Slicers Hold Commanding Golf Lead

The Elicers held a commanding lead in the Hatlen Heights Twilight league last Friday at the Mt. Prospect country club, after they drubbed the Bunkers, 8½ to 5½.

Tom McShane of the Bunkers, Paul Hoppe of the Putters, and Merrill Nelson of the Bogeys picked up the extra low net points in their team matches. Fred Garlock of the Bogeys carded a birdie two on the 13th hole.

Bill Eckenbrecht and Jerry Rolnick replaced Bill Anderson and Al Baugous on the Bunkers and Putters, respectively. Enzo Frediani joined the league as an alternate. Anyone else interested in joining can call John Flint at HE7-4931.

This week's matches, between the Putters and Bunkers, the Duffers and Slicers, and the Bogeys and Hookers could shake up the standings considerably.

Panek Registers Hole-in-One in Friday Golf Play

The Arlington Heights twilight golf league enjoyed a big night last Friday and some of the contributing factors were:

(1) A beautiful evening for golf.

(2) A sad case of weakening eyesight.

(3) The generosity of the management of Roselle golf club.

(4) The fine style of play of two of the league's No. 5 men.

(5) The short downpour of rain at the finish of the evening.

The high point of the evening was the hole-in-one by Ralph Panek on the 160-yard 8th hole of the third nine at Roselle. This was witnessed by three reliable members—Cecil Jamison, Bud Van Ness, and Ernie Simmons.

IT SEEMS that Ralph hit the ball with his five iron and that he is also a very recent member of the "I'm wearing glasses, too" club. He took the glasses off on his impressive drive and wasn't able to follow the flight of the ball as it flew out onto the green and into the cup.

The management of Roselle presented Panek with one dozen of the finest golf balls available.

Not to be outdone, two of the No. 5 men took the low net honors for the evening.

Ed Lyle shot a gross 50 for a net 31 and Bill Gappert followed with a gross 47 and net 34.

THE BIRD shooters for the evening were Ralph Clarbour and Don Magnuson on the 260 yard ninth hole; Len Haines Jr., on the 465 yard 11th hole; Lou Schomburg and Simmons on the 225 yard third hole; Jim Sellers on the 460 yard fourth hole; and Jamison on the 320 yard ninth hole.

And then to top off the evening, the league had a sudden downpour for a few minutes.

Realtors Climbing In Twilight Play

The George O'Day Realtors continued their winning ways in the Monday night division of twilight golf at Mt. Prospect. They won seven points from the Pickett Paint team and are now resting a scant ½ point behind Kruse's Schlitz team. The Schlitzers lost 6½ points to the Mt. Prospect Savings and Loan.

Busse-Biermann Hardware won 5½ points from Busse Motor Sales and moved from sixth to third place, only ½ point ahead of Busse Motor Sales, third after the previous outing.

IT WAS A fine night for birdies. Dick Wistar on 1 and 3, Carl Dilsaver on 14, Ray Krewson on 3 and 5, John Moran on 1, Wally Peterson on 1, Don Henry on 10. Another birdie was scored by Joe Sokal on number 16. Believe it or not, Mr. Sokal was less than one foot away from a hole in one.

Two alternates were in the birdie list, with a birdie by Adkins on number 1 and McBeath on number 8. The low individual net was won by Charlie Sobol with a 39-11-28. The low team net of 136 was won by the George O'Day Realtors. The low individual gross was a tie between Dick Wistar and Ray Krewson with 37.

Ed Hendricks plays on the Mt. Prospect State Bank team. His team is in last place. We understand that Ed is to blame because he plays his best golf while away from Mt. Prospect. He had the honor of scoring a hole in one at the Edgewater Country Clug last Saturday.

Dads To Be Honored Despite June Graduations, Weddings

The June graduate and the June bride and groom annually share the news spotlight and again this year families are busy attending commencement ceremonies of both kinds. Inevitably, too, Dan Cupid can hardly wait to alter the newly acquired "bachelor" degrees with an M.r.s. degree of his own and a few local families are thus doubly busy. In the background of all the hubbub, Dad wonders if anyone remembers that Sunday is Father's Day.

Graduations came in bunches last week and party plans among relatives sometimes became a tangle of conflicting dates. Just as often, though, diploma day was merely hectic. Marguerite Dalton, 522 S. Dunton, was among the children given their eighth grade diplomas Sunday following 12 o'clock mass in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church of Arlington Heights.

A cousin, Jay Davis, 421 S. Dunton was graduated, too, and Jay's brother, Craig, was confirmed in the same church at services Sunday night. A Palatine cousin had a graduation to celebrate, too.

The Davises made party plans first, with two children to honor, so Marguerite swapped congratulations at that celebration. Twenty-one members of the Davis-Dalton families enjoyed the 3 o'clock party that was tucked snugly between Jay's graduation at noon and Craig's confirmation in the evening. When the Davis branch went to the confirmation, the Daltons put in an appearance at the Palatine family party and the busiest day in a long time coasted to an end.

OPEN HOUSE Sunday for 40 local and Chicago friends and relatives served to honor three graduates in the Mark Rightmire family, 116 S. Walnut. Janet was graduated last Thursday night from high school and Jim will receive his eighth grade diploma tonight. Their wee sister, Jean, finished nursery school last month and was solemnly accorded her share of the congratulations that made the rounds.

The party was almost an outdoor affair but joined the multitude of other almost-outdoor affairs that have had to come in out of the rain recently. No one seemed to mind, least of all graduate, j.g., Jean.

THE JACK AND Dwight Guilfoil families commemorated the confirmation Sunday of four children at a small gathering in the home of Jack and his wife, 801 S. Chestnut. Confirmand Jack Jr. shared honors with cousins, Sue, Joyce and Danny, following services in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church Sunday evening.

The high school graduation last Thursday of Carroll Westfall was celebrated over the weekend with two parties in the Westfall home, 843 S. Highland. Saturday night, 20 neighbors and local relatives honored the girl graduate, and out-of-town friends and relatives were Sunday guests at a buffet supper party. Carroll's grandmother, Mrs. George Westfall of Sunnyside Beach in McHenry was a weekend guest here and was joined Sunday by Wisconsin visitors from Genoa City, Twin Lakes and Cudahy. Among arrivals from Twin Lakes was Carroll's grandfather, George Creighton.

A LATE SUPPER party honored Ken and Carol Gabrielsen following their confirmation in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church Sunday evening. Among the guests in the Gabrielsen home, 705 S. Chestnut, were the children's grandparents, the senior Gabrielsens and the Edward Martins, all of Chicago, and sponsors, Nancy and Bill Sedgwick, cousins from Glenview.

Linda Patterson, 1011 S. Dunton was graduated Sunday from Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic grade school but prior plans of a Chicago branch of the family with a high school graduate to honor took precedence on the party line. A party with just the immediate family was fun, though, and Linda is satisfied to wait four years for her big day.

The high school graduation last week of Carol Condon, 314 W. Fairview, brought about a visit from her grandparents, the John Condons, and a great-aunt, Miss Geraldine Johnston of Philipsburg, Pa. The senior Condons and Miss Johnston returned to the east Saturday after a week here sharing the excitement of graduation days and attending the commencement exercises last Thursday night.

A GRADUATION party that was delayed until California family members could be here belatedly honored Robert Katovich, who was graduated June 5 from St. James Catholic school of Arlington Heights. Saturday night, 45 local and Chicago relatives extended congratulations and enjoyed a reunion with the Californians in the Katovich home, 728 N. Dunton. Bob agreed the party was worth postponing until his grandmother, Mrs. Charles Marden, and his uncle and aunt, the Harold Ibsens, arrived from Los Angeles.

Other guests included Bob's godparents, Mrs. Theodore Pacocha of La Grange Park and James Marden of Wood Dale with their families. The Ibsens and Mrs. Marden plan a 2-week stay here visiting relatives in the area while maintaining "home base" at the Katoviches.

THE WILBERT Kastnings, 507 N. Pine, were among local families with two graduations to attend on succeeding nights. Karen, graduated from high shool last Thursday night, and Kathy, a St. Peter Lutheran grade schooler graduating Friday night, shared a small family celebration after the eighth grade commencement exercises Friday. Sharing the double excitement and the double duty party were the girls' grandparents, the Albert Kastnings of Arlington Heights.

Ten family members honored Dawn Nebel, 203 S. Kennicott, at a late party Friday night following her graduation from St. Peter Lutheran grade school.

Kathleen Klehm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Klehm, was also among the Lutheran school graduates and received family congratulations following the commencement exercises Friday night at a party in the Klehm home, Algonquin rd.

FOR FAMILIES with one graduate and one confirmand in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic parish, Sunday's schedule was a snug one. Between masses and after communion, a breakfast honoring the graduates preceded the diploma presentations. Confirmation services began at 7:30 in the evening and family parties puff-puffed into the few hours between.

The Howard Jacks, 642 S. Evergreen, managed though and so did everyone else. Twenty-five family members at the between-times party commemorated the graduation of Eileen and the confirmation of Linda.

A family dinner for 20 in the Henry Wist home, 837 S. Vail, followed Sue's graduation Sunday from Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic school. Sue shared family felicitations and compared diplomas with Juanita, graduated last Thursday night from high school.

Our Lady of the Wayside Confirmand Judy McCormick and her sister, Pat, a graduate of South school, were co-guests of honor at a dinner Sunday in the Stephen Murphy home, 9 S. Salem. The Murphys' son, Terry, was also commemorating his confirmation and congratulations crossed and criss-crossed abundantly.

Guests included Judy's and Pat's parents and the girls' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Coburn of Elkhorn, Wis., who weekended at the McCormick home, 844 S. Vail. Adding her blessings was Terry's sponsor, Mrs. Raymond Martindell of Arlington Heights.

CLAIRE ANN Chelotti was 10 years old Saturday and celebrated at an afternoon cake-and-ice cream session with 10 neighborhood children in her home, 529 S. Highland, Sunday. Claire Ann and her brother, Michael, were confirmed in Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic church. A family buffet supper party commemorated the day and the children shared the congratulations of Grandmother Chelotti of Berwyn and their sponsors, Miss Vivian Miles and F. D. Moore of Arlington Heights.

Linda Baker, graduating tonight from grade school, was hostess a week ago Monday evening at a graduation pizza party for her classmates and their home room teacher, Mr. Swanson. Experienced teen-ager feeders estimate that the amount of pizza needed to fill 20 14-year olds would be measured by the acre, but Mrs. Baker, who made the pizzas herself, says that it only seems that way. Admittedly there was more room in the Baker home, 19 N. Pine, for games and dancing after the pizzas were eaten.

MR. AND MRS. George Loechl of Elkhorn, Wis. were weekend guests at the home of their son, Clarence, and his family, 1213 N. Dunton, and a proud part of the graduation party honoring their granddaughter, Pat, Friday evening. Pat was graduated from high school the night before and recently received a scholarship awarded by the Alpha Nu chapter of the Alpha Omicron sorority of Mt. Prospect. She will attend the Columbia School of Nursing in Chicago in the fall.

Thirty friends and relatives extended congratulations to Pat and to her baby sister, Nan, who had a sort of commencement of her own. Nan graduated from being a baby and was a whole year old Friday. During their weekend stay, the senior Loechls attended the graduation parties of two more grandchildren, Karen Gaspar and Merdith Loechl, in Chicago.

HERE FROM Cedar Rapids, Iowa for a 4-day visit and the high school graduation last Thursday of John Kitch Jr., 1032 S. Dunton, were John's grandmother, Mrs. E. E. Kitch and a cousin, Miss Kathleen Korkosh.

The Charles Rothers family, 710 S. Walnut, Sunday honored Barbara and Janice at a graduation-confirmation party that fit just right into the day's hectic schedule. Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic grade school graduate, Barbara, and Janice, the confirmand, shared the celebration and the blessings of their grandmothers, Mrs. Lillian Rothers of Antioch and Mrs. Albert Kapple of Lake Villa.

Mrs. Walter Oetzell and the children will say goodbye tomorrow to local friends and to the home at 901 S. Dunton and jet to California Saturday to begin residence in the San Fernando valley. Mr. Oetzell was recently transferred to Los Angeles and has been on the west coast since mid-May. The end of the school year also brings an end to the family's separation and the Oetzells will re-unite in a new home in Northridge in the picturesque valley.

MR. AND MRS. K. N. Hull, 713 S. Dunton, will attend commencement exercises in Champaign Saturday as their son, Richard, graduates from the University of Illinois college of law. Richard will take his bar examination early in September.

Twenty local friends and neighbors of the William Trude family, 801 S. Dunton, extended congratulations to the Trudes' daughter, Joan, at a graduation party that immediately followed the high school commencement last Thursday night. Joan tentatively plans to enter Southern Methodist university in Dallas.

A NAVY commission, a sheepskin and a wedding ring are symbols of the most significant week thus far in the currently happy-hectic life of Richard Froembgen, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Froembgen, 823 N. Vail. An ROTC member on the Notre Dame university campus, Richard was commissioned an ensign June 4, was graduated, cum laude, June 5 and last Saturday was married to Miss Bonnie Fluent of Prospect Heights.

Complementing the honor of the "cum laude" notation on Richard's diploma was the privilege of having President Eisenhower deliver the commencement address. Mrs. Froembgen reports, "If the President had been half as ready, willing and able to reach out as I was, we could have shaken hands." Immediately upon returning to Arlington Heights after the graduation in Indiana, the Froembgens completed wedding preparations and Saturday brought another proud and happy occasion.

Full details of the Froembgen-Fluent nuptials will appear soon in the "wedding bells" section of Paddock Publications. The couple is now on a brief honeymoon and will begin residence in Athens, Ga. July 8 when Ens. Froembgen reports for duty with the navy.

ANOTHER commission-diploma-wedding bells cycle will be completed this Saturday when Mike Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Hawkins, 831 S. Vail, takes Miss Hilah Jane Rex of Des Moines as his wife. Newly-commissioned 2nd Lt. Hawkins, also an ROTC member during his campus life, was graduated June 6 from Westminster college in Fulton, Mo. The bridal couple will make their temporary home in Indianapolis as of August 1 when the lieutenant-graduate-groom reports for duty at Ft. Benjamin Harrison.

Fifteen friends and members of the Henry Haiduke family, 711 E. Davis, were the Haidukes' guests Sunday at a graduation dinner in Petricca's lounge following cocktails in the Haiduke home.

The celebration did double duty, honoring Bonita, graduated two weeks ago from St. Patrick Academy for girls in Des Plaines, and her brother, Jeffrey, who received his eighth grade diploma Sunday from Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic school in Arlington Heights. Bonita, employed in the local library, is marking time until she meets the age requirement for beginning stewardess training with one of the airlines. Jeff will enter Notre Dame high school in Niles this fall.

MARJORIE Engelking received double congratulations at a family party for 20 in her home Friday night following commencement exercises of St. Peter Lutheran grade school. Marjorie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Engelking, 218 S. Highland, has a diploma plus a medal, awarded by the local DAR for excellence in history.

Bob Wellman was home at 1610 W. Brown last week for the shortest summer vacation of his young life. He arrived Tuesday from Ferris institute in Big Rapids, Mich. and returned to the campus Monday to begin a summer course. He'll have another quickie vacation at home beginning August 20 before the fall term calls him back to Big Rapids. Bob is studying for a vocation in the printing field and the institute, formerly a general trade school, is currently recognized by the printing industry as the best of its kind.

THE J. NED Graef family, 737 S. Mitchell, spent the weekend in Ft. Wayne, where they attended the wedding Saturday of Mr. Graef's niece, Miss Linda Graef. Diane returned Thursday from a 2-week vacation in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. in order to go to Ft. Wayne with the family and attend her cousin's wedding.

The groom, Chris Salter, is a student at Oberlin college in Ohio and was recently selected to represent the college in a tour of the West Indies, and the couple left immediately for Cuba. It is unlikely that the current "hate America" atmosphere in Cuba will make for a pleasant or instructive visit and Mr. and Mrs. Salter tentatively plan to spend most of the summer in the other islands.

Although it seems from reports that graduating was the sole local activity last week there were a few birthdays to celebrate too. Some were lost in the shuffle but Mike Musich's was not. He turned 6 Saturday, a feat the family duly observed, and Sunday he whooped it up with 10 local friends at an afternoon food n' fun session in the Musich home, 403 N. Chestnut.

A BUSY weekend was in store for the family of Lawrence Moellentine. June 9, Lawrence Jr. was graduated from Arlington high and his brother, James, was graduated from Wilson Junior high June 10. Helping the family to celebrate were the boys' maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ethel Quinnett, Chicago, as well as Mrs. Ina Rickter, Wheeling, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kaegard and family, Glen Ellyn, and Mrs. Elsie Olson, St. Charles.

Two hundred guests were present at a surprise party given for Lawrence by his sister, Nancy, June 11. He is planning to attend Wright Junior College in the fall where he will study "predent" prior to entering Loyola university to continue his study in dentistry.

James will have a lawn supper party with dancing June 18, when 25 of his fellow graduates will be there.

THERE WAS A happy family reunion for the Charles Purvis family at O'Hare field on a recent Thursday evening when Alan and Martin Purvis met their parents returning from a 6-week trip to Hawaii, Japan and Hong Kong. Alan had just returned from Lincoln college where he completed his first year. Martin had been a house guest of the Charles Stadelman family, 503 N. Belmont, during his parents' absence. The Purvis family resides at 506 N. Pine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mills have returned to their home at 205 Drury lane after spending the weekend in Evanston, where they participated in the golden anniversary celebration of the class of 1910 of Northwestern university of which class Mrs. Mills is a member.

A special reception for the class was held Friday afternoon at Scott hall. Friday evening, they were guests of the university at the annual dinner of the Half Century club and the 40 members who were present were duly inducted into the club and presented with golden membership certificates and 50-year pins.

Special honors were also accorded the class following the annual parade Saturday and Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Mills attended the golden reunion dinner at Sargent hall, which was the grand finale of the golden anniversary celebration.

MR. AND MRS. George W. Rose, 1300 Mayfair, were hosts to 24 friends and neighbors Sunday at a buffet supper for Miss Dorothy Rose, who is visiting here from her home in San Bernadino, Cal., and for their daughter, Marilyn, who was graduated from Arlington high school, Thursday.

Marilyn plans to attend the University of Arizona in the fall.

Mrs. A. Basil, 421 Windsor, and her daughter, Joanne, accompanied 31 Girl Scouts for a weekend visiting the Mississippi Palisades, Galena and Dubuque.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Regnell, who have spent the past seven years at their Carlyle place home, are moving to Park Ridge next Monday.

A DINNER DANCE at Old Orchard country club Friday, June 10, marked the close of the Stonegate bridge tournament. Twenty-eight couples cheered this year's prize winners: the Warren Klines, Budd Browns, George Gows, George Weslers, William Dotys, Jack Sullivans, Walt Pearsons, Chuck Edwards, Bill Carnses and Bruce Rasmussens.

Co-chairmen of the dance were last year's winners of the first three places, the George Weslers, Walter Strobels and Jack Sullivans.

Where Ten Miles are a Revelation!

As far as distance is concerned, it may not sound like much of a journey.

But even a brief acquaintance with the "car of cars" constitutes a revelation in modern motoring.

You sense this the instant you settle into the driver's seat. For comfort and spaciousness and luxury have never been more beautifully combined in a motor car.

And then you turn the key—press your toe to the accelerator—and the seat cushion presses against your shoulders to announce you're off!

The car rolls out into the city's traffic in extraordinary silence. The steering wheel moves as if your hands had been blessed with a magic touch.

Then, as the city streets blend into more spacious boulevards, Cadillac's magnificent riding qualities come more keenly to notice.

You seem almost to float over the highway. Any flaws in its surface are simply absorbed before they can make themselves known.

The car moves with an incredible feeling of substance and solidity—and with an inbred sense of mastery over the roadway.

Why not visit your dealer this week—and see for yourself how truly inspiring a motor car can be.

He'll be happy to lend you the keys for the ten most memorable miles of the year!

Hubbard Tank Uses Sound Waves As Curative Power

In this mechanized age with its daily din of jet planes and power lawnmowers, would you favor a doctor's prescription for more sound waves? Fantastic as it may seem, extremely high frequency sound waves have a curative power.

The normal ear can hear waves with a frequency up to somewhere between 15,000 and 22,000 cycles a second. By increasing the frequency to one million a second, high frequency sound waves are created which are inaudible but which relieve the pains of bursitis, arthritis and some muscle sprains and strains.

This process, called ultrasonic therapy, is but one phase of the healing and rehabilitation work carried out in the Physical Therapy Department at Lutheran General hospital. The department, which has just opened, treats both in-patients and out-patients upon prescription from a qualified physician.

ACCORDING TO William Dohse, Chief Physical Therapist, the most outstanding piece of equipment in the department is the Hubbard tank. As he demonstrated, the mechanically operated stretcher immerses the full body in the soothing water in the tank, Dohse explained that the tank is constructed in a modified butterfly pattern. This enables the therapist to reach the patient and assist him, even though the therapist remains outside the tank.

The Hubbard tank is used for severe cases of arthritis and victims of stroke, as well as for paraplegics and quadraplegics.

In addition to the Hubbard tank, there are two sizes of whirlpool baths in the hydrotherapy equipment of the department. The smaller size whirlpool enables a patient to immerse a hand, arm, leg or foot in the bath. The larger size permits the patient to sit upright in the tank completely immersed, while the rapidly swirling, heated water encircles the body.

Summer Culture For Evergreens

Evergreens need little care compared to a flower garden. Here are a few tips that will increase their natural beauty with little effort on the part of the amateur gardener.

First, it is important that all of your trees and shrubs be given fertilizer at least twice a year. Much of the fertilizer is present in most soils, but usually plant performance is greatly improved by the frequent addition of small amounts of any type of recognized fertilizer.

THERE ARE too many types of organic and inorganic fertilizers offered today to make specific recommendations regarding each. ALL ARE GOOD and can be expected to improve the growth and health of your trees. To be on the safe side, apply all fertilizer at one-half the manufacturer's recommended rate, but apply twice as often. Always follow dry fertilizer application with plenty of water.

Second, in importance for summer-time culture is frequent watering of Evergreens. Anytime of the day is all right, but in the evening you will have less water loss from evaporation. Be sure and spray the foliage and soak around the trees once each week except during wet rainy spells. Late fall soaking of the ground is most important, September 15 until freezing weather.

Third, in importance for your summer Evergreen culture is the trimming or pruning of your plants. Evergreens as a group need less trimming than other plants. This is true with the needle-leaf Evergreen, which need little more than shaping. Now is the time to trim your Pines and Spruce after new growth has started. The new buds have a chance to form, and lead shoots will not die because of missing growing points.

Yews and Junipers should be trimmed a little bit and often, anytime it is needed. A sharp knife is the easiest and best tool. It is far better to trim lightly to get the natural soft look rather than the bald-headed look.

THE FOURTH STEP in Evergreen summer culture is spraying for insects and disease. The modern hose-end sprayers offer the homeowner easy, and effective means of controlling both insects and fungus problems.

Any garden store or local nurseryman can give you further information on equipment and spray materials.

Patient Capacity To Be Increased At Sanitarium

A steady rise in the use of the Hinsdale sanitarium and hospital was reported by A. C. Larson, administrator, at a meeting of the hospital's civic advisory council on Tuesday, May 31. The hospital has been operating above its rated capacity of 195 beds consistently since February, according to Mr. Larson, and reached an all-time high in May with an average daily patient census of 202.3.

On one recent occasion, he reported, there were actually 28 patients under the hospital's roof during one 24-hour period. Beds, he said, were requisitioned from every available source, including those ordinarily used in the nurses' training classes, and were set up in every possible corner.

Normally at this time of year, he added, there is a seasonal drop in the hospital census, but there is no indication of any such thing at present.

THE TUESDAY meeting was held for the purpose of discussing progress of the hospital development program under which bed capacity at the San will be increased from 195 to 345, with a corresponding increase in all hospital facilities, staff housing, parking space, and so on.

For this purpose a sum of $4,240,000 must be raised, according to William C. Wichman, Hinsdale, vice president of the General Electric company, and general manager of its Hotpoint division, now serving as chairman for the hospital finance campaign.

Mr. Wichman was present at the meeting and was presented to the council members by Nathaniel M. Symonds, vice president of the Northern Trust company, Chicago, and chairman of the hospital development committee.

Presiding was Leonard J. Koch, Clarendon Hills, president. Among council members present were Mrs. E. W. Kettering, Hinsdale; George A. Arbogast, Hinsdale, vice president; John W. Branta, Downers Grove; Herbert Brook, Hinsdale; B. N. Anderson, Jr., La Grange; Robert D. Innes, La Grange; Fred B. Stearns, Western Springs; William H. Lossie, Westmont; and Mrs. J. MacKenzie Ward, Hinsdale, director of hospital volunteers. (BB

Directory Offered By Plumbers

A new 24-page plumbing contractor directory designed for the public's use, is being offered free of charge by the Plumbing Contractors association of Chicago.

The booklet indicates each plumbing contractor's work specialization through the use of code letters. The contractors are grouped into six specific Chicago-Suburban areas with a clarification of what each area covers and every contractor listed is identified by company name, personal name, address and telephone number. Those listed must abide by the association's "Rules of Ethics" and guarantee their work.

Luke J. Keefe, president of the association, stated that "the directory is a second edition due to the great demand for this material, however, the booklet has been revised and greatly improved for the consumer's use."

In addition, the association will send to those interested a 20-page booklet entitled, "Plumbing Pointers" which was published to help the public recognize and avoid many plumbing problems.

Hints To Home Owners

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

by JAMES FIZZELL,
Assistant Farm Adviser

Dutch elm disease was first discovered in Holland in 1919. By the mid 30's it had spread throughout Europe. The first cases of Elm disease in this country were reported in 1950 when three trees in Cleveland, Ohio, were diagnosed as affected with the disease and were removed.

Three years later, the disease was found to be active in the vicinity of New York City. In the next few years, outbreaks were reported in such widespread localities as New York, New Jersey, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. By this time, the origin of introduction of the disease had become apparent with the interception of Burl elm logs at the port of New York.

These logs, highly prized by furniture makers, were found to contain both the Dutch elm fungus, and the European Elm bark beetle, one of the carriers of the disease. With this discovery, the U. S. department of agriculture issued a quarantine directive regulating important of the logs, but unfortunately the fungus and carriers were already well established without the necessity of further introductions.

IN ILLINOIS, the first diseased tree was found near Mattoon in 1950. By 1954 the disease had hit Cook county.

What is Dutch Elm disease? It is the result of a fungus that invades the water conducting vessels of elm trees. The fungus is carried from diseased to healthy trees primarily by the European elm bark bettle. The beetle with the fungus is what makes Dutch elm disease so disastrous. At egg laying time, the female beetle seeks out dead or dying elm wood with bark intact, and lays her eggs beneath the bark. The larvae which hatch from the eggs burrow tunnels in the outer wood and inner bark.

The fungus grows and fruits abundantly in these tunnels, thousands of spores being borne in a sticky fluid. By the time the beetles have matured they have many spores sticking to their bodies. When they cut their way out of the bark, they carry these spores with them.

UPON emergence, the adult beetles immediately fly to healthy elms and begin to feed. Feeding takes place only in the crotches between small twigs on healthy trees. As beetles chew into the bark, spores are dislodged from their bodies and get into the sap stream of the tree where they reproduce and eventually distribute throughout the tree.

The fungus, growing in the younger sap wood of the tree interferes with water conduction, causing wilting and death of the tree. With death, the tree becomes the breeding place for more beetles, and the cycle begins again.

Control of the disease presents a twofold problem. First, the source of the fungus and the carrier must be removed. This means cutting down and burning all dead or dying elm trees. The bark beetle will not breed in healthy elms and will thus be eliminated. If a stump is left when the tree is cut, the bark must be removed to below soil level. Any logs saved for a fireplace must be completely stripped of their bark.

SECOND, healthy trees must be protected from attack by the beetle. For most adequate protection, healthy trees should be sprayed with DDT yearly. The spray should be applied in April, before the flowers or leaves appear, and must cover all bark surfaces, particularly the crotches of small twigs and branches. Spraying after leaves appear is of little value since the small crotches cannot adequately be covered.

If it is not practical to spray all elms in a community, by all means healthy trees within 1000 feet of a known diseased tree should be sprayed.

With careful and prompt attention to this control program, Dutch elm disease can be controlled and possibly eliminated. For more information, contact your Cook county farm bureau, Arlington Heights.

Q. I sent a birthday gift to a friend almost a month ago, and have had no acknowledgment. Do you think it would be all right if I were to ask this friend if she received my gift?

A. This would be in perfect order, since it may have gone astray. If it should so develop that your friend did receive your gift, maybe your question will remind her of her extreme rudeness.

Q. When a man is invited to be the guest of a woman at a banquet or similar affair, is he supposed to bring her a corsage?

A. Only if the affair is to be a formal one, and he knows she will be wearing an evening dress.

Q. When a couple are to be married, and both are living in a city other than their hometown, should the announcements be sent from that city or from the home of the bride?

A. Wedding announcements are always sent in the name of and from the home of the bride's nearest relatives.

534-Room Motel Opens At O'Hare

The first motel expressly designed and constructed for jet age travellers has opened adjoining O'Hare International airport in Chicago.

The O'Hare Inn, scheduled to be the world's biggest motel with 534 guest rooms when completed, is located on a 32-acre site north of the airport, which is projected to have the world's heaviest jet air traffic concentration by 1965.

The first three of eight wings in the $7½ million motel development were opened several weeks prior to the scheduled inauguration of direct non-stop jet flights from O'Hare to European cities. All wings of the motel will be named after flagships of jet airlines.

THE JET airport motel expects most of its guests to be jet plane passengers departing for or arriving from Europe and U.S. cities.

"Studies of future jet trends showed us that the big jets will need hostelry accommodations right near the airport for people arriving here from smaller cities and bound for long trips all over the world," pointed out C. B. Hurd, the motel's manager.

"As the flying hub of mid-America, the O'Hare airport interchange will get maximum traffic from feeder airlines, trains and busses with jet passengers arriving from all over the midwest for flights to distant parts of the world. Our O'Hare Inn was designed to accommodate comfortably these jet age passengers on their stopover here between planes," he added.

The new O'Hare Inn is also designed as a convenient convention center where jet passengers can arrive and hold a business meeting with a minimum of ground travel. The motel features a convention and trade show hall seating 1200 and closed circuit television facilities to allow guests in every room to see and hear a speaker in the convention hall. Several association meetings have already been booked for the hall in coming weeks, reports Hurd.

"AT O'HARE Inn it is possible for a business organization to have a sales meeting at noon, assembling personnel from every part of the nation, and have these men back on the job the following morning by jet transportation," noted Hurd.

To accommodate jet age businessmen, the O'Hare Inn will have such innovations as a nine-hole, par-3 golf course as well as a special radio-television press room with direct lines to downtown TV stations.

All guest rooms and meeting rooms are completely sound - proofed with special monolite filler and double-thickness thermopane glass at an extra cost of $250,000 to muffle outside jet noises.

Foundation of the O'Hare Inn has been poured to allow for expansion to a possible 1500 units in the future when the adjoining O'Hare airport gets the anticipated traffic flow of 20 million passengers a year upon its completion.

Farm Labor Law Shows Many Unique Features

H. W. HANNAH and
N. G. P. KRUSZ

Farm labor is unique in several ways. It is spread over many individual farm units; the work is often seasonal and involves perishable crops; the unemployment rate is low in parts of the country; and the kinds and hours of work vary considerably even from farm to farm.

All these factors have contributed to 1. a more or less passive interest in farm labor by unions and lawmakers; 2. with a few exceptions, the absence of state and federal laws on farm labor.

One exception is the sometimes intricate provisions in labor laws devised to exclude farm labor. Another important exception is the social security law if one can classify it in part as a labor law. But such laws as workmen's compensation, the fair labor standards act and unemployment compensation do not apply to farm labor.

HOWEVER, SOME persons are giving thought to widening the area of protection. For example, it is said that agricultural labor was originally excluded from the unemployment compensation law because of administrative difficulties. Now the administrative feasibility of covering small employers has been proved by social security. Therefore, the argument goes, why not also include the 1½ million farm workers in the U. S. under unemployment compensation? Those favoring wider protection also say:

—Unemployment is nearly as high for small firms as for large firms.

—Government should safeguard the economic security of farm labor just as it now protects industrial labor.

—In periods of economic stress the personal resources of farm labor are not sufficient for a proper standard of living.

Congress has heard these arguments from time to time when considering amendments to the unemployment compensation law. This is a joint federal-state program: the federal government paying the administration costs and the states collecting taxes from employers (up to 4 per cent of wages on a maximum of $3,000 per worker) and paying the benefits to persons unemployed through no fault of their own. The agricultural exemption in this law has been challenged several times. Each time Congress concluded that unemployment in agriculture was not an acute problem and that there would be record-keeping and reporting difficulties in covering farmers.

THIS LAST POINT certainly has some support. It is a well known fact that farmers dislike record-keeping and reports to government, particularly in busy seasons when more employees are hired and more record-keeping would be required. By actual count, the Illinois Unemployment compensation division has 25 different forms that are required of employers for various situations. Even the thought of having to fill out a few of these forms would invoke the wrath of most farmers.

However, one cannot escape the conclusion that as farm units enlarge, as more farm employees are used per unit, as mechanization and hazards increase on the farm, as hours of farm labor approximate those of industrial labor, and as the security of farm workers becomes a more serious problem, these labor laws will be expanded to include them.

At present in Illinois only employers of four or more employees who work a minimum period come under the unemployment compensation act. This would exclude most farmers. But the trend has been to reduce the number of employees. Up to 1955 an employer was excluded if he had fewer than eight employees--now it is fewer than four.

Certainly including farm labor would eliminate the sometimes artificial and discriminatory coverage of employees of the same employer--those working inside with industrial machines being covered, for example, and those working outside with farm machines not being covered. From the laborer's standpoint, it is difficult to argue convincingly that because he is employed in agriculture he should not enjoy the same legislative benefits as other laborers.

Fitness Day

Two physiology specialists will be at the Arlington Heights Recreation park today Thursday, to conduct the annual 4-H physical fitness tests.

The keeping fit field day will begin at 9:30 a.m., for all boys and girls in the north Cook county area. The two men will collect data on growth, organic fitness, flexibility, strength, speed and endurance.

GOING THAT-A-WAY! says Miss Donna Jean Sarginson, Illinois' 1960 County Fair Queen as she takes time from her busy schedule of visiting county fairs throughout the state to remind citizenry and tourist alike of the great Illinois State Fair. Donna Jean, 18-year-old college coed from Medora, Illinois will adorn ceremonies at the Illinois State Fair when Governor William G. Stratton opens the gates on August 12 for the ten-day run of America's greatest agricultural exposition. —I. D. I. S.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES
with Your Farm Adviser

Since June 5, 1960, no 2, 4-d and related herbicides of high volatile ester formulation, such as the isopropyl ester, shall be used in the agricultural area of Cook County. 2,4-d and related herbicides of low volatile ester formulation or amine formulation may be used provided they are not applied when the wind velocity is such that the chemicals will be blown on susceptible crops with sufficiently low pressure that the spray material will not be carried to susceptible crops.

This regulation will afford some protection to vegetable growers against 2,4-d damage to their vegetable crops. I would advise everyone that uses the 2, 4-d sprays to carefully adhere to the regulations because there are severe penalties connected with the law.

The fly season is here. A few years ago we were successful in almost completely eliminating flies with the use of DDT. We did not quite get the job done. In 1960 we will again see plenty of flies. Besides being a nuisance flies cost money. An average of 25 stable flies per cow can reduce milk flow an average of 17.5 per cent from June to October. Cleaning up old straw stacks and the hay under feed bunks will destroy most stable fly eggs and help to control these blood sucking pests.

INSECTICIDES should be used to supplement the sanitation recommendations for sanitation practices. The following use of insecticides are given by extension entomologists of the University of Illinois Extension service and the Illinois Natural History survey:

Stable flies: Apply either of two repellents, Tabutrex or R-326, daily in an oil-base spray to protect animals during grazing.

House flies: Apply Diazinon or Ronnel as a residual spray on walls and ceiling of barn. Both of these products can be expected to kill house flies for three to five weeks after application.

In order to keep the milk safe, remove animals before spraying and cover all feed, water, and drinking cups. Do not use in the milk house. Read the labels on the containers, and follow the directions carefully.

HOW MANY TIMES have you walked through your corn fields and noticed some stalks that have rotted? You probably wondered whether it was diplodia, gibberella, fusarium charcoal, bacterial or one of a number of other stalk rots. You can answer this question now, by obtaining your copy of a new circular 638 entitled "Cornstalk Rots in Illinois." Contact my office and I will be happy to supply you with a copy. This is a well written, rather detailed publication, carrying many fine illustrations. Dr. Benjamin Koehler, professor of plant pathology, University of Illinois, is the author.

Have you ever wondered how Illinois compares with the neighboring states in the production and yield of soybeans? In 1959 Illinois produced 125,610,000 bushels of soybeans and the average yield per acre was 26.5 bushels. The same year, Ohio produced 38,272,000 bushels and the average yield was 26 bushels per acre. Indiana produced 60,112,000 bushels with an average per acre yield of 26 bushels. In 1959 the U. S. production was 573,895,000 bushels. The average yield being 24 bushels per acre.

In 1930, Illinois produced nearly 7,000,000 bushels of the 14,000,000 produced in the U. S. The average per acre yield in Illinois was 17 bushels, and the U. S. was 13 bushels. We have come a long way, do you not agree?

Wean Lambs To Avoid Parasites

University of Illinois research shows that farmers can stymie internal parasites in lambs by weaning or separating the lambs from the ewes on pasture.

Two years of study at the Dixon Springs experiment station turned up the following facts:

1. Lambs weaned and kept on pasture showed only 38 worm eggs per gram of feces.
2. Lambs on pasture with ewes during the same period showed a build up to about 3,800 eggs per gram of feces.
3. Lambs kept in drylot, with ewes brought in daily from pasture for nursing, showed no evidence of internal parasites.

The Dixon Springs animal scientists feel that these studies may have tremendous possibilities for helping farmers control internal parasites. Early weaning will virtually eliminate the need for drenching and will help insure bigger and healthier lambs for market. (FM

Farm Values Seem Level

Farmland values in Illinois seem to have leveled off. According to a recent survey by the United States department of agriculture, average prices of Illinois farmland rose about 1 per cent in the spring of 1959 and then settled back the same amount during the fall and winter.

The USDA figures are state averages, but there are important variations from these averages. For example much of the 1 per cent decline reported since last summer may be due to a decrease in number of sales of central Illinois land at extremely high prices--$600 to $800 an acre. Such sales often involved 80 acres or other relatively small holdings to be added to neighboring farms.

Some reporters can see no change in prices for average--good farms, even in central Illinois. Reports from the northern and southern parts of the state generally show little or no price decline. Land values in southern Illinois are supported by rapidly rising yields and by comparatively favorable earnings-to-cost relationships. In northern Illinois land values receive support from rapidly expanding industrial and population centers.

NATION-WIDE farm land values rose 1 per cent from November to March, according to the USDA survey and report. Average prices were 3 per cent higher in March this year than a year ago. This 3 per cent increase was spread evenly over the entire 12 months.

Among the 48 states for which records are available, Illinois was alone in showing no increase in land values from March 1959 to March 1960. Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota and Nebraska showed a 1 per cent rise. Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and North Dakota reported a 2 per cent increase, Iowa and Kansas, 3 per cent. In most of the other states--east, south and west-- prices advanced 3 to 7 per cent in the 12 months ended with March.

Price changes during the latest reporting period--that is, November to March--differed significantly in the eastern and the western halves of the country.

IN MOST STATES in the western half, average prices rose 1 to 3 per cent. In the Great Plains and Pacific Coast states, increases averaged 2 to 3 per cent; and in the Rocky Mountain states, 1 per cent.

In the eastern half, prices generally ranged from 2 per cent down to 2 per cent up.

Three states—Minnesota, Missouri and Maine--reported 2 per cent decreases. Illinois, Iowa, Florida and North Carolina listed 1 per cent drops. Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and New York reported no change. Wisconsin, Kentucky and several southern and eastern states had 1 per cent increases. Three states in the eastern half of the nation, Arkansas, Georgia and Pennsylvania, reported increases in land values averaging 2 per cent in the four months ending with March.

Storm-Hurt Trees Need Burlap Wrap

Some trees that blew their tops -- and lost branches and limbs, too -- may need a good wrapping.

These are the ones, notably the thin-barked kind, that lost so much timber during heavy rains, winds, snow and sleet storms of the late spring that they may have become exposed to excessive summer sunlight. You can't apply sunburn lotion, but burlap or paper wrappings around trunks and larger limbs is good protection for woody pets.

Shielding has a twofold purpose. It discourages borer attacks as well as sunscald until recovery is assured.

THIN-BARKED trees, such as birch, red maple, lilac and pin oak, may have to wear their wrappings for at least one and perhaps two years, depending upon how badly they have been injured. This type of first-aid bandaging is appreciated by the foliage. as well as the tree itself, in torrid weather. Wrappings minimize moisture loss through the bark and more water is thus delivered to the leaves.

New transplants are particularly susceptible to sunscald and should be wrapped for moisture-retention, too. Because of imbalance between the abbreviated root system and top, such trees already are moisture deficient and may be susceptible to overexposure to sun from necessary top thinning. Keeping trees in moist condition is the best way to thwart dry bark-loving borers. (FM

Wheeling Bureau Hosts June 23 4-H Show, Tea

Any woman interested in joining the unit or being a guest is asked to call Mrs. A. L. Pukszta at CL 5-4550.

Avoid Touching Sick Cows

Farmers should not put their hands in the mouths of sick cattle, according to Dr. E. I. Pilchard of the veterinary medical diagnostic laboratory operated jointly by the Illinois state department of agriculture and the University of Illinois college of veterinary medicine, Urbana.

Animals showing nervousness may have encephalitis, a name given to brain inflammation or damage from any cause, such as rabies, sporadic bovine encephalitis or lead poisoning. Farmers risk exposing themselves to rabies if the encephalities is caused by this disease.

Dr. Pilchard reported that encephalitis appears to be increasing in Illinois. The diagnostic laboratory found 34 cases of encephalitis in cattle during February, March and April, 1960, compared with 27 cases during the same period last year.

ALTHOUGH THE diagnostic laboratory received only a small percentage of the animals with this condition, the number of diagnosed cases serves as a sort of yardstick, indicating that encephalitis may be becoming more common in cattle.

It is impossible to tell what is causing this condition by just looking at an animal. However, a veterinarian can use field and laboratory tests to pinpoint the cause of brain damage.

Dr. Pilchard advises farmers to watch for signs associated with encephalitis. Cattle may lose condition and act as if blind, or they may become dumb or vicious. They sometimes bellow continuously if encephalitis is caused by rabies.

THIS COW AND NURSING CALF have worked out an efficient way to have their liquid lunch. While mother enjoys the liquid supplement—a new idea in ruminant animal nutrition—baby thrives on the oldest liquid feed in the world. As a balanced food, milk supplies nearly all nutrients to the young animal. The liquid supplement is designed to provide protein to the cow when she needs it. This helps her balance her own ration to get better nutrition. She feeds free-choice on the liquid, which flows into the bunk below the storage tank. Ingredients are molasses, urea nitrogen, ethyl alcohol, phosphoric acid and trace mineral elements.

Modern Etiquette

Q. My fiance has four good friends whom he wishes to serve as ushers at our wedding, while I am having just a maid-of-honor. Is it proper to have four ushers when there are no bridesmaids?

A. This is quite all right. It is not necessary that the number of ushers match that of bridesmaids.

Q. A neighbor's daughter is to be married in my church, and I have received no invitation to the wedding. I should still like very much to attend, and wonder if this would be proper?

A. If the church is so small that invitations must be limited, it would be improper for you to squeeze in. If, however, the church is large, there would be nothing at all wrong with your going and sitting somewhere in the rear of the church.

"Regardless of Fluctuations, no other Chicago or Suburban Savings Institution will pay a higher rate of interest on Savings Deposits than Citizens Bank & Trust Company"

AND WE CAN PROVE IT!

*Here are the advantages you gain by using Citizens' Exclusive Guaranteed Savings System

HIGHER AVERAGE INTEREST

The U.S. Federal Reserve Board has modified its regulations to permit higher average compound interest on savings by extending the grace period on deposits. This new advantage has been automatically incorporated into the unique GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM of Citizens Bank in Park Ridge.

This means that deposits made by the tenth of any month are credited with interest just as though they had been made by the first of the month. In effect, this doubles the potential free earning period of such deposits.

HIGHER ACTUAL INTEREST

In addition, Citizens' GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM, which has consistently paid the highest rate of interest allowed by law since 1956, pays interest which is computed by months instead of quarters or half-years. This method has always made a significant difference compared to most other savings methods. Depending upon withdrawals, it can triple or quadruple, in some cases, the interest actually received on an active account. This advantage remains true in relation to most other savings institutions even though they may promise up to 5%.

AUTOMATIC LOAN PRIVILEGES

With a GUARANTEED SAVINGS account, you need not break your savings plan to make exceptional purchases. You may borrow the money you need at any time by an installment loan at the special rate of 3%, and your savings will continue to earn without interruption.

STRONGER SECURITY

Unlike stocks, bonds, or shares of any kind, deposits made under Citizens GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM are protected, not only by Federal Deposit Insurance, but also by the Exceptional Reserves of Citizens Bank, a fifty-million-dollar institution and depository of the U.S. Government itself.

GREATER AVAILABILITY

In case of emergency, GUARANTEED SAVINGS deposits are always available. They are true bank deposits which are always payable, and immediate funds are assured by the high liquidity of Citizens Bank.

Citizens' exclusive GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM also permits withdrawals at any time — in cash by registered mail or by official bank checks made out to anyone designated by the depositor.

NO CHARGES

There are no charges for these checks under the GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM and there are never any other service charges of any kind.

CONVENIENT FACILITIES

Citizens Bank's six savings windows plus convenient drive-in cages assure quick service. Both deposits and withdrawals may also be made by overnight mail with free postage both ways.

Why not take advantage of this guaranteed method of increasing your savings now? Remember, whether the balance in your account is $5 or $50,000, the interest it earns under Citizens GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM is not dependent on "anticipated" or "current" earnings. Stated simply, this means that regardless of fluctuations, no other Chicago or suburban savings institution will pay a higher rate of interest on savings deposits than Citizens Bank.

Rolling Meadows Bride Wed By Grandfather In Indiana

Repeating their marriage vows before Rev. Cassius U. Kitchen in Woodruff Evangelical United Brethren church of Wolcottville, Ind. May 21 was his granddaughter, Miss Carol Iris Arrasmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy E. Arrasmith, 3402 Sigwalt st., Rolling Meadows, and Allen Eugene Christopher, son of Annie B. Christopher and the late Austin W. Christopher of Anniston, Ala.

Palms, white gladiolas and chrysanthemums provided an attractive setting for the double ring 8 p.m. ceremony as the bride's aunt, Mrs. Violet Claussen of South Milford, played "Ava Maria" as a cello solo. Guest soloist, Mrs. Treva Messner, sang "I Love You Truely," and "Because," to the organ accompaniment of Mrs. Foster Wynan.

WEARING A strand of cultured pearls, a gift from her groom, the bride approached the altar gowned in chantilly lace over white taffeta. The bridal dress was embroidered with white sequins and small pearls and was trimmed with net ruffles.

A crown of pearls held the fingertip veil in place; the bridal bouquet was a spray of miniature white rosebuds and spider chrysanthemums placed on a white Bible, a gift from the bride's sister, Miss Alice Katherine Arrasmith.

SERVING as maid of honor, Miss Arrasmith wore a ballerina-length white nylon dotted swiss gown with a skirt of pink taffeta, and carried a spray of pink carnations. Attired in a pale lace sheath dress over blue taffeta, with which she wore a corsage of yellow rosebuds, was the mother of the girls, Mrs. Arrasmith.

Robert Cooper Brown Jr. of Park Ridge was best man; first cousins of the groom assisting as ushers were Jerry Lee Strayer, Lagrange, Ind., and Richard Lee Claussen of South Milford, Ind.

IMMEDIATELY following the ceremony, friends of the bride and groom, Gerry Bauman of Arlington Heights and Dana Farmer of Rolling Meadows, helped to serve at a reception in the church parlors. Relatives and out-of-town guests were served a wedding supper in the home of Mrs. Rose Strayer of Lagrange, the bride's aunt.

Until further arrangements can be made, the newlyweds are residing in the home of the bride's parents in Rolling Meadows.

An Amazing Weekend

Dear Peg:

Our Girl Scout troop went on its first overnight last weekend. You know, Fern and I started with these girls when they were third grade Brownies and have had the opportunity to see them grow both physically and mentally into very capable, independent little girls. I was never more aware of this than I was last weekend! It's quite amazing to see what children can do when they want to.

Before we left for Sakajawea lodge Saturday, each of the three patrols knew what specific duties it was responsible for during the afternoon, the evening and the next morning. The jobs rotated. If the Red patrol was cleanup patrol during the afternoon it might be either cooking or fire-building that evening and the following morning. Whatever the Red patrol was not doing, the Blue and the White patrols were, so that each had a definite activity as soon as we arrived at the lodge.

With sleeping bags, equipment and very happy faces the girls piled into the four cars which were to take them from school to the lodge. Spirits were high and voices loud all the way out. In about twenty minutes we reached the camp and unloaded the cars and with mixed emotion waved "goodbye" to two of the cars and the helpful mothers who drove them. This left Fern and me and twenty very eager little campers. Without even being reminded, the Red patrol started sweeping out the lodge, the Blues collected wood for the outdoor oven and the White patrol began to unpack the food and prepare the vegetables for dinner (could that be Megan having such fun peeling potatoes? Home was never like this!).

In order to be prepared to receive their second rank badges that evening the girls had to complete one more requirement—trail laying. As soon as each patrol finished its chore it laid a trail in the woods for the others to follow, hiding a candy bar for each girl at the end of it.

Have you ever eaten "Sloppy Joes"—well you haven't lived until you've tasted the favorite food of any scout's cookout. This concoction consists of ground beef, celery, onion and catsup mixed together in a large container and cooked until the proper consistency for spooning out on buns. Nothing ever tasted better, as we sat at the big picnic table that evening.

The fire-builders did a good job finding logs for the campfire and we had a wonderful blaze going by the time Ruth and Kay arrived to help us with our second rank scout ceremony. Each patrol put on a short skit for the entertainment of the others and after singing all the songs we knew several times, we learned some new ones. Watching their faces in the firelight and seeing the eagerness with which they joined in with every suggestion, left no doubt that this was a rare and worthwhile experience that every child should somehow be able to share before she grows up.

Although "lights out" was at ten the leaders were quite lenient about the time when all should be sleeping (realizing the futility of such a curfew anyway). The newness and excitement at sleeping on the floor in a sleeping bag finally gave way to exhaustion and the scouts fell asleep. A sleepy but very happy crew returned to town the next morning and said "goodbye" to each other and scout activities—until next fall.

My love,
Patty.

Hotel Conspiracy Exposed

YOU HAVE ALL UNDOUBTEDLY heard about hard-luck Hannahs in your life. I sometimes have had little patience with these unfortunates as it seemed to me they brought some of their hard luck on themselves. But, I have a friend that suffers from this affliction seemingly through no fault of her own.

She and her husband cannot get decent hotel accommodations at any convention they attend. Husband is the neat, tidy type that writes months in advance stating in clear precise terms just what kind of room he and wifey want. They like TV, beds (comfortable) bathroom, closet, chairs, clean drinking glasses, a few towels. You know, the usual run of stuff that most hotels treat its guests to.

It didn't seem to me that they were asking for the world with a fence around it, but evidently the first convention hotel felt differently. What they got was an iron bed with bars yet, hooks behind the door for their clothes, a straight chair with bars yet, and down the hall (way down) was the bathroom. Furthermore, the hotel was unaware of the invention of TV and possibly of towels.

Nothing daunted, they sent in early reservations to the hotel where the next convention was due to be held. Their requests for accommodations were essentially the same. And, they got them. They just weren't in the same hotel where the convention was conventioning. It seems the airport was closed down due to a lack of ceiling so those due to move out didn't move and my friends couldn't move in. This had them merrily taxiing to and fro. Something they hadn't exactly planned on.

Next time they hopefully followed the same routine of early reservations and specific requests. No TV. Lumpy bed. Easy chair with 50 years of bayrum ground into its back and 50 years of grubby hands on the arms. Every time wife gazed at that chair her stomach would churn and she would come and wail on my shoulder.

This last time I called her as soon as I got into the hotel and asked anxiously if everything was all right. Most everything seemed to be o.k. except the towels from the previous occupants hadn't left yet and the water glasses had all been used. So, I told her that I knew where they could get a nice tent. Nadean Weinrich Married To Chicago Man May 7

After a 2-week wedding trip to the Wagon Wheel lodge in Rockton, Mr. and Mrs. William Jacobsen are residing at 7522 N. Damen, Chicago. The couple were married May 7 in Faith Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, by Rev. Edgar H. Behrens, in a candlelight, double ring service.

The bride is the former Nadean Weinrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weinrich, 825 S. Vail, Arlington Heights, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jacobsen of Chicago.

(Jenart Studios

Organist for the 6:30 service was Theodore Lams and soloist was Mrs. Ruth Kirchhoff, whose selections were "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." White carnations and snap dragons decorated the church for the nuptials.

THE BRIDE, GIVEN in marriage by her father, wore a gown of fine silk white organza fashioned with hand-clipped lace bodice and sprays on the skirt. The full skirt ended in a chapel train. Her 3-tier veil was of French illusion and fell from a French headpiece. She carried white orchids and lily of the valley on a white prayer book, which was a gift from Faith Sunday school where she was a teacher.

Pat Thompson of Arlington Heights was maid of honor to the bride and wore a gown of orchid silk organza over taffeta. Her cascade bouquet was of pale yellow amazon lilies and an orchid with variegated ivy streamers. Bridesmaids were Darlene Harrington and Diana Petersen of Arlington Heights and Dolores Miller of Wheeling. Junior bridesmaid was Debra Steege of Denver, Iowa. All wore gowns identical to the maid of honor's gown and carried the same cascades.

WAYNE JACOBSEN of Chicago, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Ronald Weinrich of Arlington Heights, Ralph Karczewski of Chicago and Dennis Thill of Mt. Prospect. James Perrin of Arlington Heights, was junior usher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Weinrich chose a mauve pink silk organza sheath dress with orchid corsage and white accessories. Mrs. Jaobsen chose a blue crepe dress with white orchid and white accessories.

Three hundred guests attended the wedding reception and dinner held in the Wood Dale fireman's hall.

The new Mrs. Jacobsen was graduated from Arlington high school and is now employed by Nielsen Rating, Evanston. The bridegroom was graduated from Senurz high school, Chicago and is with R. R. Donnelley and Sons Printers, Chicago.

Most of her 15 years in Arlington she was a member of the board.

Arlington Juniors Donate $1300 to Philanthropies

Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club ended its club year by donating $1300 to local and federation philanthropies. Included in this amount was the $566 given to the Brain Research foundation, which was the largest single contribution from any of the junior clubs in the seventh district.

Other charities sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Woman's clubs also received money from the Arlington Juniors. Some of these were CARE, Cancer research Indian Cheer, scholarships for teachers of exceptional children and aid for the perceptually handicapped.

LOCAL philanthropies were also aided by the Juniors. Two scholarships given to Arlington Heights girls headed this list, the remainder of the money going to the public library for reference books for older children, Northwest Family Service, the Easter Seal fund to provide equipment for the crippled in this area, and the Northwest Community hospital's equipment fund. Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and the Northwest YMCA also benefited again this year.

These funds were raised by the ways and means projects of the year: a Las Vegas night, a valentine dance, a fashion show and a spring dinner dance.

BESIDES THESE donations made by the club as a whole, the various committees also made monetary contributions. The orphanage committee donated to a youth center and also gave $100 to the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children. The Clearbrook school also received money from the American home and garden committee and veteran's service. Pub veteran's service. Public health and welfare gave money towards another teaching scholarship for an Arlington girl. American citizenship committee gave funds enabling seven Spanish-American children to attend school.

These are just some of the recipients of the funds contributed by the Arlington Heights Junior Woman's club this year. There is an equally long list of the services given and the time spent by these young women of the area who help make up the great Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. Anyone interested in joining this organization and making next year just as successful may call Mrs. R. C. Decker at C. 3-5711.

"It's My Last Season Too! My Folks Couldn't Stand Another Year!"

The Way We See It

Little League Hard On Parental Prides

The whack of a bat and the dull thud of horsehide slamming into a mitt are once again signaling the arrival of Little League baseball competition.

For the next couple of months, hundreds of families throughout our northwest suburban area will find a large portion of their free time revolving around Little League activities.

Junior will be coached by dad and his team's manager (another dad), and cheered or consoled by mom as the occasion demands.

In all likelihood everyone will have a fine time. Junior will get plenty of fresh air, sunshine, and exercise. His coordination will be sharpened under adult supervision. And perhaps of most benefit, he will be part of a team.

There is, however, another, less pleasant side to Little League, one which we feel deserves the thought of parents.

Earlier this month an area community dad, who serves as a team manager, lost control of himself in the midst of a game and started berating his charges for being "a bunch of dumb kids."

While no doubt rare, the scene is indicative of the competitive pressures, ugly aggressions, and transference of egos exhibited by some parents who evidently feel the family honor will fall or stand on their offspring's performance on the diamond.

In too many instances, a father views his son's inability to hit or catch a baseball as a parental failure publicly displayed. And a mother's wrath is occasionally heaped upon an umpire for calling a third strike against her son.

Pre-game pep rallies have been known to resemble a Knute Rockne locker room scene. And losing households have been plunged into a gloom that would have made the White Sox club house look light hearted last October.

We are not saying it is not important to win. That is the object of the game, which is by nature competitive, just as is marble shooting or hop scotch.

But neither marble shooting, hop scotch, nor Little League baseball is important enough to disrupt a family and make both parents and children miserable.

Ben Lindheimer Was Good Citizen to Area Suburbs

The death of Ben F. Lindheimer on June 5 marked the end of an era not only in the sport he loved, but in the exemplary record of community service he built.

An uneasy truce had existed between northwest suburban residents and Arlington Park since the racing facility was built in 1926. Ben Lindheimer changed all that, elevating the track to the status of "good and respected neighbor" to Arlington Heights, Palatine and Rolling Meadows.

Lindheimer, who led a group of businessmen in acquiring the track in 1940, operated the park on a year-round basis rather than just during the short span of the racing season.

He made the huge facility available for Arlington high school's Prom, the Northwest Home and Garden show, and, recently, the Grand Charity Ball.

The 24 extra police traffic posts manned by the Arlington Heights police force to expedite traffic during the racing season were paid for out of Lindheimer's pocket. The track's own fire department was always available to answer calls for help from neighboring communities through mutual agreements worked out with Mr. Lindheimer.

When Arlington Heights wells ran low, the village was allowed to tap the Arlington Park water system to avert water shortages. The majority owner of Arlington and Washington parks, Lindheimer once financed the Arlington high school debating team's trip to Miami to allow them to compete in national finals.

Besides making a sizable donation to Northwest Community hospital, Lindheimer made provision for the hospital's future through use of the track facility. He executed an agreement whereby the race track may be used once a year for the next 10 years for a benefit for the hospital.

A member of the hospital board of trustees, he also pledged $25,000 to the hospital to be paid in installments of $5,000 a year. May we suggest that when his friends and fellow hospital board members next meet they consider some reciprocal sort of recognition of Mr. Lindheimer's contributions.

It should be forthcoming for a man whose community concern equalled the fervor which he devoted to the "Sport of Kings."

Suburb Stake in Slums

Philip M. Klutznick, Park Forest developer and internationally-known authority on housing, last week predicted doom for the big city unless drastic changes are made in urban renewal projects.

Klutznick, speaking before the annual meeting of the Meropolitan Housing and Planning council of Chicago in the Blackstone hotel, called for a three to four billion dollar, federally-subsidized, 20-year program to clear slums from our cities.

"This may be tough to swallow," the expert said, "but either we swallow it and leave the next generation live and viable cities, or we evade the issue, balance our cash budgets, and leave posterity an inheritance of slums, filth, and increasingly unlivable cities."

Klutznick's remarks, though directed principally at members of the Chicago council, are of vital concern to the suburban resident of the metropolitan area.

Suburbs, as the word implies, are completely dependent on the large city for their subsistence. In Chicago's northwest suburbs alone, 75 per cent of the heads of families work in the city.

The tendency of today's suburbanite is to minimize the importance of the city in his daily life.

The Chicago situation may be peculiar; many newcomers to its suburbs will say they moved out to get away from "corruption." Klutznick probably would say they moved to escape the creeping blight.

No matter what the cause, they have moved, and have tried to shut out of their minds the things they left behind.

A great part of the educational process needed to stimulate real interest in urban renewal will have to be focused on the spokes of the metropolitan wheel.

The suburbanite will have to realize that he has as great a stake in the rehabilitation of his bread and butter area as the lowest slum-dweller.

The World at Large

Why Rocky Gave Blast

Nixon's Gyrations Irked Rockefeller

by WILLIAM L. DULANEY

Why did New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller come out with an eleventh hour blast at Vice President Nixon?

This question is raising much speculation among political pundits.

Some view the governor's action as a bold, last-ditch effort to gain his party's presidential nomination next month in Chicago.

Others see it designed to wreck Nixon's bid for the presidency this year and pave the way for Rockefeller in 1964.

Still others view it as an unmistakable assertion by Rockefeller that he is not available for the vice presidential nomination.

THE ANSWER, however, may be gotten from such an unlikely source as Nixon's high school debating coach.

Said Mrs. Norman Vincent:

"He (Nixon) had this ability to kind of slide around an argument instead of meeting it head on, and he could take any side of a debate."

It is likely this "ability" that prompted Rockefeller to speak last week when he said:

"The path of great leadership does not lie along the top of a fence . . . the people want and need one thing above all others; a leadership of clear purpose, candidly proclaimed."

TRUE, THE governor would like to exercise such leadership this year, four years from now, or four years from then. But Rockefeller's comments were not those of an opportunist. They were frank and open expressions of a man deeply concerned with the future of the GOP and where the number one contender for leadership of the party — Nixon — proposes to lead it.

The governor's concerns are valid.

It is amazing that when one glances over Nixon's career, there is hardly a single item of substantive policy with which he can be identified.

Also amazing is his ability to fit any of the major factions of his party while being identified with none.

It is yet more astonishing when one recalls there have been few public issues in Nixon's time on which he hasn't taken a stand. As the vice president pointed out in reply to Rockefeller, he has held nearly 50 news conferences in the past year, many with no holds barred.

YET HIS stands lack enthusiasm, conviction, or depth. It appears he never picks up enough speed to prevent his reversing field if the political winds so dictate. As one Nixon biographer noted, it's as if he deplores sin without hating it.

On most domestic issues he has been conservative in the traditional Republican manner, though graced with a liberal tinge, particularly in regards to civil rights and old age health benefits.

In foreign affairs, Nixon first says one thing, then the opposite, but carefully avoids being tagged an isolationist. He has eloquently pleaded with congressmen not to wreck the President's foreign aid program by cutting a cent from the President's request. When congress ignored his pleas, Nixon — equally eloquent — told the voters that Republican government was cutting back on foreign aid to save the taxpayer's money.

Perhaps it is these gyrations that prompted Rockefeller to protest that neither the Republican party nor the nation can "march to meet the future with a banner aloft whose only emblem is a question mark."

Church Convention Coverage Results in Studied Yawns

by MARTIN E. MARTY

Hardly a day passes in May or June but the metropolitan newspapers carry wire service stories of great denominational conventions. Detailed reports of their activities and pronouncements greet our eyes, and the bewildering array of materials at first seem enormously complicated. As a journalist covering these conventions a couple of years ago I learned several principles which should help the reader sort his way through them. Try this out on what you have been reading this year:

1) They are all the same. My own viewpoint in American churchdom does not permit the globbing together of all the churches on terms of least common denomination. At the same time it is critical of the hyper - denominationalism that characterizes the separate churches in action. What is interesting to me is the interchangeability of the conventions. A slight change of personalities is visible as one moves from hall to hall or city to city, but the claims made for each are roughly the same.

2) THEY WILL all report progress. These are days for 'bigger and better'. Anyone interested in the Christian cause should rejoice at the 'bigger' but as he observes the conventions in action he should ask whether all the progress necessarily means 'better.' We who observe the churches in retreat in so many areas (the inner city is one example) have to ask twice whether it is always a boon to create the impression that the churches have virtually triumphed in spreading the Christian Gospel.

3) They will all make a big fuss over their democratic character. No denominational leader would be caught suggesting that his group and its polity take a second seat to anyone in the matter of freedom and democracy. For some reason or other this has become a sort of fetish with most groups; again, as an old time observer of them all in action I would say that those who boast of this the most are most uneasy because they are providing for it least. When I read the statements of the conventions and then see the local counterparts within each denomination I can see little tie-in. A powerful leader or a clever parliamentarian or a public relations-wise committee pretty much "runs the show." Even the bases for selection of representatives (in most groups, seniority and 'safety') militates against representative expression.

4) THEY WILL all speak out on a Big Issue. Each year it is something. This year for most Protestants it is necessary to show either how much they are devoted to Freedom or how much they are devoted to Tolerance, depending on how they stand on the issue of a Roman Catholic president. This Makes Headlines. Seldom do these publicity-seeking issues have much to do with church life. Also, interestingly enough, they come most noisily from groups that protest most loudly that no one (e.g., National Council of Churches study groups) can speak for them.

Such conventions are necessary, and some of the Lord's work is no doubt carried on through them. But practice makes perfect for newspaper readers who use the studied yawn to help them survive the denominations' claims for uniqueness or significance. With them, but at least as much in spite of them, representative Christian work proceeds, at the more inclusive (one, holy, Christian Church) and local (congregational) levels.

Those are the two strata of church life that interest me. Maybe we can work, more and more, to eliminate the 'middle man'. Attend four denominational conventions in one year, and you'll be ready to.

Once a Faceless City Cipher

Suburbanite Becomes Political Participant

by PHILIP NELSON

I was a faceless cipher. Now my number is up on the village scoreboard.

"You are a hero," the testimonial read. "Through efforts like yours, the Party won its last election."

Nervelessly, I let the testimonial slip to the floor. My time had come. The Party wanted me again.

I panicked, thought quickly of growing a beard, changing my name. . . . Useless. The last time I donned a wax nose and John L. Lewis eyebrows, kids had followed for blocks. Someone I hadn't seen in months whacked me on the back, and said: "Hiya, Phil, you're looking good."

I groaned, glanced listlessly at the covering letter, which read: "You . . . selected, to represent . . . . caucus . . . election . . . . in your district."

FEARFULLY, I glanced over my shoulder. Big Brother's face did not flicker on a screen. Carefully, I counted fingers. All there. No voice blared out, no accusing hand pointed. But I was trapped.

The Other Party were Rats. Weren't they in power? Hadn't their filthy fingers been in the village treasury long enough? I groaned. Inexorable logic put my back to the wall. We must fight.

Now came interminable selecting of candidates, bickering of interviewees. "I tell you, his wife drinks like a fish. The marshal picked her up in the gutter three times. . . ." and "What's the matter with you? Did you forget this guy's playin' us like a yo-yo? Every other year, he comes back to Our Party. . . ." or "You muttonhead, she's a divorcee. Her morals are as loose as her false teeth. Do you want to give the Party a Bad Name?"

We select Our Candidates. They're impeccable. One's Catholic, one Protestant, one Jewish. Their records are flawless, the usual Be Kind to Your Mother week advocates, Save a Kitten for Korea, Collect Voodoo Drums for Haiti.

Haloes are untarnished for about a week. Then, we learn the Catholic has vanished to South America with his pretty, married secretary, the Protestant has robbed the petty cash box and the Jew has converted to Catholicism. It begins again.

THIS TIME, we have a fool proof slate. No one is going to question a minister, a former member of the FBI and a descendent of the DAR. We have tossed in a few names for flavor.

On the caucus floor, tallies begin. We relax. Our Blue Ribbon candidates are showing up strong. And then we strike a snag.

One strong delegation is holding back the majority required. We slip out to harangue the delegation leader. He is inflexible. His wife's cousin had gone to school with an alternate candidate.

We rant to no avail, then toss in a compromise. The candidate we agree on is no one's choice. Back on the floor for a further tally, there is an uproar.

Another delegation is unhappy. We made a deal, they charge. Again, we slip out to harangue.

When the counting's done, we find ourselves facing three candidates, one whose wife drinks like a fish, the "yo-yo" and the gal with the loose morals. Consternation. Everyone looks green except the three candidates, who are beaming and on the platform making impossible campaign speeches.

We soak the wife of one candidate dry, fill her with black coffee, duck her in showers, sign her up with A.A., comb the gutters, bribe tavernkeepers and loose-jawed cops. As for the "yo-yo," the Other Party can't say anything too bad, since he has, on alternate campaigns, been one of their own leading candidates. All we have to fear is the doublecross — once he's in.

BUT THE loose-moraled vixen, she's a real problem. We sit her down at teas, flank her on either side by men with armorplate virtues, torn between sending her to a convent or marrying her off to a high school principal, a confirmed bachelor, interested only in collecting rare beetles.

"Slander," we yell, at first opposition speeches. "Libel," we charge, as the opposition paper rolls nasty black headlines.

Election over, we stare at each other in sheer amazement — we have won. Our three miserable candidates have captured the voters' imagination. I have rung doorbells and talked until I have lost my voice, been splashed by paper bags filled with water, set upon by grim-visaged mastiffs and fled for my life from trained monsters of the opposition's children, who hunt in packs. But we've won!

I COLLAPSE into bed, weak, exhausted. For two weeks, I suffer a breakdown, and the doctor later tells me I raved in my delirium something about — "dunk her in the shower until she dries out—," and "tie his hands, the Judas."

Gradually, I recover, witness the installation of our candidates in the government, back at normal again. Then it starts.

"They're Rats," the opposition shout. "Aren't they in power? Haven't they had their filthy fingers in the treasury long enough?

Nerve. Our Candidates are spotless. They're just trying to get their greedy, sticky paws in the trough again.

ONCE, I WAS a faceless cipher — when I lived in the Big City. But now, here, in the suburbs, they've got my number. I'm a Do-er or Die-er. Gone are all thoughts of flight, disguise. Again, I am prepared to give battle.

We have three new candidates. One's a doctor, one, a college professor. The third's a former cohort of Albert Schweitzer. An impeccable slate.

Halfway through our caucus, first rumors arrive. The doctor's been convicted of illegal operations in Missouri, the professor's been nabbed in three bookie raids and the Schweitzer cohort absconded with a chieftan's treasury and tons of bandages.

My doorbell is ringing, but my ears are plugged with cotton. Maybe they won't find me under the bed. Maybe, they'll go away after awhile.

More Respect Is Due Flag

This is my fourth attempt to write to you, the first three ended in the waste-paper basket, so I am just going to go on and mail this one, even though it probably won't satisfy me by the time I am finished. I've been reading your newspaper with a great deal of interest ever since we moved to Palatine, and with even more interest since I've become acquainted with your charming wife. We live in the same general area as you.

I am hoping you will write an editorial about our flag. On Memorial Day I watched the parade, and it was a fine one for Palatine-the participants appeared full of enthusiasm and inspiration--but the people along the way! They watched the parade and waved and called to their friends among the marchers, but such a small handful honored our flag as it passed by. How can we teach our children to respect the flag, when adults treat it in such a casual fashion? No amount of teaching does a tenth as much as example.

I HOPE NEVER to become so deadened to life that I will fail to feel extreme emotion when our Flag passes by. I cannot believe I am in the minority. It represents so much to all of us--but what will it mean in years to come, if we fail to give it the meaning it deserves? I feel nothing Communism could do could undermine our country much more than disrespect for our Flag and all it means, or should mean, to us. It is the embodiment of our history.

Even during the service at the Legion hall, there was so much talking and confusion one could hardly hear a word-and even during the playing of "taps" and the National Anthem not too many people stood at attention.

AFTER HAVING read many of your articles, I know you could write a wonderful one on this topic-if you will. I had hoped to get this to your office before Flag Day, but I had forgotten the newspaper would not be out until after that, so you may consider it not an appropriate time for such an editorial. If not — please stick the idea away some place and use it before the next time it will be.

I'm sorry this is so incoherent, and so many mistakes, but I just cannot express myself clearly on any subject that I am so emotional about, and that means as much to me as the way our Flag is treated.

I am not alone in feeling the flag was not shown proper respect-many of the adults marching in the parade commented on it.

Defends Church Bells Ringing

To the people who are disturbed by the ringing of church bells. This is a free country — you are not obliged to live within earshot of church bells if they annoy you.

As for us, ring them loud and long to remind us that God is still in His heaven and we are still free people.

Perhaps they would like to live in Russia where they are forbidden — or maybe that's where they came from.

Village Band Concert Tip

I wish to express my appreciation for the excellent concerts by the Palatine Village Band presented Friday evenings in the Village Triangle. However, I believe that the band will draw more people if they would give their programs in the Community Park. There was talk of this last year, what happened?

Says Thank You For Prom Help

Please help me to express my warmest personal appreciation to all the many wonderful people involved in making the first After-the-Prom celebration at Prospect high school the great success it was.

First — the kids themselves Never have any of us seen such a fine group of young people have such a good time in such a nice way!

Second — to all those who spent countless hours behind the scenes, especially the chairman of the committees: Barbara Brown, decorations; Bob Hunter, publicity; Norm Bendell, food; Bob Smith, entertainment; Marie Glaser, tickets; Jerry West, traffic; Cliff Page, clean-up; Evelyn Lussow, prizes; John Haas, by-laws; Mary Zadel, treasurer; and Grace Mott, secretary.

THIRD — TO all the merchants in Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights, and Wheeling who added to the evening's fun by their splendid donations.

A special thanks to people who had no children in Prospect high and yet worked so diligently.

And — to this fine newspaper which gave us the publicity boost we needed and was on hand to record the fun.

It has been a real pleasure to know and to work with you. Thank you all.

Cavallo Earns High Plaudits

The Community Council of Elk Grove at its recent meeting discussed the resignation of Mr. Ernest Cavallo as Superintendent of Schools, District 59. Mr. Cavallo's departure from the scene of administration will apply the termination part in representing schools in the Comm. Council. Reluctantly, we must follow Mr. Cavallo's choice and thus do without his leadership in our Council.

This we must do with regret because we think of him as the founder and guiding spirit of this Council. As a "pioneer" in the School District during the period of its rapid growth and most particularly during the rise of population in Elk Grove Village, Mr. Cavallo immediately and creatively concerned himself with issues larger than merely seeing to the technical equipment of the schools. He foresaw the complex problems of human relations, the change in intergroup relations, the necessity for planning and cooperation that would be necessary as the farmlands of the township were displaced by thousands of families.

SO IT WAS that Mr. Cavallo invited in leaders of the various community agencies, the educators, ministers, civic leaders, builders, chairmen of service organizations and clubs, and encouraged them to coordinate their plans and work together.

It was this encouragement and creative vision that led to the formation of the Community Council, a unique type of organization which serves as a clearing-house for ideas and a chance for separate groups to coordinate their plans without surrendering their autonomy. Being chairman of such a group in the first year of its life was a difficult task which Mr. Cavallo carried off with efficiency and a spirit of dedication. The relative maturity of the Council is in no small part a tribute to his interest, and we are concerned lest his departure represent a diminution of energy directed toward community betterment.

In Mr. Cavallo we have seen a tireless and unselfish community leader whose departure from the school scene we accept, as we said, reluctantly, whose memory we would like to serve through continued cooperation, and whose presence we shall welcome at all our community affairs in the future.

Gives Credit Where It's Due

Although I enjoyed with others the fine article in last week's Register, June 2, describing the Memorial Day parade in Itasca, I felt there was one glaring omission and one sad error.

No mention was made in the length article telling about the floats and the ceremony of the Lake Park high school band, 40 strong, which certainly added spirit to the occasion as they stepped out to head the parade.

Furthermore, the attractive new dark blue uniforms with their white shields covering the front were appearing in public parade for the first time, and surely that alone deserved some mention. After all, what is a parade without band music?

With all due and deserved credit to Haakon Sandsmark for the fine contribution he has made to Scouting in Itasca for 12 years, I take exception to the statement in the article "Sandsmark organized Scouting in Itasca 12 years ago."

Twelve years ago was 1948, and by that year my oldest son had gone through three years of Cubbing here and had been active for two years in Boy Scouts. Prior to Mr. Sandsmark's years as Cubmaster, great service was rendered to the boys (and parents) of this town by Herb Walther, Andrew Engstrom, and possibly even other Cubmasters.

As far back as 1930-32, Arthur C. Hoveland, principal of the grade school, served as a much beloved Scoutmaster until his untimely death.

I am not tracing Scouting back as far as it possibly went, but for the sake of history, truth, and credit where credit is due, the error of the above statement should not be allowed to stand unchallenged.

Let's Credit Good Teenagers

I wish to thank you for the wonderful job you did on the publicity for our recent (and first) Jaycee scholarship program. I had always had the opinion that many stories were twisted around to read differently than the actual happenings. I see different now though and see the truth of things.

There is one thing however that I wish happened and that is to see more publicity on the good things of our youngsters. Usually the only things said are bad, why is that?

In working on this project for the Jaycees' and seeing at the interviews at the judging, I saw many things that I didn't know even exist. For example, how many school clubs there are and what our students do to run them. How many things that the kids do to help their community and to make it a better place to live. Helping build playgrounds, working on youth projects to help the younger children in the community and things such as these, to name just a few. The things our youth do in the church. The projects they work on and the youth fellowship.

Can't a little more credit be given to the youth and more publicity to stimulate the interests of the other kids around school? Maybe I'm just seeing more of the good things since I was chairman of a project such as this, but I wish that a few more people were a little more interested and helped in something like this. It certainly was a pleasure to take part in a program such as this and again I wish to thank you for the publicity.

Downstaters Like Coverage

We are writing in regards to the honor you have paid our track and field athletes the past few seasons. We sincerely appreciate what you do for all track and field men. And especially we here in the central and southern part of the state get very little attention from the northern sports writers in track and field. However, we realize this is because our efforts do not compare with the schools up north that have winter training facilities.

Once again, I wish to thank you for your excellent work in this sports field.

Why Disobey Commandment?

This is to inform the American people of the labor that is given to the military program of this country, for it is this work that is encouraging people of a foreign country to disobey the First Commandment. Only when we fear the Lord do we know whose side we were on. We must awake out of our sleep and be like the Lord at the time the children of Israel were afflicted. We must help the afflicted people, not help people from affliction.

When we really have our eyes open we will see that Russia is not enforcing anyone of its enslaved countries to disobey the First Commandment. If we accuse Russia of doing wrong, we accuse God of doing wrong and being without wisdom.

Young Adults Plan Picnic

To begin their summer activities, the Northwest Suburban Young Adult Fellowship has planned a picnic for Sunday, June 19, at 3:00 p.m., in the Methodist Camp Grounds, Des Plaines.

There will be baseball, volleyball, and if you are brave, a swim in the Camp Grounds pool, so bring your bathing suit.

A picnic supper of hamburgers, hot dogs and other little goodies will be served later in the afternoon for the charge of $1 per person.

To top off the evening, there will be fellowship singing around the campfire and an opportunity to meet Rev. Rode, the new advisor.

THE YOUNG Adult Fellowship has made plans for a summer of fun and fellowship. Plans have been made to attend the International Trade Fair, Ravinia Festival and Riverview, plus a beach party and boat trip.

All single Protestant young adults in the Northwest Suburban area are invited, especially June graduates and college students, to join in our summer activities.

Further information about the group and its activities may be obtained by calling John Culton, VA 7-3841 or Edie Helfers, CL 3-1876. (B8

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it really considered improper to write social letters in pencil?

A. If you really must, you certainly should apologize and explain your reason for not being able to write in ink.

Q. When a secretary is ushering an expected visitor into her employer's office, what form of introduction does she make when she knows the two men concerned do not know each other?

A. All she has to do is merely announce the visitor — "Mr. Bradford." Surely, the visitor knows the name of the person he came to see.

Q I can't decide between two good friends for the role of best man at my wedding. Would it be all right for me to have two "best men"?

A. Sorry; the maximum is one best man. You can, however, designate one of these good friends of yours as head usher, which is a position almost equal to that of best man.

Q. Is it ever permissible to use the spoon for eating pie, especially in the case of a juicy fruit pie?

A. Pie is strictly a "fork food," no matter how juicy it is. And it is not even proper to finish the remaining juice with the spoon either.

Wash 'n Wear means Carefree fashions with our expert care

Free yourself for more summer fun. We'll give your whole family's wash 'n wear garments a thorough cleaning and a professional finish with Perclene perchorethylene. This is the cleaning solvent made by Du Pont — the company that really knows "wash 'n wear."

Arlington Homemaker Serves Dewey Family Chicken Recipe

by LOIS SEILER

A dish served by Mrs. Thomas Dewey, wife of the one-time Republican standard bearer, has become one of the favorite recipes of Mrs. Hal M. Christensen of Arlington Heights.

Several years ago, Mrs. Christensen's mother received this recipe for Chicken Marengo from Mrs. Dewey and she passed it on to her daughter.

Mrs. Christensen likes it not only because of its flavor appeal, but because it is prepared in advance and there is no last minute fuss. "I like to cook ahead of time and enjoy my guests when they arrive," says this good cook and considerate hostess.

ANOTHER attractive feature of this recipe is that it is a "dinner in one" dish. In addition to the chicken, it lists such vegetables as mushrooms, onions and lima beans among the ingredients. Herbs are used for seasoning and the chicken is baked in a tomato-flavored chicken broth.

"This recipe is perfect for electric skillets," says Mrs. Christensen. A regular skillet may be used or the chicken can be baked in a casserole or roasting pan in the oven.

"With a salad and rolls, you have a complete meal," comments this capable cook.

AS A HOSTESS you will enjoy the ease of serving this delightful dinner and your guests will applaud your ingenuity for preparing such a unique and tempting dish.

One of Mrs. Christensen's favorite souveniers from a vacation in Cuba is a recipe which was given to her by a Cuban lady. Called Green Rice, it is an unusual and appealing rice casserole which is chuck-full of nourishing ingredients.

The dish gets its name from the cup of chopped parsley, which is combined with boiled rice, milk, cheese and eggs, along with olive oil, onion and garlic.

THIS flavorful combination of ingredients is attractive to look at as well as delicious to taste. It is an excellent accompaniment for chicken, beef, or almost any meat.

"It can serve as a meal-in-one, too, if you wish to serve a meatless dinner," says Mrs. Christensen. "And it is excellent for children," continues this mother of two boys, Hal Jr., who is 6, and Bill, 2.

The Chirstensens moved from Washington, D.C., to their home at 408 S. Dryden in Arlington Heights a year ago. Although they miss some of the fascinating aspects of living in the nation's Capital, they feel that the friendliness of the Middle West more than compensates for this loss.

"WE ARE constantly astounded and pleased by the hospitality of the people in Arlington Heights," says this gracious young woman. "And they serve such good hearty meals, too!" Which is a testimonial to the slogan of this town, "City of Good Neighbors."

Chicken Marengo

1 4-pound chicken cut in pieces
Salt and pepper
½ cup salad oil
¼ pound sliced mushrooms
8 small white onions, peeled
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
¼ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon oregano
1 bay leaf
1½ cups chicken broth
1 tablespoon flour
Little water
4 tablespoons tomato paste
1 package lima beans, defrosted

Clean chicken thoroughly and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat oil in a heavy skillet, add chicken and cook over low heat until lightly browned, turning frequently. Add the mushrooms and onions and saute until lightly browned. Pour off excess fat.

Stir in the parsley, thyme, oregano, bay leaf and chicken broth. Cover and simmer over low heat for one hour. This recipe is excellent for an electric skillet. Or the chicken can be placed in a casserole or roasting pan and baked in the oven for one hour at 325 degrees.

Mix the water, flour and tomato paste and stir into the gravy. Add the defrosted lima beans and a little more salt and pepper. Cook for an additional 30 minutes. Serves four.

Green Rice

1 cup finely chopped parsley
2 cups boiled white rice
2 cups milk
1 pound American cheese, cubed
2 eggs
½ cup olive oil
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, chopped fine
Salt and pepper to taste

Mix the rice with the parsley and add the milk. Stir in the cheese. (Use less than one pound if you use a sharp cheese.) Beat the eggs with the olive oil and add to the rice mixture. Stir in the onion, garlic and seasonings.

Pour into a buttered casserole and bake in a 350 degree oven for one hour. Serves 8 to 10. (SH PREPARING TO SERVE one of her favorite dinners, Chicken Marengo, is our good cook of the week, Mrs. Hal M. Christiansen of Arlington Heights. This flavorful meal-in-one is perfect for electric skillets. At the side, garnished with parsley, is an unusual casserole called Green Rice, made from an authentic Cuban recipe. Both of these excellent and appealing recipes are featured in this week's food column. (SH

Greek Love Potion

When Christ likened the kingdom of heaven to a grain of mustard seed. He wasn't picking on any old seed, but one of a select group of plants that has seasoned, and sometimes directed history.

Spices have been performing in and out of the kitchen, in medicine, romance and even politics, since the beginning of the world...and even before. For the ancient Assyrians contended that the gods met in council before the creation of the universe and hatched their plans over a few glasses of sesame-wine.

World Book Encyclopedia reports that the Queen of Sheba enticed Solomon with gifts of spices and the Egyptians used them to preserve their dead. The Romans and Greeks perfumed themselves with cinnamon and made love potions out of garlic. They fumigated their homes with thyme and planted parsley on graves.

ANY BOY knows he can catch a bird by sprinkling salt on its tail. ancient farmers, however, were advised to use garlic. The seeds supposedly were scattered on the ground to be eaten by the birds which fell asleep and were easily captured.

Early medics prescribed spices for ills ranging from hiccups to tumors. Coriander was said to be good for ulcers; fennel for liver ailments, and fenugreek, for dandruff. Garlic was prescribed for epilepsy and mint, if held in the hand, prevented the chafing of skin. Hysterical females were urged to try mustard.

Spices however were not for the masses. In the 300's for example, the emperor Constantine gave the Bishop of Rome a gift of cloves saffron and pepper.

And when the Goths beseiged Rome a century later they demanded as ransom 5,000 pounds of gold, 30,000 pounds of silver and 3,000 pounds of pepper.

During the Middle Ages, when cooking was less than an art and baths were infrequent spices were even more in demand. A pound of ginger was worth more than a sheep.

Q. What is the proper way to eat squab and quail?

A. Though small-boned and hard to handle, squab and quail are properly eaten with knife and fork. Anchor the bird firmly with the fork while cutting with the knife so that it doesn't do a three-point landing on your lap!

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

"Gracious and competent hostesses are made and not born. Entertainment is an art which can be developed with practice"—Here are a few tips that might help you the next time you entertain.

Success of a party depends on the host as well as the hostess. He helps with introductions, keeps conversations going and guests supplied.

A hostess must see a guest has become a part of a group before leaving him. If you have planned carefully, most of the work is behind you. Do not serve food that requires a lot of last minute preparation for you are as entitled to have as good a time as anyone. Everyone loves a good party and also loves the girl that can give one.

Garden Vegetables Cooked With Barbecued Main Dish

What to do about vegetables for the barbecue meal is often a problem. All the cooking space on the grill may be taken up by the meat, and anyway, how can you grill vegetables? So you end by serving a salad which contains vegetables and let it go at that.

But vegetables can be barbecued — in foil. In fact, some very wonderful dishes can be made this way, good enough to star as the main dish of the meal on a meatless day or when the budget is haunting you. The technique is pretty much the same for all of them.

You use a generous amount of olive oil but no liquid, and you wrap them in heavy duty aluminum foil. The foil packages may be placed right in the hot coals if the gridiron is crowded, otherwise they remain on the grid itself.

If your barbecue grill happens to be the kind with a fitted cover with vents, keep the cover on for more even cooking. It takes more time to cook vegetables over charcoal, but you can be out of doors while they are cooking, enjoying the breezes and the wonderful fragrance at a comfortable distance.

BARBECUE GARDEN vegetables for wonderfully different outdoor meals. Wrapped in foil, with Spanish olive oil and seasonings to keep them moist, the vegetables need no liquid. Potatos, eggplant, squash and beans can all be prepared this way.

(SH

Featured here are four recipes, Eggplant Espagnole, Barbecued Squash, Potatoes Castilian and Limas Montanesa, wonderful accompaniments to any outdoor barbecue meal.

Eggplant Espagnole

1 small eggplant or ½ large eggplant, diced
1/3 cup Spanish olive oil
1 medium onion, minced
3 garlic cloves, crushed
2 medium tomatoes, diced
¾ teaspoon salt

Be sure to leave the skin on the eggplant; no soaking is necessary. Combine ingredients, place in center of large sheet of heavy duty foil and fold over the foil, crimping the edges. Place in coals or on grid of barbecue grill. Cook for at least 1 hour, preferably 2 hours. Makes 4 servings. For a second meal, double ingredients, keep half to serve cold on the next round.

Barbecued Squash

2 yellow summer squash, diced
2 medium onions, chopped
½ green pepper, chopped
1½ tablespoons minced fresh dill
1/3 cup Spanish olive oil
1 teaspoon salt
Black pepper

Leave peel on squash; combine ingredients, place in center of foil, as above. Can be cooked ready to eat in less than half an hour but tastes far better if it cooks for at least 1 hour — or longer. Put it in with the charcoal at the beginning while the fire is getting properly hot for grilling meat. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Potatoes Castilian

For each serving, slice one raw potato paper-thin, add an equal quantity of thin-sliced onion and a little red sweet pepper, diced. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover generously with olive oil, wrap securely in heavy duty foil. Requires only about 20 minutes if fire is good and hot.

Limas Montanesa

2 pounds fresh lima beans, shelled or 1 package frozen Fordhook limas
¼ cup olive oil
2 slices bacon, diced, or ¼ cup chopped ham
2 tablespoons minced onion
3 tomatoes, peeled and diced
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon salt

Combine ingredients, place in center of large sheet of heavy duty foil, secure edges and bake among hot coals of fire or on grid for about 1 hour. Frozen limas require only 20 to 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Use Salt to Beat The Heat

Father's weariness after a bout with the lawn mower, children's fretfulness following a romp in the hot sun, and mother's "all-gone" felling when the household chores are done may be attributable to salt losses from excessive perspiration as well as to physical exertion.

The salt and water lost from excessive sweating must be replaced to avoid heat-fatigue and more serious consequences.

Fortunately, the abundance of summer fruits and vegetables that have a natural affinity for salt plays into the homemaker's hand in providing the extra salt needed by an active family in summer. Use of a little ore salt in the preparation of foods and the serving of salty nibbles with cool summer drinks are good protection against salt depletion. The body uses the salt it needs and discharges the rest.

STUDIES HAVE SHOWN that as little as a five per cent loss of salt from continued heavy perspiration produces weariness. Heat fag follows in three stages: Loss of will to work follows a 10% salt loss; effort is forced when the supply drops 20%; and dizziness may result from a 30% salt loss. When the body's salt supply drops 40% heat cramps may occur, while a 50% loss may result in prostration.

Heat stroke or sun stroke is the oldest known disease, and the oldest records of the affliction are in the Bible. Fifty years ago in this country it was believed that drinking ice water after exposure to prolonged heat was the cause of stomach cramps and other symptoms. Now it is known that the contributing cause lost through prespiration must be salt in the system, and that salt replaced continually to maintain as adequate reserve.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Is it all right for the "dummy" in a bridge game to leave his seat to watch his partner play a hand?

A. Never. He can watch the progress of the hand just as well from his chair, and he will be exhibiting much better manners, too.

Q. How does a guest know when to begin eating at a dinner?

A. It is generally considered courteous to wait until the others have been served, either at the beginning of a meal or at the beginning of a new course, before starting to eat. Usually, the hostess is the first to begin, which gives the signal for the others to start.

Our Movie Critic Shares His 'Horrifying' Truths

By JIM PHILLIPS

There comes a time in every man's life when he must reveal his innermost secrets—the horrifying truths he has kept to himself—in this case, the little-known facts about movies. The following "moments of truth" are excerpts from a book I am writing entitled "I Passed For An 'Adult ONLY' At The Saturday Matinee!" As soon as I can find a publisher who is looney enough to print the thing, you'll be able to endure the whole works. At any rate, here goes. . .

PERSONALITIES OF THE CINEMA DEPT.:

Did you know that the real voice behind the singing of Deanna Durbin was Jane Withers? Did you also know that. . .

Elephants really hate Sabu?

During the MGM Esther Williams musical, the entire Xavier Cugat band almost drowned in the key of B-flat?

STARTLING FACTS BEHIND THE SCENES:

Ever notice the MGM Lion and how vicious his growl has become? You'd roar like that too if somebody was stepping on your option!

That isn't really Atlanta down there in Georgia! The entire city was accidentally burned to the ground during the filming of the Civil War for "Gone With The Wind."

John Carradine will be the next lead in a remake of "The Al Jolson Story."

Chico Marx will portray Frederic Chopin in a new movie entitled, "A Sandwich Isn't A Sandwich Without Polonaise!"

A new movie biography will soon be released by Fay Wray and Robert Armstrong entitled "We Played Ping Pong With King Kong in Hong Kong!" Rodgers & Hammerstein have bought the musical rights.

SECRETS OF THOSE HOLLYWOD SONGS:

"Birth of the Blues" was not released at its scheduled date because the song would have been at its popularity peak during income tax time.

The real title of "Pillow Talk" was "I'll Be With You At Featherbedding Time!" The latter was banned by a movie union as being subversive!

Lon Chaney Jr.'s entire song collection was stolen and names changed. The real titles were: "Would You Like To Swing On A Rope?" "The Girl That I Bury." "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Vat!" "The Ghoul Next Door."

UNDERCOVER AT THE THEATER:

Tony Perkins did not get an Academy Award this past year because of technical difficulties — it was found that if he ever turned sideways toward the TV cameras, he'd disappear.

The rumor that George "Gabby" Hayes got trapped in the ladies powder room backstage in the filming of "Some Like It Hot" is actually true — that's why you see a bearded lady trombone player in Marilyn Monroe's band — out of tune at that!

Mike Todd Jr., has built a screen so big that it's going to take three years to build a theater around it — in order to save time, the Todd staff is looking over one of the Ancient Pyramids for a possible remodeling job.

WHAT'S HOLDING UP THE NEW MOVIES:

Ed Sullivan is having trouble trying to finance his first movie venture: a remake of D. W. Griffith's "Birth Of A Nation" — Ed's having a little difficulty establishing the nation!

One of the major studios is thinking of producing a new spectacular entitled: "A Child's History of History" starring Orson Welles as King Farouk, King Farouk as Burl Ives, Burl Ives as Julius Ceasar, and — Oh, Come Now!!

TELEVISION - FILM SECRETS EXPOSED!:

TV big-wigs are now planning a new series of "The Untouchables." But they're changing the title of the show to "The Italian Hour."

Ezekial R. Klotz of Noodnik, Pa., will be America's number one millionaire sponsor in 1962. He has come out with a product named "Brand X."

One of the big TV nutworks — 'er, networks, will produce a half-hour dramatic show entitled The Dick Powell-Adolphe Menjou - Loretta Young - June Allyson - Zane Grey - Make Hammer Theater — the sponsor is an ex-singer - best - dressed - heart - throbbing - stone - faced - western - hero - tough guy who continually gets his sport coat caught in a door every time he enters a room.

'Golden Fleecing' Is Theatre Fare

A frothy light-hearted farce called "Golden Fleecing" has been chosen as the next attraction at Tenthouse Theatre in Highland Park. Written by Lorenzo Semple Jr., the comedy played to New York audiences in the fall of 1959. It will star Guy Madison and run from June 20 to June 26.

The play's plot is concerned with a scheme of three Naval men — two officers and a math-wizard of a civilian employee—to break the bank not at Monte Carlo but at a similar roulette-wheel casino in Venice, by using the electronic computer on their ship in the harbor to devise an infallible system.

THE ACTION takes place in a gildedly rococo Venetian hotel room which the three conspirators set up as a communications center between the casino and their miraculous calculating machine, by means of signalling to and from the ship with a blinker light.

Their mysterious signals, naturally, draw the attention of security officers who think a spy system is at work, and this brings down upon them not only the gruff, unsympathetic admiral but also the admiral's pretty daughter, who adds a romantic complication to the get-rich-quick scheme.

"Golden Fleecing" will be directed by Gordon Davidson.

The Cook

There is one thing more exasperating than a wife who can cook and won't, and that's the wife who can't cook and will.—Robert Frost.

Old Town Art Fair Really Delightful

By LUCILLE BLACKWOOD

The 63rd annual exhibition of Chicago area artists opened at the Art Institute, last Wednesday. Out of some 1,600 entries, the judges found 108 works worth showing.

Such a small group, for supposedly the areas most encompassing exhibition. Has the area shrunk and hundreds of its artists fled? Or is the Institute shrunken in showing again and again, the sensational, in some cases the incomprehensible and confusing 'art for the arty,' not art for the people?

Most of the modern painters are exciting, vibrant, alive. It seems for the Institute, you must just be different . . . or indifferent. In such a large and busy city, teeming with talent, originality and variety; there must be more for the Institute to show with pride.

IF OUR artists have fled, they left for Old Town. The Art Fair held Saturday and Sunday was a delight. Despite low clouds and dreary weather, the area around Lincoln Park West and Menominee Street sparkled with color.

Sculpture, pottery, silk screen, oils, water color, puppets and a miriad of crafts of all description were displayed. The attendance was off, but the spectators that "chickened out" missed some wonderful sights and buys. The complete roll of talent was impressive. Perhaps this was, in reality, the area show.

COMING UP. "An Affair of Art" in Northbrook. Sponsored by the Friends of Northbrook Library at Northbrook Shopping Center, Waukegan rd., north of Shermer ave. Saturday and Sunday, June 25th and 26th. Interested artists phone CRestwood 2-2580.

Borchard-Jurgens show, June 26 for one month at Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights.

Third Annual Rolling Meadows Art Fair at Rolling Meadows Shopping Center, Wilke and Kirchoff rds.

Northwest Art Center, 715 Palatine rd., Arlington Heights, is interested in art books for its library. If you have any to donate, contact the Center between one and four any afternoon and they will be gratefully received.

Next week if you come along with me, we'll go snooping. Right into one of our local artist's studio. We'll find out what makes a painter tick and why. If you have a favorite, for future snooping, let me know and we will get there if it can be done. (Bill

Our Judgment Not True on Ourself

By
LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

It is difficult to fool other people for long. They soon get to know whether you are honest and sincere, or dishonest and conniving. They know and understand your weakness and your strength with almost uncanny accuracy, born of a lifetime of observance and experience.

Undoubtedly, you know other people much better than you will ever know yourself. People may know you are just careless, when you excuse your mistakes by saying you are tired. We tell ourselves that we are cautious when we are afraid, good when we are evil. We seek to hide our real selves from the world, but most of all, from ourselves.

NO ONE should rely on his own judgement when he tries to measure his character, or list his faults. We need only to look about us to see the thousands of people with warped judgement, to realize that we, too, might well be in that category. People become thieves because of their wrong outlook on life. Drunkards justify their heavy drinking so that it is acceptable and excusable to themselves. Immoral people of every type can find in their warped and twisted moral codes, the effrontery to believe that they are not immoral. A wife can find justification for hating her husband; a man for abusing his wife, or for his infidelity. There is nothing that man can do that he can not, to his own mind at least, justify.

So, if you and I wish to really know ourselves, and change for the better, we should go to a more reliable source than our own hearts and minds for the truth about ourselves. And we might well start with Christ's Sermon on the Mount as a measure of our characters, which we can find in Matthew, chapters five, six and seven.

MOST OF US know what is right and good; but we find that it is often embarrassing, or costly, or requires great self denial to do right. So we seek to justify ourselves in doing wrong. It is then that a good, well disciplined childhood and a good knowledge of the Bible and faith in God can buttress our weakness. In those times of temptation, we should indeed, "Trust in the Lord, and lean not unto 'our' own understanding"—or, perhaps, misunderstanding.

Bank Offers New Credit Card Plan

Participation of the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. of Park Ridge in the International Charge family credit card plan has been announced by Lyman Sorensen, Vice Chairman of the Board.

Beginning June 15, 18,000 Northwest Suburban and Chicago residents will receive International Credit Cards through the bank. Over 100 local merchants have already signed to participate in the program.

Under the plan, International Credit Card holders may charge purchasers and services at all merchant member establishments in Chicago and suburbs. In addition, International Credit Cards are honored by merchants in major areas of the United States, Canada and Hawaii.

ACCORDING to Sorensen, card holders charging purchases have up to 25 days from billing date to pay. They may also use an optional revolving charge plan which permits them to budget payments over a 10-month period by paying a small service charge.

More than 1,000,000 families in other communities now hold International Credit Cards honored by nearly 40,000 merchants of all types. Included are major department stores, variety and specialty shops, restaurants, motels, hotels, transportation, beauty shops, garages, car rental services and numerous others.

International Credit Cards are issued without charge. Applications are available at Citizens Bank & Trust Co. in Park Ridge and all merchant member stores. (B8

Motor Club Offers Vacation Advice

If you are, the Chicago Motor Club suggests you check off the following list before leaving home:

1. Notify the circulation department of your newspaper to have the paper sent to your vacation address, or tell them to stop delivery while you're away. Also, tell the milkman and others who make regular deliveries to your home that you'll be away.

2. Turn off your refrigerator and other utilities.

3. Provide for the care of your garden and house plants.

4. Provide for your pets.

5. Arrange for someone to pick up your mail; if necessary, have it forwarded.

6. Be sure all exterior doors and windows are locked.

7. NOTIFY neighbors and local police that you're taking a trip and that you have asked no one to move anything from your home or apartment.

8. Leave window shades only part-way down.

9. Don't leave a note in the mailbox for prospective guests announcing that you've gone.

10. Plan your trip well in advance, including your itinerary, places to visit, accommodations, points of interest, route information, and maps. Leave a copy of this itinerary with a relative or friend.

11. Make sure you have a car registration certificate and valid driver's license — both with the correct address on them.

12. Remember to take along such essential items as a thermos bottle, camera and film, personal effects, sun glasses, first aid kit, travelers checks, check book, flashlight, and Motor Club and insurance credentials. (B8
